THE NATION'S CHIEF.

All is Well and the Next Few Days Will Show a Marked Improvement.

The Physicians Ridicule the Report of Their Cutting for the Ball.

Dr. Agnew Arrives at the White House and Dr. Hamilton Departs.

Miscellaneous Notes From the Capital.

PASSAGE A COMFORTABLE NIGHT.

WASHINGTON, August 14.—Sunday's night has been a very comfortable one. The physicians who were called in to attend to the president have reported that the patient has passed a very comfortable night. The fever has not departed, but there was so much of an improvement over yesterday morning and evening, that they were generally received with satisfaction. Satisfaction almost beyond confidence when the noon bulletin indicated the pulsation for a week, and a temperature reduced from that of the morning, assurances also being given that the wound was doing well, and that the pus was free and healthy. Anxious ones began to think this was to be the best Sunday since the shooting, so indeed it was, taken all in all, but the increase of pulse during the afternoon spoiled what had not fair to be marked as an improvement. For whole days, so firmly had some people grasped the idea that Sunday was a gathering about the bulletin board. The sight of the pulse at 108 was disappointment, but the fact that the temperature was lower bore with it a feeling that all was yet well. At the white house the general feeling was that there was no cause for alarm. The physicians undertook to make no explanation of the high pulse. They pointed with satisfaction to the favorable comparison between tonight's temperature and that of last night as showing an improvement in the last twenty-four hours. Dr. Agnew said this evening, "The president has made a sensible improvement. To-day, we are perfectly satisfied."

Mysterious Murder.

PITTSBURGH, August 13.—Another mysterious murder occurred here last night. Hugh McVay, employed at the pier freight depot, received his fatal wound on Saturday, and at 6 o'clock left for home. At 8:30 he was seen coming out of Vasey's saloon on Pennsylvania avenue. Shortly after Wharfmaster Richard Finney met him on the Allegheny wharf, intoxicated, and ordered him away. McVay showed the wharf master some money he held in his hand and started up the wharf. Just below the river, discovered a man lying in the water. He was pulled out and found to be McVay. There was a great bruise on the back of his head and a deep cut over his eye, as though made with a rock. No money was found on his person and it is supposed he was followed and murdered for his money. There is no clue to the murderers. McVay is about fifty years of age and a very respectable and highly esteemed man. He came here from Philadelphia about a year ago.

Serious Collision.

CINCINNATI, August 13.—A collision on the Short Line yesterday between two freight trains, near English Station, injured James Gilligan, of Louisville, fireman. Doc Burch and Fireman Patton went down with their engine and were instantly killed. Their bodies cannot be recovered until the water subsides.

Important Purchases.

CINCINNATI, August 13.—Judge Hoodley, now in Europe in the interest of the Cincinnati art museum, has completed important purchases, among them Kuno's exhibit, 295 pieces. Cost, $30,000.

Births, Deaths and Marriages.

NEW YORK, August 13.—During the past week there were in the city, 849 deaths, 500 births and 133 marriages. Of deaths 456 were children under 5 years, 225 from flux, and 35 adults from heat.

Stabbing Afray.

BALTIMORE, August 14.—John Kalb, aged 18 years, was stabbed and killed on Saturday night near the corner of Sharp and Dover streets by an unknown colored man. Kalb was walking along with several companions when a colored boy threw an apple, striking him. Kalb gave chase, and as he passed the corner a colored man, who was standing there, drew a knife and stabbed him in the back. He was removed to his home and died in an hour. Several colored men were arrested, but were released as not the parties.

A Judicial Decision Intimately Concerning Newspaper Publishers.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., August 13.—Judge McCrory, in the United States circuit court, has rendered a decision which intimately concerns all the newspaper publishers and editors in the United States, and is another evidence of the tendency of the times to resist the dictation of monopolies. Several weeks ago The Journal, a morning paper published in this city, wishing to increase its news service, made arrangements to secure the National Associated Press report, which is published in addition to that of the Kansas and Missouri press associations, of which the Journal is a member. It is one of the rules of the Western Associated Press, of which the Kansas and Missouri association receives its news report, that no paper belonging to the Western Associated Press or any association taking its news, shall receive or publish the reports of any other news association, under penalty of being cut off from the list of the Western Associated Press, and any subsidiary or associated Press combinations in all parts of the country, with a view to maintaining a monopoly of the distribution and sale of news and to prevent successful competition. When The Journal began the publication of the National Associated Press reports D. W. Bliss, secretary of the Kansas and Missouri Associated Press, issued peremptory instructions to the Western Union telegraph company to discontinue the delivery of the report to that paper. The Journal company immediately brought suit before Judge Krekel, of the United States district court, at Kansas City, to compel the telegraph company to continue the delivery of the report despite Anthony's orders. In the meantime, however, the association held a meeting, and repudiating Anthony's action as an assumption of authority, ordered the report restored to The Journal, but took steps towards the expulsion of The Journal from the association unless the paper discontinued the publication of the National Associated Press reports. An effort was also made to change the contract between the Kansas and Missouri association and the Western Associated Press reports. An effort was also made to change the contract between the Kansas and Missouri association and the Western Associated Press from which latter organization the news came, so The Journal could be excluded from any right or title to their report. This it accomplished, would have shut The Journal out and left its owners without remedy. The latter, however, proposed to be admitted to the association, and a new function to prevent any change in the contract with the Western Associated Press, and to protect its rights as a party to the existing contract. The case was argued before Judge McCrory in the United States district court at Keokuk, Iowa, July 30th, and yesterday Judge McCrory's decision was filed in the clerk's office for the district of Kansas. Judge McCrory granted the injunction prayed for on both the Kansas and Missouri press association and the Western Union telegraph company although the telegraph company was joined as a defendant. The appearance in court was only pro forma, and the court made no objection to the granting of the proposed injunction. The special importance of the ruling of Judge McCrory will be better seen when it is stated that under it any paper in Kansas and Missouri association, the Western Associated Press, or any other news association is privileged to take the National Associated Press report or that of any news association it sees fit to pay for and the barrier that has prevented the development of newspaper enterprise and fostered the monopolization of intelligence is effectually removed. The New York and Western Associated Press and their kindred associations have always heretofore rigidly enforced this rule of exclusiveness and have been enabled to carry out their plans and prevent competition, owing to the fact that up to the beginning of the present year the National Associated Press had no contract for the permanent transmission of its news, and was indeed limited solely to the insufficient facilities of the Atlantic & Pacific company. Now with a full and full transmission facilities its reports can be generally circulated, they have acquired a value and importance they had not before possessed, hence the strenuous efforts of the opposition to enforce their monopoly rules.

THE LONDON "TIMES" ON THE SITUATION.

LONDON, August 13.—The Times, commenting upon the action of the house of lords on the Irish land bill, says it hopes that Lord Cairns, lord chancellor, may now interfere with his soothing influence, but it confesses that the prospect is very dark, and that a storm has suddenly arisen which may have most disastrous effects. DOES NOT WANT TO RESIGN. A dispatch from St. Petersburg says that Gortschakoff is very much disinclined to resign the influential position he has so long held, and that he resents all hints looking toward a resignation. TO SUCCEED DEAN STANLEY. Rev. Frederick W. Farrar, one of the canons of Westminster Abbey, and author of the well known "Life of Christ," will probably succeed the late Stanley as dean of Westminster.

Exciting Sparring Match.

CHICAGO, August 14.—Three thousand people attended the exciting sparring match at McCormick hall last night between John L. Sullivan of Boston, champion heavy weight boxer of the world, and James Dalton of Chicago. The sparring lasted forty minutes, four rounds of three and a half minutes each. Dalton was knocked out of time in the fourth round, and Sullivan declared the winner. The champion was in splendid condition and Chicago too soft to take his terrific sweeping right hands. Dalton exhibited considerable skill, and was cheered throughout for his grit in standing up to his severe punishment. Several other boxers had a set, among them Billy Madden, Sullivan's trainer, and Prof. John Buck, the champion of California, which was a fine exhibition of skill.

Exciting Sparring Match.

LONDON, August 13.—The cabinet meeting considered the land crisis bill, and the members during the session, the attorney-general for Ireland was sent for and asked the cabinet to benefit by his views on the subject. The interchange of opinions among the leaders of both houses strengthens the opinion that if negotiations for a compromise now fail, the government will not dissolve parliament but will take a recess till September, when the question can be taken up as it now is and deliberately fought out.

Welcoming Rains.

KANSAS CITY, August 13.—A dispatch to The Evening Star says a good rain fell all through this section of the country last night. Advices from the country around about indicate that rain came too late for early corn, but that it has benefited late corn immensely, and farmers this morning are feeling jubilant.

The Mathews' Assassination.

LITTLE ROCK, Aug. 13.—Advices from Perry county report the trial over and Peyton held as principal, and Imos as an accomplice, in the case of the assassination of Mathews. They will be brought in a round-about way to the city, and taken to Benton, where he will be jailed. The Quapan Guards on duty at Perryville have been ordered home.

Striking Brickmakers.

CINCINNATI, August 13.—The striking brickmakers returned to work this morning, their employers having granted the fifty cents advance asked.

Mr. J. P. Murphy, of Springfield, Tenn., states the following facts:

My wife has been suffering with neuralgia and paralysis for fifteen or eighteen months. She finally lost the use of her limbs and had to be moved in her bed. Notwithstanding the best medical attention she could not find relief. I also tried many different kinds of liniments but none did her any good. Happening to be in Mr. W. W. Eckles' drug store, I was told by him of St. Jacobs Oil and he insisted upon my taking and trying a bottle. I did so, and by the time she had used about two-thirds of the oil, she could walk over the house by the aid of a stick. She has been using it since, and to-day is able to get around anywhere and do all the work about the house. I had a very bad attack of colic; took five drops internally and was cured at once. I heartily endorse the remedy to be just what it is recommended.
