A Vindication. We publish the following extract from the Paterson, N. J., Daily Press, of February 21st, which may be interesting to the friends of Major Fonda in this community.

The author, Judge Comstock, is a gentleman long and favorably known in legal circles, and who has for nearly thirty years past occupied prominent legal and judicial positions in New York and New Jersey.

"A copy of the following article was this day mailed to The Omaha Republican, because many of the friends of Mr. Fonda in this city do not believe the gross charges published against him in that organ:

PATERSON, N. J., Feb. 21. To the editor of the Omaha Republican: In behalf of several gentlemen of this city, who know whereof they speak, it is respectfully urged that your issue to-day be printed so that your citizens may see the charges against our countryman, W. A. Fonda, cannot under any possible circumstances have been guilty of the charges which you impute to him. We have known him long and well. Our good opinion of him is not shaken by your article. We perceive that he is attacked by a political enemy. In all likelihood the association of the name which presented his name to the court are political enemies whose dislike, not to say hatred, is further heightened by the fact that he is an eastern lawyer and not a native born—Fonda. Your imputations have been printed in this city and have caused his large circle of friends and former associates much sorrow. But we see that your article has been printed in this city and we are glad to see that it is not supported by facts and consequently is not worthy the consideration of thinking men. It would be well for newspapers in every part of the land who copy this article to remember the effect of such illegal proceedings. A friend, not so much of W. A. Fonda's as of justice, and of the American people.

OWEN'S ELEVATION.

From Single Loneliness to Matrimonial Manhood.

Marriage of Mr. Owen McCaffrey to Miss Theresa Kennedy.

For many days and even weeks social circles on Oak Hill have been in a state of feverish anxiety over an event that reached the culminating point Tuesday, in the marriage of Mr. Owen McCaffrey to Miss Theresa J. Kennedy. Precisely at 10 o'clock the bride arrived at St. Philomena's Cathedral where a large number of friends and acquaintances had already assembled to witness the ceremony. Miss Ella Kennedy, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, and Mr. Joseph McCaffrey performed the duties of "best man," for his brother accompanying the bride party were their immediate relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Kennedy, Mrs. Morris Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McCaffrey, and Mr. John McCaffrey. In this order they proceeded to the altar.

High mass was celebrated by Rev. Father English, the choir, consisting of Messrs. Hoffman, Heine and Hosman, Mrs. John A. Orelghton, Mr. Bethgo, and Miss Morgan, rendering Farmers' mass with fervent execution. The ceremony was made doubly interesting by the fact that the bride is a leading member of the choir and a zealous worker in all matters pertaining to the welfare of the church. The reverend father tied the nuptial knot and pronounced the words that made them man and wife in a most solemn manner, at the same time rejoicing that two more faithful members of his flock had received the high and holy sacrament of the church.

Immediately after the services the happy couple were almost surrounded with congratulations of a most affectionate kind. When order was restored the party returned to the residence of Mr. Martin Kennedy. The bride wore an elegant dress of cream colored satin, with exquisite waist, the skirt elaborately embroidered and cut on train. A beautiful tulle veil enveloped her with its graceful folds and a wreath of orange blossoms crowned her head. The good taste and judgment for which she is so noted were conspicuously displayed in her costume throughout. The bride-groom wore the conventional dress suit, his happy countenance being wreathed in smiles.

A dinner and reception at the residence of Mr. Martin Kennedy followed, and a large number of friends partook of the lavish hospitality of that gentleman and his wife. The tables were loaded with the most appetizing "substantial" innumerable in variety and extent flanked by "servitors" of the most delicious kind. The parlors were warmly filled with presents, which, for costliness, variety and utility, has rarely been surpassed in Omaha. From a parlor set to a heating stove, with any amount of silver ware, the entire list was searched for articles to show the esteem in which they were held by friends and acquaintances, for it has been truly said of the bride that, once acquainted with her, one became a steadfast friend. Mr. McCaffrey is well-known in this city, where he has resided for many years, and in business and social circles he counts his friends by the scores.

Mr. and Mrs. McCaffrey left on the afternoon train for the east, intending to remain several weeks at the home of the bride's mother in Brooklyn, N. Y. The hearty God speed of their friends follow them on their initial journey through life, to which THE BEE humbly adds its mite.

FICKLE WOMAN.

A Hen-pecked "Hubby" Recites His Grievances in the Bars of a Reporter.

A middle-aged man appeared at THE BEE office yesterday, giving his name as Franklin M. Yaw, and wanted it published to the world that his wife had left him and found favor in the eyes of "another man. He had

MARRIED HER IN RASTE and had been repenting ever since. "We were married on the 24th of last July," he said, with a sigh that testified to the depth of his misery, "and in three days she deserted me."

"Where did she go?" "She went to a hotel with Charley Zeller, a hack-driver, who then worked at the Chokered barn, and had 'gone with her' a good deal before I married. I soon went away to work on the railroad, and was gone over a month. When I returned she wanted to come back and live with me, and I consented. In about three weeks she left me again, but soon returned, sick, and I took her back."

"Why does she act so,—do you know?" "Well, she believes everything that is said to her by others, and they have led her astray. She has been receiving letters of late from some one, I don't know who, and has said to me that she was MARRIED TWICE BEFORE she married me, and can show no bill of divorce, and last Monday she left me again on my back—down with the diphtheria—with some fellow—"

"Where did she go?" "She is working out somewhere in town. She sent word to me yesterday to ask how I was getting along and to see if I wanted her to come back."

"Has there been any difficulty between you and your wife?" "There never was."

"Scarcely—she is high-tempered, and we had words now and then; but that is all. A man left word at my house (northwest corner of Cumings and Eighteenth) in my absence, that he desired to meet me at six o'clock, near the Bee office, where he would show me how to abuse my wife."

"You met him, of course?" "No; I was sick abed."

"Do you know who he is?" "No—haven't the least idea."

As the outraged husband left the room he expressed the desire to meet this gallant avenger, and promised, in case of any bloodshed, to give up the full particulars of the encounter.

THE STATE FAIR.

Important Meeting of the State Board of Agriculture.

New Premiums Offered—Request to the G. A. R.

The board of managers of the state board of agriculture met at 9 o'clock yesterday at the Withell Hotel. There were present, Messrs. J. T. Clarkson, of Schuyler, J. C. McBride, of Lincoln, G. W. E. Dorsey, (chairman), of Fremont, J. F. Kinney, of Nebraska City, C. C. H. Walker, of Bloomington, A. D. Williams, of Hastings, and Chris. Hartman, of Omaha.

The committee previously appointed to draft an expression on the grain inspection of Illinois reported as follows, the secretary being instructed to send a copy of the report to A. M. Wright, of the Chicago board of trade.

Resolved, By the board of managers of the state board of agriculture of the state of Nebraska, that the effort being made by the board of trade of the city of Chicago to correct the grain laws of Illinois, which have been received in this city has our sympathy and we fully concur in the movement that has been inaugurated to give to the producers of grain in this state a fair and impartial grading of all their products. Nebraska being a grain producing state and our people being deeply interested in this movement, we earnestly ask that the petition presented by the committee of the board of trade may be granted.

The following was unanimously concurred in by the board, the secretary was instructed to transmit a copy of the same to the commanding officer of the G. A. R. in Nebraska:

GENTLEMEN:—We regret to notice that the meeting of the Grand Army of the Republic is appointed for the time that a large portion of our countrymen will be held as preparatory to commencing their exhibits to the state fair September 12. We beg also to state that the arrangements for the state fair have proceeded so far that it is now impossible to change its time. In view of these facts we respectfully ask if it will be practicable for you to so change the time of your encampment as to avoid the inconvenience of all parties being injured to all parts concerned, and particularly to the agricultural interests of the state.

Judge Kinney offered the following resolution which was adopted: Resolved, That in the exhibition of stock for premiums that the superintendent of stock be instructed to exclude from the arena all persons, except the judges and the persons in charge; and that in no case shall members of the state board of Agriculture be admitted within the arena during the exhibition and awards.

MONDAY NIGHT. The following proceedings were had by the board at a meeting held at the same place Monday at which were present: G. W. E. Dorsey, chairman; Messrs. Walker, Kinney, Williams, J. T. Clarkson, president, and J. C. McBride, secretary.

The secretary was directed to invite the fish commission to make a display of fish at the fair.

W. C. B. Allen, offered a special premium of $100 for the best steer, heifer or bull for the best score of corn raised by any boy in Nebraska under twenty-one years of age. Accepted.

He also offered a silver cup for the greatest quantity of butter made from one cow during any month of 30 consecutive days during the year 1881, etc.

The secretary was directed to place same in the premium list.

The sum of $25 was offered as a premium for the best display of earthen ware and terra cotta, etc.

The following resolution was introduced: Resolved, That a purse of $100 be offered for gentlemen's roadsters, commencing to horses that are not and have not been used for racing purposes, said horses to be driven to wagon and by the owners of said horses, the money to be divided as follows: $25 to the first, $40 to the second, $20 to the third, and $15 to the fourth, an entrance fee of 10 per cent. to be paid on entering. Laid over until next meeting.

The following was adopted: Resolved, That the late change in the secretaryship of the State Board of Agriculture make it necessary for the board to conduct business properly that the books and papers belonging to the office be transferred to our new secretary as early as possible, and that the late secretary be requested to furnish general McBride with the books, papers and records pertaining to the office, at his earliest convenience.

LADY MARY. The Bogus Lord Writes to His "Old Girl" Acknowledging Receipt of Funds.

Among the miscellaneous articles found among the effects of the bogus Lord Pelham Clinton, which were sold at auction Saturday, was the following epistle addressed to "The Lady Mary Pelham Clinton, Barnwell, England, Somersetshire, England."

OMAHA, Neb., May 10th, 1880. MY DEAR MARY—I suppose you will not feel surprised when you see this heading, and if you look on the map of America you will find it a beastly way out of the most civilized nation—almost as bad as Texas. I left O. I did not like him. We got to fighting last, he was such a cur, and treated his wife so very badly. I received the fifty pounds you sent me and I am awfully obliged to you, old girl, for your kindness, it came as a relief to me. If you can send the other fifty soon I shall be very glad as I have rather overdrawn my allowance from the governor. I wish he would let me have two or three thousand pounds. I would put it in the bank and I would get it out with some other fellows who are going into sheep, near here. I know if you try and talk to him, he may do it. I assure you it would be a awfully good thing for me. I could make at least twenty-five per cent; that is what Close says, in fact he will guarantee it. I would be much better for me to remain out here for a few years than to come home, and you know if I were home, I should spend more than two thousand pounds in three or four years, and here I can be making money. I saw Sir Arthur Kennedy and Lord Hervey Phillips pass through here the other day and I explained it
