WASHINGTON, April 4-10 p. m. tracts to be read by the clerk. One of them was an editorial from Riddleberger's paper, The Virginian, in which Mr. Mahone was declared to traain by be a democrat, though not a bourbon He also had a part of the Riddleberger bill and speech read, to show the inconsistency of Messrs. Mahone's - 10c and Riddleberger's present position 12 1-2c with that occupted by them during the last presidential campaign. He as 00 denied Mahone's charge of democratic misappropriation of the national school fund, arguing that the alleged transaction was necessitated by the same panic that caused the United States to abolish the sinking fund, and because the state revenues were not sufficient for the expenses. Speaking of Virginia electors, Mr. Johnston denied the charge that tissue ballots had been in general use. He never heard of them except in Mr.

Mahone's district. "What did you say?" interrogated Mahone. "Where were they found?" asked the speaker of Mr. Dawes.

"All ever, thick as snow flakes," was the reply.
"In Petersburg?" asked Mr. Johns-"No; they reported no violence

"That was my colleague's district then," said Mr. Johnston.
"And he has repented of it," continued Mr. Dawes; "would that you

Such reports had no foundation in fact, and had been spread as misrepresentations for party purposes. He submitted a part of the message of the republican gov ernor of Florida to show that republi ans well understood the patriotic and peaceful character of her people, and quoted from EcCauly to show that, though lying might for a time avoid it, but it would sooner or later lead

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS.

The republicans held a full caucus this morning, but came to no agreement as to the course to be pursued. The discatisfied element disclosed itself and urgently argued that it would be best to proceed to the consideration of executive business, but a majority could not agree thereto, and the caucus adjourned without settling anything except to keep up the fight, at least for the present. Further information in regard to the caucus shows that it has been decided to fight it out on the present limit if it takes all summer. The number of those who wish to proceed with executive business is so small that their weight was little felt. It has been decided to ret a certain few confirmations out of the way soon, but when, and just in what way, will be a matter for consideration at a full caucus A great ma-jority of the caucus were unshaken in tion of officers of the senate, and it was said openly that they would stay till next winter, if necessary. The lemocrats are equally firm.

It is announced semi-officially from the treasury department that the foretive to the five and six per cent bonds, which mature July 1st sent out in the National Associated Press dispatches have given the correct line of action now informally agreed upon by the cabinet. Pendle-ton was expected to go, but ill health and important private business will prevent him. The members of these committees will not return before Wednesday of next week.

Some of the democratic senators affect to believe that the dead lock in the senate will be broken the latter part of the present week, or the first part of next. They think the republicans will take advantage of the absence of senators who accompany Sentor Carpenter's remains, to permit the passage of a motion to go into executive session. Should this prove to be the case it is believed the transaction of executive businesss will oc-

Cincinnati's Election. Special Dispatch to The Bee. CINCINNATI, April 4—4 p. m.—
Great interest is manifested in the municipal election in progress to-day. The weather is fine and the crowds about the voting precincts is unusually large. The complication is a very singular one, McMeans, the democratic candidate, is supported by The Circinnati Gazette and the temperance element of the republican garty, while Jacobs, the republican candidate, has the open support of the date, has the open support of the Hathawa saloon interests, whether democratic Jay Jno or republican. Both sides are supplied with finances, and the fight is the liveliest ever known in municipal affairs. The result will be close.
