AFTERNOON BULLETINS.

WASHINGTON, August 25.—The president's condition at present gives little reason for encouragement. In fact, the public mind has been infused with the idea that he cannot recover, and again this morning, when it appears, devoted to the consideration of the advisability of the removal of the patient from the white house. The president is restless and continually expresses a desire for a change of scene and the doctors are agreed that it would be beneficial, but it is deemed impracticable at present. The conference last night continued until after midnight, and was reopened after the morning dressing to-day, lasting two hours, when the extra bulletin was issued giving the result. The president was restless during the entire night on account of the slow suppurative of the swollen gland. The condition of yesterday was not satisfactory, as the discharging of pus is very small and the swelling does not diminish. The result of the inflammation is awaited with apprehension.

NOURISHMENT TAKEN.

The president this morning has taken nourishment about the same as yesterday. Secretary Kirkwood, the postmaster-general and Attorney General MacVeach were at the white house this morning waiting a decision. The latter said he had been a long time dependent, and saw no reason to feel better now, nor felt better. The wear him away. Postmaster-General James Wood saw nothing. Agnew returned to Philadelphia on the 10:30 train, and comes back Sunday. There is no misunderstanding between the surgeons, although Hamilton would like the removal, although Agnew and Bliss have always been opposed to it, regarding the risk too great. Hamilton made the proposition at the desire of the president.

THE CRISIS STILL CONTINUES.

There were very few callers at the white house to-day. The crisis still continues and the inmates of the white house feel less encouraged than they did yesterday. Dr. Boynton just before noon said he did not consider the president any better than he was yesterday. He was asked whether he thought he would hold his own, and replied that he could point to no symptoms that show him to be worse. It seemed to the general impression that he was hardly so well. Dr. Boynton considered the important features of the case to be the president's extreme weakness and the low condition of his blood. He did not think there had been any gain of strength since yesterday. The wound seemed to be doing well enough and the parotid swelling had not begun to yield. The physicians still keep up cheerful appearance, and insist that the president is not much worse, if at all, but the outside public is again coming to the conclusion that he is worse.

OFFICIAL.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, August 25, 8:30 a. m.—The president slept most of the night. He has taken liquid food by the mouth at stated intervals and in sufficient quantities, so that the emaciation has not been renewed. No medication of the parotid swelling has yet been observed. His general condition is much the same as at this time yesterday. Pulse 106, temperature 98.5, and respiration 18.

An Eye Kicked Out.

National Associated Press.

CHICAGO, August 25.—At midnight Dan McDonald, a waiter in a restaurant, while drunk had his eye kicked out by a Russian, who escaped.

Egypt to abolish slavery by a process of gradual emancipation, and the success of the lamelites are to go out of their bondage forever. Within a few days a proclamation will be issued by the Khedive prohibiting further addition to the slave in his dominion, so that with the death of the existing slaves slavery itself will die. Slavery has always been mild and very limited in Egypt, at least under Mohammedanism. The Koran prohibits Moslems from keeping their coreligionists in slavery. Neither Mohammed nor his successors made slaves of their conquered enemies until the Crusades, when the Christian Knights, by enslaving their Mohammedan captives, provoked retaliation. The Egyptians, however, have always kept a number of infidel slaves, mostly negroes from more southerly parts of Africa. These have gradually been growing fewer, and, in all Mohammedan countries the form of slavery has not only been mild, but has existed as a political rather than a social institution. It has been possible for the slaves to easily obtain his liberty, and to attain to high social position. The number of slaves in Egypt is now small, and the slaves are mostly in the south and on the frontiers, where the laws against the slave trade cannot be adequately enforced.

Fooling With Electricity.

Chicago Tribune.

A man named George Leonard Smith entered the station of the Brush Electric Light company on Ganson street, about 11 o'clock to-night, and reaching over the railing took hold of one of the brushes, a small copper wire where is collected the electricity. Making the remark that he would stop the machine, he took hold of the other brush, where the current is generated, and he dropped over the railing dead. It was necessary to stop the machine to release him.

Quiet at Orange.

National Associated Press.

HOUSTON, Tex., August 24.—Affairs at Orange, Texas, lately the scene of wholesale killing at the hands of outraged citizens, were temporarily quieted to-day. The jail was taken possession of by the military and prisoners protected. The kangaroo court that was to determine the fate of Charles Delno was not held. The adjacent swamps are still being searched for the outlaws who succeeded in making their escape. No particulars can be obtained by wire and the railroad agent, telegraph operator and newspaper correspondents have been driven out of town. Further trouble, however, is expected.

THE WOUNDED CHIEF.

which his condition may warrant. We are, moreover, unanimously of the opinion that at no time since the injury has the president exhibited any symptoms of malaria.

OFFICIAL.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, August 25—12:30 p. m.—Since the issue of this morning's bulletin a rise in the president's temperature similar to that which occurred yesterday morning has been observed. His pulse is somewhat more frequent from the incision in the swelling. A few drops of pus were discharged this morning. The size of the swelling has not diminished. In other respects his condition is not perceptibly changed. Pulse 112, temperature 99, respiration 19.

(Signed) F. H. HAMILTON, D. H. BLISS, J. K. BARNES, J. J. WOODWARD, ROBT. REYBURN.

WASHINGTON, August 25, 3 p. m.—The president's pulse is 102, and his fever continues about as the noon bulletin. He has taken more nourishment since and has had no nausea. The gland remains unchanged and the other conditions show no improvement over yesterday.

THE LATEST BULLETINS.

OFFICIAL.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, August 25, 6:30 p. m.—There has been little change in the president's condition since the noon bulletin was issued. The frequency of his pulse is now the same as then. His temperature has risen somewhat, but it is not so high as yesterday evening. There was a slight discharge of pus during the day from the incision in the parotid swelling, but is now diminishing in size. There is no unfavorable change in the wound. He has taken by mouth a sufficient supply of liquid food. At present his pulse is 112, temperature 78.8, respiration 19.

(Signed) F. H. HAMILTON, D. W. BLISS, J. K. BARNES, J. J. WOODWARD, R. REYBURN.

August 25, 8 p. m.—There is no material change in the president's condition since the evening bulletin, and no indications of anything to cause increased anxiety, except that no improvement is noticeable, except that the pulse is a little less than at 9:30 p. m., and the fever no higher. He has been asleep since that hour, and does not appear to be suffering much discomfort from the gland.

August 25, 10:45 p. m.—The cabinet has gone home for the night, strongly impressed with the idea that if there is no change for the better within twenty-four hours the president must die.

August 25, midnight.—The president is now asleep. No marked change has occurred thus far, but he seems to be a little quieter. The end is not expected before morning, though it is generally conceded to be far off, unless a miracle intervenes.

A QUIET DAY AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, August 25.—There has not been a more quiet day at the white house in the history of the president's case than to-day. The only regret is that it was not due to a feeling of perfect security. By close observation of the physicians and attendants it was shown that the president was not doing so well as it was wished.

Dr. Bliss talked cheerfully, but appeared nervous. In conversation in regard to the gland, his remarks were: "I do wish that gland was out of the way. Once that is cured, we will have plain sailing." In explaining about the incision in the gland, he described how the gland was full of little pockets of pus, just such pockets as two weeks ago he talked about as one symptom of pyaemia. He admits that this condition is the result of infection of the blood, but hopes to see the president rally from the effect when the inflammation subsides. In his opinion this will be several days. All the doctors agree that the inflammation is now the main thing, and the question is can the president's vitality hold out.

THE LATEST.

August 26—3:00 a. m. There has been no change in the president's condition during the past hour. He is now sleeping quietly.

SYMPATHY IN NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, August 25.—The gloomy news from Washington drew together this evening at the Fifth Avenue hotel a large gathering who feel deep sympathy with the president in his great trial. The most intense interest is manifested in every-thing pertaining to Washington. Among the gentlemen noticed in the saloons during the night was ex-President Grant, ex-Senator Conkling, Senator Henry G. Davis, W. V. ex-Senator W. R. Whyte, of Maryland, Gen. Logan and others. Gen. Grant had a long conference with Conkling and Logan. Conkling visited Arthur at his residence during the evening and he had no news from Washington other than that contained in the bulletin.

Dr. Boynton says that the greatest anxiety was about the gland, but he thought he could see a way out of it. Dr. Reyburn early this morning said there was no apparent improvement but the president was holding his own. The wound and stomach were now secondary considerations, and the nourishment taken was sufficient to show better results if the gland did not give so much trouble.

Mrs. Garfield still retains her faith that the president will recover. The doctors were agreed that it would be beneficial to remove the patient as soon as his condition would permit. Among the callers to-day were Senator Logan, ex-Senator Chaffee and ex-Gov. Routh, of Colorado.

DR. BOYNTON ENCOURAGED.

At 10 p. m. to-night the agent of the National Associated Press Association had a conversation with Dr.
