

FROM THE WHITE HOUSE.

The Sad Scenes of a Week Ago Displaced by Joy and Hope.

The President's Physicians Express the Utmost Confidence.

His Bearing Throughout the Trying Ordeal of the Best Character.

The Cooling Appliances for the Sick Room Still Being Tested.

SATURDAY'S DISPATCHES.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—The president passed a good night, and is comfortable. The temperature in the room is now sixty.

July 9, 9 a. m.—The bulletin just issued gives the condition of the president at 8:30 as follows: The president has passed a tranquil night and expresses himself as feeling quite comfortable. We regard the general progress of the case as very satisfactory. Pulse this morning 100; temperature 99.4-10; respiration 24. [Signed.] D. W. BLISS, J. K. BARNES, J. W. WOODWARD, ROBT. REYBURN.

The president is cheerful this morning, and takes nourishment regular. The doctors began this morning an examination at 8:30 and will follow it by dressing the wound. The president seems always glad to have this done. The postmaster-general and his wife came first to the White House as usual this morning. Indeed, no one had called before them except the telegraph messengers. These came early and often.

ASSURED MESSAGES.

One of the messages received today asked if the president would be more comfortable in the capitol with the steam fan blowing on him. This is not more absurd than many other messages that have been received. One of the most curious letters that has been received by Mrs. Garfield came from a notorious Greek doctor here who encloses one of his peculiar circulars. He addresses his letter to Mrs. J. A. Garfield and offers his services in the interest of medical science for saving our illustrious and beloved president. Similar letters come from doctors of all grades and standing all over the country.

A LETTER FROM JEFF DAVIS.

SEYMOUR, Md., July 9.—A young man of this city who has a mania for collecting autographs, recently addressed a note to Jefferson Davis, soliciting him for his autograph, and last evening received the following from the ex-president of the Lost Cause.

"BEAUVOIR, HARRISON COUNTY, Miss., July 5, 1881.—Mr. FINDLEY COVINS.—Dear Sir: I have received yours of the 9th inst., and thank you for the kind expressions it contained. The evil influences to which you refer as causing the bitterness felt toward the south, will, it may fairly be expected, give way before the sober sense of the people. If they shall like yourself, detest the sordid trade for which stimulants are administered, I will not, like the telegram you cite in regard to the assassination of the president, say 'I am thankful the assassin was not a southern man,' but will say I regret that he is an American. The crime, black enough in itself, has a deeper dye from the mercenary motive which seems to have prompted it. I sincerely trust that the president may recover and that the startling event will arouse the people to the consideration of a remedy for the demoralization which a wild hunt after office is creating. With best wishes for your welfare I am very truly yours, [Signed.] JEFFERSON DAVIS.

WASHINGTON, July 9, 11:30 a. m.—The president's appetite continues good and no unfavorable indications are apparent. Vice President Arthur called at the White House at 11:10 and remained only a few minutes.

WASHINGTON, July 9, 12 noon.—From president indications today will be very similar to that of yesterday.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 9.—1 p. m.—The official bulletin just issued giving the condition of the president at 12:30 p. m., is as follows:

The progress of the president's case continues to be favorable. Pulse 108, temperature 174.7-10, respiration 24. [Signed.] BLISS, BARNES, WOODWARD, REYBURN.

A PLEASANT CONTRAST.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—The scenes at the White House this evening are in pleasant contrast to those of a week ago. Then there was a tear in most every eye, and not a heart but what was heavy with fear. Where all was then despair and grief all is now hope and confidence.

AN UNCOMPLAINING PATIENT.

The eighth afternoon of the president's prostration has been borne by him with the noble fortitude that has characterized his bearing during the whole crisis. Weighed of course, by the mighty physical and nervous strain, his murmurs at all nor shows signs of the slightest irritation. He is calmly determined to do all he knows and is told that is best for him, and has a confidence in his recovery that is the physicians' best assistant. He has not only relied but enjoyed his nourishment this evening, and that seems thus far to have been sufficient to preserve the standard of strength which to him is small enough now but which would be great in almost any other. He has been less restless today and his sleep continues to be peaceful. He asks questions and talks about the condition of his wound and is always ready to have it dressed when the proper time arrives.

COOLING APPLIANCES FOR THE SICK ROOM.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—The various appliances for cooling the president's sick room are still being tested. It has been thought inexpedient to place cool air in the room through the floor, as these have not been used since last winter, and are thought to be damp.

Air will probably be introduced through a cylinder passing over the ice and charcoal, on the principle of wind sails aboard a ship. The atmosphere is sensibly lowered and is not oppressive anywhere in the city.

July 9, 8:30 p. m.—The official bulletin just issued shows the condition of the president at 7:30 as follows: The president's condition has continued favorable during the day. The reaction this afternoon does not differ materially from that of yesterday. Pulse 108, temperature 101, respiration 24. [Signed.] D. W. BLISS, J. K. BARNES, J. W. WOODWARD, ROBT. REYBURN.

The pulse was taken after the wound had been dressed and when it was unduly excited. Since the examination the pulse has been reduced to 108.

THE EVENING EXAMINATION.

The evening examination began earlier than usual to-night at his request. He wanted to compose himself to rest. The pus matter was found to come from the wound in quantity, and the suppuration therefore is a continued success. The pulse was not taken until after the wound was dressed, and was accordingly higher than expected. Even at 108, however, it was only the same as at the corresponding hour last evening, and half an hour later it had fallen to 106. The other symptoms remain exceedingly favorable.

WHAT THE MEDICAL MEN SAY.

Dr. Bliss says: "He is doing well all the time." Dr. Reyburn says: "The condition to-night is much better than last night." Dr. Woodward says: "We have good reason to hope on," and surgeon General Barnes says: "If the recovery of the president was fully assured we could not ask for a more satisfactory condition of affairs than the present. All is well." The members of the cabinet have not a waver of hope to-night. Mrs. Garfield never will have untill she is dead.

Secretary Lincoln, however, gives a word of warning. "Yes," said he, "the president is doing remarkably. I am very confident of his recovery, but I know that he is yet and will be for a long time a very sick man. I think the general public think he is near or quite out of danger. Such is not the case. There is danger ahead, but the hope is that it will be averted."

WHAT PRIVATE SECRETARY BROWN SAYS.

Private Secretary Brown says the president is doing so well that it is almost too good. We would naturally expect a reaction from this favorable progress. It may not be serious and we do not believe it could be fatal, but we should be ready at any time to hear that he was not so well.

CONGRATULATIONS.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Among the dispatches received at the White House yesterday, was the following:

THOMPSON'S CHEER. CINCINNATI, O., July 8.

The daily favorable bulletins create a profound joy and every face is radiant with hope. The whole people of this, the metropolis of this year State, are thrilled with equal admiration of your unflinching courage and cheer in this extremity, and the president's unyielding fortitude against great odds and the happy termination of his "hold-fast" to that one chance. May your heroic courage and his uncomplaining bravery be requited with final victory in his recovery.

[Signed.] JOHN G. THOMPSON.

INCREASING PRAYERS.

DAYTON, O., July 9.

Our people pray without ceasing for the recovery of the president and for God's blessing on you.

CABLE CONGRATULATIONS.

National Associated Press. LONDON, Eng., July 8, via American Cable.

To the President of the United States of America at Washington, D. C.

Simon Brothers, having just completed successfully the first Atlantic cable constructed on American soil, desire to make the first message through the cable convey to President Garfield Simon Brothers' sincere sympathy and hearty wishes for his speedy recovery.

The Garfield Fund.

National Associated Press. NEW YORK, July 9.—It was expected that subscriptions to fund of $250,000 for Mrs. G. Garfield's benefit would have reached $100,000 yesterday, but inclement weather interfered and little over half that amount was subscribed. Cyrus W. Field sent a dispatch to J. S. Moryen, banker, London, and received in reply the following: "I shall deem it a privilege to subscribe $5,000 to the fund for the benefit of the president's family in case of death—a calamity which I hope and trust may be spared both to our country and his family."

BUTCHERED AND BURNED.

Confirmation of the Massacre Perpetrated by the Indians in New Mexico.

Special to the Globe-Democrat. SANTA FE, N. M., July 7.—Dispatches as to killing the surveying party of the Central Mexican railroad at a point forty miles south of El Paso, near the Candelaria mountains, are confirmed. The bodies were found by F. Bennett, of Silver City, who, with a party of Americans, was on his way to Chihuahua on mining business. Three of the bodies were burned beyond recognition, and it is feared Chief Engineer G. C. Upham was one of them. It seems pretty well established now that Chief Nane, with the remnants of Victoria's band, took the camp in the Candelaria mountains, near which the massacre occurred, have been his hiding place for months. The Indians must have come upon them unawares, as the party was well

ARMED AND COULD HAVE SUCCESSFULLY RESISTED AN OPEN ATTACK.

ADDITIONAL DETAILS. Full information as to the massacre is to the effect that the Americans were not of Upham's surveying party, and that the surveying party is safe. The men who were ambushed by the Indians were five in number, going with two wagons to Chihuahua. Their names are: Charles Greene, of Independence, Kan.; Larrie Fordham, of Boston, Mass.; Guy Levitt, of Indiana; George Wallace, of Taylorville, Ill.; and Charles Haines, of Kansas. Greene's body was burned. The other bodies were all scorched. The Indians were Nanes Apaches. Several detachments of Mexican troops are after them now. It is reported that the Nanes has been joined by about thirty Mescalero Apaches from the Lincoln county reservation. On Sunday last some of the Nanes Apaches, twelve in number, took in the El Paso and Chihuahua coach, six miles north of Lucero, in the state of Chihuahua. The coach was going slow, passing some sand hills, between three and four in the morning, when the Indians fired on it, killing the driver at once and the two lead mules. Thomas R. Pugh, one of the passengers, and son of ex-Senator Pugh, was TAKEN PRISONER BY THE INDIANS.

What his fate is has not yet been learned. The other passenger, Thomas C. Commerford, of San Francisco, Cal., and the conductor escaped in the darkness. The Mexican authorities have already dispatched several bodies of troops to the Candelaria mountains to scout for these Indians, and Gov. Terrasas will order Mexican Federal troops from Chihuahua to scout the stage road, and will also furnish an escort for stage coaches. The coach taken was completely burned, and the mail and express matters were robbed and burned. The roads in Chihuahua are not at all safe, and American travelers should go well armed and in sufficiently large parties to successfully stand off the Indians and bandits, of whom there are plenty.

FOREIGN EVENTS.

THE BRITANNIC AGAIN IN TROUBLE.

LONDON, July 9.—The White Star steamer Britannic, which was successfully floated yesterday afternoon, started for Liverpool, but she made water so fast that her commander found it necessary to run her ashore at Carnarvon Point, twelve miles from Wexford, where she is awaiting assistance, which has been telegraphed for from Liverpool.

ARREST OF THE SECRETARY TO THE GERMAN EMBASSY.

LONDON, July 9.—Count Guido Lynar, secretary to the German embassy at the Court of St. James, has been arrested for committing an atrocious crime with a guardsman. The court has been delivered over to the custody of the German government. The affair has caused the greatest excitement in diplomatic circles.

THE MURDERER UNCONCERNED.

LONDON, July 9.—The young man Lefroy, who was arrested yesterday at Stepney on the charge of murdering Mr. Gould in the railway cars, has been taken to the Lewis jail. He slept well last night, and on the journey from Scotland yard to the jail he appeared very cheerful, smoking and chatting all the way.

REVIEW OF THE ENGLISH VOLUNTEER FORCES.

WINDSOR, July 9.—The review of the volunteer forces by the queen, which is not almost completed, has proved to be an exceptionally brilliant and successful spectacle. The weather is magnificent. The regiments with few exceptions are full. The march past is now going on and shows evidence of careful training and good discipline. From an early hour last night, and up to the time of the beginning of the review this morning, trains from London and those connecting with the Great Eastern, and arriving at this point, were loaded with passengers coming to witness the review. The queen, who was accompanied by Princess Beatrice and the ladies of the court, seemed to be in excellent health and spirits. The spectacle of 140 regiments of volunteers of all arms was never before seen in England and brought forward prominently the real strength and usefulness of her majesty's service in case of an invasion of any kind.

MONETARY CONFERENCE ADJOURNED.

PARIS, July 9.—The monetary conference has been adjourned until the 20th of this month.

A SENSATION.

LONDON, July 9.—The capture of Lefroy, the murderer of Mr. Gould, caused a tremendous sensation in this city. The police received their information from a woman keeping a lodging house at Stepney. Lefroy went there shortly after the murder and rented a small room, but as he had but little money he could only afford to purchase scant meals. The woman says she did not think he was the Brighton criminal until Thursday, but she thought that his movements were strange. Lefroy was arrested at 8:00 o'clock last evening, and taken to Scotland Yard, where he was searched but nothing was found on him. Mr. Gould's watch was not discovered.

STEAMERS LAUNCHED.

The White Star steamer Britannic was successfully floated yesterday afternoon, and went on her way to Liverpool.
