Dr. Hamilton Stakes His Surgical Reputation on it.

Cheering Bulletins From the White House Sick Chamber.

National Associated Press. WASHINGTON, August 29.—9:15 a. m.—The morning dressing of the wound has revealed no symptoms detrimental to the favorable condition reported in the morning bulletin.

At the examination this morning the wound was found doing well. No rapid repair is yet noticeable, but the granulations are better. The flow of pus is slightly more copious and the character satisfactory.

Dr. Bliss feels confident again, and is now loathe to admit that he ever gave the president up. It is well known, however, that Friday night not one of the physicians believed the president would get well.

Dr. Reymann said he had examined them, and they were all right. Dr. Boynton said that the lungs had been tested a number of times about 2 o'clock this morning, bearing in mind that the next stage below the lowest which the president has yet reached would be some pyemic affection of the lungs.

Dr. Hamilton said that a secretion of pus had been found in the knee joint is also authoritatively denied. Dr. Hamilton said on his way to the train for New York last evening, "I'll stake my reputation as a surgeon on the president's recovery."

New York, August 29.—Dr. Frank H. Hamilton said in a report on his arrival this morning, and in reply to a request for an interview, "I think you will be satisfied if I say that the president is going to get well. I have no time to dwell on the subject now," he added, "but the worst has passed and I personally have no doubt whatever that he will recover entirely."

to strangle crime, and intimated that it was the result of a plot to bring about a change of administration in order to prevent the completion of the investigation.

MONDAY'S BULLETINS.

Information just received from the sick room is to the effect that the president slept well during the night. The febrile rise subsided about midnight. In the opinion of the physicians the president has fully held his own since yesterday. Pulse, 104.

At the morning dressing of the wound the appearance of the "gatherings" was so well developed that Bliss made a slight incision in the gland with a knife. A liberal discharge of pus followed. There are now four discharges from the gland and the swelling has begun to diminish.

The president continues to do well. He is cheerful and perfectly clear minded all the time, and up to this hour no symptom of the case has developed an unfavorable feature.

Dr. Bliss took the president's pulse at 4:30 p. m., and found it 104, full and beating firmly. The doctor at that hour expressed his belief also that the expected rise in temperature for the evening would be comparatively slight.

WASHINGTON, August 29.—Dr. Bliss thinks from the present appearances of the case that the evening bulletin will make a better showing even than last night. Dr. Baxter, who has long had no friendly feelings toward the president, stated to-day that if the president's stomach held out and he received necessary care he was now in a position to recover.

Dr. Bliss at 2:30 stated that the president was doing splendidly. The pulse since noon had ranged from 100 to 103, and was improved in quality. Examination showed that the lungs were in excellent condition. The evening bulletin was generally considered favorable. The high temperature was caused by pus which had collected in the gland, and it had subsided since the pus has been removed.

A New Bank in Mexico.

CITY OF MEXICO, August 29.—The Mexican States merchants of this city are organizing a bank in opposition to the Franco-Egyptian bank. The capital of the bank will be $4,000,000, $2,000,000 of which will be raised immediately, and the other $2,000,000 will be issued in bills. The government offers no guarantee to the projectors of the bank, neither do they place any obstacles in the way of their visiting the principal cities of the interior in the interest of the bank, nor to their establishing branch banks in such interior cities as they may wish. The merchants who are interested in the above scheme think they should have the same guarantees from the government that were given the Franco-Egyptian bank, and for this purpose they have prepared a bill, which will be submitted to congress on its reassembling in September.
