Nindell & Krelle, east side of 14th street. Another consignment of St. Louis pressed brick has been received at the opera house and the Fifteenth street wall is consequently going up again. A novel method of raising a safe to the fourth floor of the U. P. headquarters was used Saturday. A tackle was rigged and fastened to a window, and the safe was raised by a whiplash attached to a wagon. It was a rather curious sight to see a heavy safe dangling in mid air. Mr. L. C. Huntington, one of the oldest residents of the city died yesterday afternoon of consumption.

Sudden Bereavement. It will be remembered by their many friends in this city that Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Barber started on Tuesday last, for the sea coast of Maine for the improvement of the health of their oldest child, Edith, a little girl of about ten years of age. It will be learned with sorrow that they returned Saturday bringing with them the lifeless body of the beautiful little girl. They had gone on their journey as far as Chicago, when the little girl suddenly became worse and died. They immediately started on the return journey to their home in this city. The funeral took place Sunday from the residence of the parents, at 1215 California street, at 4 o'clock p. m. The little child had been suffering for about a year from an affection of the heart. As a last resort the parents undertook a change of climate, hoping it would result favorably. The death of the little girl is a very severe blow to the parents.

PERSONALS. Senator Van Wyck, was in the city Saturday. Hon. N. S. Howard, of Lincoln, is a guest at the Creighton house. W. Postern, of Kearney, spent the Sabbath at the Canfield house. Geo. Canfield, proprietor of the Canfield house, will start in a few days for a vacation up among the lakes of Minnesota. W. A. Porter, and Misses E. M. Porter, J. Porter and A. M. Porter, compose a party of Philadelphians, who remain at the Withnell over Sunday. Mrs. J. Morris, of this city, is quite sick. Rev. Moses F. Shin was reported last night as being in a dying condition.

Misplaced Confidence. What might have developed into a scandal of considerable dimensions was unearthed yesterday afternoon by a Bee reporter. The facts are about these: A well-known business man of this city has been on a rather intimate terms with a married woman for some time past. In order to have the object of his affections near him the business man employed the woman in his store at some light work. For two months and more past he has been missing money, but did not, for an instant, suspect the woman to be the thief. Finally he resolved to know for a certainty who the guilty party was, and he put up a scheme to catch the culprit. Yesterday, to his great surprise, he found that it was the woman who had been robbing him. An explanation followed. It appears that about two hundred dollars had been taken. The money was refunded and nothing further will be done in the affair.

Railroad to Atchison. Frank S. Hammond and J. H. Beeson, two Atchison gentlemen, are in the city registered at the Creighton House. They have secured the contract for building the Missouri Pacific road from this city to Atchison, and are in Omaha to complete arrangements to undertake the work. The distance between the two points is about one hundred and thirty miles. The gentlemen say they expect to be able to begin work about twenty days hence, after which time it will be pushed through as rapidly as possible.

PASSED AWAY.

Senator Hitchcock's Death at His Home Yesterday.

A Public Man's Career Suddenly Come to a Close.

Causes Which Brought About His Demise.

Sketch of His Life and His Public Labors.

Ex-United States Senator Phineas W. Hitchcock died Sunday morning at his residence on Twentieth and Dodge street after a brief illness. Mr. Hitchcock had been in rather poor health for the past two years. He was afflicted with chronic perityphlitis which assumed a malignant form during the past week resulting in an abscess in the right side. The cause of his sudden death was the escape of pus into the pleural cavity, which accident generally results in speedy death.

His Recent Illness. A week ago last Thursday Mr. Hitchcock had been pitching hay on the grounds surrounding his residence. Becoming overheated he drank large quantities of ice water. The next day he found himself prostrated. However, neither he nor his friends regarded his indisposition in a serious light. He remained confined to his room, but was able to sit up and even move about alittle. Friday afternoon his sickness took an unfavorable turn and his friends became alarmed. Towards evening there was a slight change for the better. He was no longer so restless and at an early hour sunk into a deep sleep from which he did not awake until half past 2 o'clock on Saturday morning.

The Favorable Turn. Of affairs on Friday had given his friends hope, but upon awakening it was found that dangerous symptoms had developed. From that time onward he continued to sink rapidly. On Saturday afternoon feeling that his end was near he made his will. He continued to sink steadily until 10:30 o'clock yesterday morning, when he breathed his last. For several hours previous to his death he had been totally oblivious of his surroundings. The soul parted from the body without a perceptible struggle, and those surrounding his bedside scarcely realized when he had breathed his last.

There were present at his bedside when he died his two sons, G. M. and J. G. Hitchcock, Col. Wilbur and wife and Mrs. Peabody, the two ladies being sisters of the senator; Howard Kennedy and wife; J. H. and Ezra Millard, Mr. and Mrs. Yost, John J. Monell, Will Wilbur, Miss Wilbur, Miss Gracie Wilbur, R. O. Adams, and the attending physicians, Dr. Conkling and Dr. Peabody.

SKETCH OF HIS LIFE. Phineas W. Hitchcock was born at New Lebanon, N. Y., November 30, 1831. After receiving a common school education he attended Williams college, in Massachusetts, from which institution he was graduated, in 1855. Among his classmates were James A. Garfield and Senator Ingalls, of Kansas. In 1857 he removed to the then territory of Nebraska, taking up his residence in Omaha, the capital. Soon after his arrival he opened a law and real estate office. In the following year he married Miss Annie M. Monell, daughter of Dr. Gilbert C. Monell, then one of the leading citizens of the territory. Mr. Hitchcock took an active interest in POLITICAL AFFAIRS and as a pronounced free-soil republican in 1860 he represented Nebraska in the national republican convention at Chicago, which nominated Lincoln for president. In 1861 he was appointed United States marshal for the territory, which position he held for three years until his election as territorial delegate to congress. He was elected after a very exciting canvass, defeating Dr. Geo. L. Miller the democratic candidate. Soon after the expiration of his term in congress he was appointed by President Johnson, survey-general of Iowa and Nebraska, with headquarters at Plattsmouth. In 1868 he was superseded by Gen. R. R. Livingstone, and returning to Omaha opened an insurance and law office. In 1871 he was elected as successor of Gen. John M. Thayer.

IN THE UNITED STATES SENATE for the term ending March 4, 1877. In the senate Mr. Hitchcock was a very industrious worker. He served on the committees on Indian affairs, Pacific railroads and territories. During the last two years of his term he was chairman of the committee on territories, a position once held by Stephen A. Douglas and Ben. Wade. Mr. Hitchcock took quite an active interest in the legislation tending to develop this state and for local improvements for various cities. He secured appropriations to complete the Omaha customs house and post office, begun during General Thayer's term, and pushed through the bill locating the United States court house and post office at Lincoln, and secured appropriations to complete the structure. Among the important measures that he originated was the Homesteaders' Timber Act which was designed to encourage timber culture west of the Missouri. As chairman of the committee on territories he framed and

The admission of Colorado in 1876 gave three electoral votes to the republican candidate and upon that as much as anything else depended the election of Hayes. Since the expiration of his term in the senate Mr. Hitchcock had been engaged chiefly as a contractor in railway construction and other enterprises. Mr. Hitchcock was very devoted to his family. About seven years ago he located them in Dresden for the purpose of giving them a thorough education in the German language. Mrs. Hitchcock remained in Germany with the children, while he returned to Washington. Two years later he returned to Europe, and after an extensive tour through the continent he came back to Omaha accompanied by his family. In the winter of 1877 Mr. Hitchcock met his

ABOUT THE FLOOD.

The frequent heavy rains are doing much damage to streets and doing a heavy expense to the city. The only way to guard against this annoyance and expense in the future is to provide ample ways for the water to escape without washing the streets. The shallow depressions at the sides of the business streets can hardly be called gutters, and yet in many instances no other provision is made for carrying off the immense quantities of water sent down from the higher grounds. To raise sidewalks, to grade and provide ample water-ways would require considerable outlay, but would it in the end cost anything like as much as the present arrangement? Only a few weeks ago a very large washout was filled at the head of Oakland avenue and now it is much worse than before and will cost nearly twice as much to repair. Streets with steep grade like Oakland avenue should have the most exposed places protected by ample wooden or stone culverts or trunks. Two or three of these on Oakland avenue would probably prevent the expensive washing. Judicious outlay now would prevent great expense in the future.

THE BLUFFS IN BRIEF. Dr. Maerel was called to Mills county on Thursday to attend an important case. A reward of $25 has been offered for the recovery of the gun recently stolen from Mr. Epeneter. The gun was a fine one, valued at $125. To-morrow Coups' great show will be here and there will be a grand street parade in the morning. Rev. Father McMenomy left for Colfax Springs on Saturday. He expects to be absent about ten days. Finley Burke, Jr., arrived in town Saturday from his northern home looking fresh and hearty. He is the guest of his father, Recorder Burke. Judge Reed is enjoying a slight respite from his arduous court duties. Judge Clinton was on the street yesterday looking unusually well. He is apparently good for many years to come. David Wilding is selling out his property in Crescent City, and will make Council Bluffs his future home. Captain E. B. Hart has one of the finest turnouts in the city, and there are some very fine ones, including Dr. Macrae's, E. D. Edmonson's and several others. F. M. Wolf, of Maryville, Mo., formerly of Harrison county, called at this office yesterday. Col. John H. Keatly is writing up the war record of the army of the Potomac. The first volume, it is understood, is in the hands of the Appletons.

In less than ten years there won't be a vacant lot on Franklin avenue. J. M. Palmer has sold to A. S. Biggs, conductor on the St. Louis and Wash. railroad, seventy-five feet fronting on Franklin avenue. Mr. Biggs will at once commence building a very fine residence on the property. Two men emerged from the portico of the city building Saturday morning with new mowing gears on their backs, going to mow weeds for the city. Seven applications to enter the marriage state were filed with the county clerk Saturday. A gentleman was going down Main street yesterday, and when opposite Mike Nolan's saloon a gust of wind took his umbrella and carried it over the fence into Mike's yard, whereupon the man passed through Sheppard's apothecary shop in search of his property. He found it in possession of Nolan's two bull dogs, who refused to deliver it up without an order from their master, seeing the plight the gentleman was in Mike came out and rescued the umbrella and sent the owner away happy. Ignorance of the law is no cause for man or beast, and horses and mules should not be permitted to run at large in the public streets. Two mules on Avenue G came very near killing some children playing there yesterday morning. The toll-bridge nuisance will be swept away in a few years. The day will come when there will be a free carriage way between the two cities of Omaha and Council Bluffs.

An amusing scene occurred at the city park on last Friday night about eleven o'clock. A man apparently pretty drunk was seen to enter the park and proceed to the music stand. He went up to the door and began knocking vigorously. That not having the desired effect he began to call with mingled prayer and imprecation for his dear wife to get up and let him in. The observers after laughing heartily over the ludicrous scene finally informed the misguided individual that that was not his domicile and directed him again to the street. Nick Schultz is book-keeper at Linder & Kiels. Mr. S. J. Stewart's partner in the law business has arrived in the city and settled down to business. Only two law cases were commenced in Pottawattamie county in four weeks. Ex-Mayor Lyman is out of town on a short business and pleasure trip. Council Bluffs has a public library
