

COUNCIL BLUFFS.

Matters of Moment Transpiring in Iowa's Metropolis.

Happenings of the Day Put in Readable Shape.

The Result of the Republican Convention.

Commencement Exercises and Other Live Topics.

The commencement last night closed the school week and closed it well. Eighty new aspirants for life's honors and careers have been returned loose upon society.

Officer & Facey have repaired and refitted the several offices owned by them. Professional men like a neat, neat place in which to transact business as well as bankers, and duly appreciate liberality of landlords.

Real estate is advancing. Lots in some localities have doubled and tripled in price since March.

He was leaning against a telegraph pole on Main street. He was apparently about fifty, tall and comely, but rather seamy, sallow and careworn; the fire of genius still lingered on his brow and in his eyes.

How doth the little busy bee improve each shining hour? And gather honey all the day from every opening flower?

Ground was broken yesterday for the erection of J. J. Brown's large brick block on South Fifth street.

The brew factory, on Sixth street, is now running with its improved machinery. This machinery was made at Syracuse, N. Y.

On the market, and among well-informed men on the street, there is a general impression that the Gould syndicate will be very seriously embarrassed by the Mexican failures.

The funeral of Herman Boesch took place yesterday at the appointed hour as per announcement.

Hon. W. F. Sapp was chosen chairman and Mr. Rogers secretary. Eli Clayton, T. P. Treynor, George F. Wright, J. H. Swanson and J. T. Evans were appointed on credentials.

This motion produced a clash of interests and a war of words. The motion was amended by Mr. Baldwin that the chair appoint a committee consisting of one from each township and one from each ward to select delegates, and finally passed in that form.

The following delegates were selected: Jacob Sims, W. F. Sapp, John Lind, F. Right, J. T. Baldwin, T. J. Evans, J. S. Rand, H. C. Steinhilber, E. A. Conaigney, B. F. Clayton, O. M. Brown, Wm. Conover, Peter Ellis, Alf Frazier, Jas. Anos, W. Lyman and W. S. Maynes.

A motion by J. T. Baldwin that no proxies be admitted, brought on a spirited struggle and the thermometer of political heat rapidly rose into the nineties. Mr. Baldwin finally withdrew his motion and the convention closed harmoniously.

The high school commencement was well attended, and passed off nicely last evening. All acquitted themselves handsomely. We regret that the exercises closed to late to give a report.

We clip the following from last evening's Globe concerning the Fairview cemetery, of which we had occasion to speak yesterday.

In view of the nearness of Fairview cemetery to the heart of Council Bluffs, its inadequacy to meet the wants of a growing city like ours, there only being some twenty acres therein; the certainty of more extensive grounds being needed in the future; the liability of the health of our citizens being endangered by exhalation and drainage from the old cemetery, and the prospects of interments therein being enjoined by the courts for the reason above stated, some of our citizens are taking initiative steps looking to the purchase of ample and suitable grounds, either adjacent to Walnut Hill cemetery or at some other unobjectionable place of sufficient capacity and in some of the picturesque localities with which the city is so abundantly surrounded, as will meet the wants of the city for the burial of the dead for all time to come.

thirty-five feet, forty-two feet, or forty-nine feet, as the ratio of five to one, six to one, or seven to one might be in force. Taking the ratio of five to one as the standard, it will be observed that, with the water standing four feet deep, there will be on a horizontal line twenty-five feet of solid earth between the surface of the water outside and the air inside, and forty-nine feet between the bottom of the water without and the air at the natural surface of the earth within.

The last but indispensable step in the process of levee-building is the "seep-water" ditch, which is dug some thirty or forty feet from the inner margin of the levee, and parallel with it. The function of this ditch is to receive and conduct away the seepage-water, or transpiration-water, which oozes in considerable quantities through even the most compact of levees.

If permitted to remain it would render foot cramps about the inner base of the levee intolerably muddy, and would operate as a great disadvantage in case of emergency. The seep-water ditch must be connected with plantations ditches or otherwise put into communication with the swamps in the rear so that the water can be carried away. Finally, as a finishing touch to the new levee, it should be planted with Bermuda grass. If tufts of this grass be set two or three feet apart all over the surface of the levee it will, in a year or two, cover it completely with a very dense sod, and by its interlacing roots add materially to its water resisting capacity. When water stands for a long time against a levee, the current and the waves seriously abrade its surface, cutting it sometimes so deep that an inopportune wind storm would completely break it. A heavy coat of Bermuda sod is a very efficient preventive of this kind of disaster. I have seen at the end of a long period of high water, a long piece of levee deeply indented all along the line, and in some places, cut more than a half through, while adjoining it was a strip of Bermuda covered levee, subject to the same exposure to wave, wind and current, which had not, apparently, lost a particle of soil, and was still firm. From an illustrated article on "The Levees of the Mississippi," by William L. Murfee, Sr., in Scribner for July.

How often persons have been annoyed by burrs clinging to their dress or clothing, and how seldom have they, when cleaning them, given them a thought that Burdock Root is the most valuable blood cleanser and purifier known, and is sold by every druggist under the name of Burdock Blood Bitters. Price $1.00, trial size 50 cents.

Worthy of Praise. As a rule we do not recommend patent medicines, but when we know of one that really is a public benefactor, and does positively cure, than we consider it our duty to impart that information to all. Electric Bitters are truly a most valuable medicine, and will surely cure Biliousness, Fever and Ague, Stomach, Liver and Kidney complaints, even where all other remedies fail. We know whom we speak, and can freely recommend to all.—Ex. Sold at 50 cents a bottle Ish & McMahon.
