Two Boys Hurt, One Perhaps Fatally.

Two little boys named Charley Barry and Joe O'Hearn were standing on Eleventh and Cass streets watching a train of cars being shoved about, when one of Metz's beer wagons happened to come along. The boys were so intent upon watching the engine that they never noticed the vehicle until it was upon them, and the driver did not discover the peril they were in until it was too late. Both boys were knocked McMillen & Co's. down by the wagon. Young O'Hearn was merely struck upon the cheek and slightly bruised, but otherwise escaped uninjured. The other boy. however, was less fortunate. One of the fore wheels of the wagon passed vertically along his stomach to near the breast bone. The wagon was heavily loaded with beer barrels, and the only wonder is that the boy was not killed outright. The wagon was under the wheel. He was carried to the residence of his parents, at 1112, One thousand teams were counted Chicago street, and Dr. Coffman recovery is doubtful.

THE PUBLIC NOSE.

It Strenuously Objects Odorous Garbage Carts.

A nuisance which requires immediate abatement is that of an open slop and refuse wagon which frequently wends its way through South Omaha to the city limits. The route along which it passes is thickly settled and TWENTY-FIVE CENTS the vehicle leaves in wake a penetrating odor of most able-bodied character. People living down that way would just as soon go through a little plague as to see that wagon lumbering along. The odor penetrates into all corners of the houses along the route which the wagon passes and it requires hours of labor to get rid of it. Following the wagon is an army of scavenger flies, of a slimy green variety, which distribute themselves along the route and make life a burden to the inhabitants. Attention will probably be called to the matter at the next meeting of the council when an effort will be made to either have the gar bage removed before it is thoroughly decomposed, or, if it is absolutely necessary to wait until it is in that condition, then to have it carted to its destination in an air-tight vehicle.

Arrested for Theft

Officer O'Donoghue yesterday arrested Hugh Richmond on charge of stealing a fifty dollars set of harnes from Thos. Murray. The alleged theft was committed in October, but Richmond has been out of town since. The harness was made for Murray by Richardson and only used a few times. Richardson is now locked up.

SPRINKLING STREETS.

Why it may Probably not be Done After all.

The dust will soon become a prob lem again, and there is no means at hands of laying it. The misunderstanding between Thomas Swift and the council committee on streets and grades is still unsettled and there seems to be no immediate prospect of settlement. Mr. Swift says he is perquantity of vegetables on the various feetly willing to carry out the contract as signed by him, but if it is desired that additional sprinkling be done on the alleys to either side of crease thus far this year over last in Douglas street, a proportionately larger sum must be paid. The committee does not seem disposed to do this, and Mr. Swift, for his part, says he will not knuckle under. The prospect of having the streets generally sprinkled is growing beautifully in- in the city. definite. Should Mr. Swift's contract be cancelled it will probably be necessary to go through the same routine in council and being advertised by the clerk. Meanwhile it said that two sprinkling carts have been hired, one by Max Meyer to sprinkle Farnham street between Tenth and Eleventh and the other by Dewey & Stone to sprinkle the next square west. It is to be hoped that the matter of generally sprinkling the streets will not be al-
