leans" you will find a minute and precisely accurate description of how the Twigg's silver and swords came into my hands, it having been dug up, but not in Mr. Twigg's garden. The swords were very valuable, being presentation swords, having gold crossngs and mountings, ornamented with liamonds, one given by the United States to Gen. Twiggs, and the other two by the city of Augusta. Ga., and the state of Georgia, his birthplace and state, for his gallantry in the Mexican war. I sent them to Presiwill also find in the faile book. The next I knew of them, happening to be in the president's office at the White House, soon after President Johnson occupied it, I saw the three swords standing in the corner. inquired of the president's private secretary if he knew whose and what hey were. He said he did not; that attention. But, hey were standing there when he came into the office, and that he did not know whom they belonged to. told him, and also told him their value, which he had not appreciated before. I then went to the secretary of the ticasury and asked that the swords be taken possession of and locked up. He referred me to the Rev. J. Dewitt Miller, Pennington supervising architect, Mr. Mullett, who caused a nice strong box to be made, which I took in my carriage and went to the White House, and the swords were put into the box and given to me, and were then taken in my carriage and remained in my library a day or two, until it was convenient for me to take them to the treasury. I then took them there and was the only receipt I had for the de-

Meantime, the woman who ame and made claim for the swords. as is told by Parton, brought suit in the United States court in New York against me, which I, of college, defended, the swords at that time being deposited as I have told you. I was inormed that this suit would be released if I would recommend that they be given back to her. I declined that proposition. I said they did not beong to her, but if they belonged to anybody, by the government, they beonged to Gen. Twigg's children. When the guit was called for trial the claiments, because non-suit. took his receipt for that silver plate and all other found in New Orleans which came into my hands or under my control, for there was quite a quanity captured from different parties, either in attempting to be smuggled through the pickets or otherwise, describing in that inventory the articles by their marks. And I have those inventories and receipts in my safe for your inspection, and will furnish you a copy of them whenever you desire to make claim. The lady responded with thanks and the proper courtesies of the occasion, and there my knowledge of the subject ends. I have never told the story, or any part of it, to any interviewer or newspaper man, and I do not know that I have ever spoken of it outside of my office or my family, and I am in no way responsible for the newspaper article, which contains mainly facts. At any rate, you can make the I have never undertaken to enter
