All About Susterio's Visit to Mrs Annie Vondracek

At 10 o'clock yesterday the lect audience which usually gathers on such occasions assembled in the police court to listen to the testimony in the case of the state against Joseph Susteric who was charged with attempting rape. According to the testimony of Mrs. Annie Vondracek, the prosecuting witness, she was engaged at half past seven o'clock last Saturday evening washing dishes. Her husband had gone to the Smelting works where he is employed at night. While so engaged Susteric, with whom she had a slight acand seated himself in chair near the door. The lady was greeted him very coolly. Susteric began to talk upon religious matter, but the woman went right on with her and asked what kind of paper it was made of. Mrs. Vondracek replied she did not know, but if he would only leave the house he might take it with him. He had by this time reached her side and with a sudden motion of the fan extinguished the coal oil lamp which stood upon the table. As he did so he threw one arm around the shapely waist of Mrs. Vondracek. She made a slight struggle to free herself, but he placed his other hand over her mouth to prevent her screaming and led her into an adjoining room. There succeeded in freeing her mouth. The Progress Which the Alliance is Making.

The Nebraska State Farmers, Alliance met at the Academy of Music, Lincoln, on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, E. P. Ingersoll presiding. There was a very large attendance of delegates and others, and a considerable amount of important business was transacted.

The convention continued in ses-

The finances are in a flourishing condition, there being a surplus in the treasury after the payment of all expenses for the past year. A committee for the revision of the constitution was then appointed, consisting of the following: G. H. Gale, of Gage; W. W. West, of Otoe, Town, of Thayer; T. FAIR PROSPECTS.

Large Number of Entries Already Made.

Excursion Trains to Run From Utah, Wyoming and Colorado.

The songs of the saw and the noise of the hammer are heard in the immediate vicinity of the fair grounds at the present time in great profusion All of the various halls and buildings are now nearly completed, every effort being made to have them ready by next Monday. A force of over one hundred men are working to arrange everything connected with the proper reception of the exhibits, cleaning the grounds, speed ring, stalls and stables. A great many entries for exhibits have already been made and assigned places in the various buildings, most of them being from places in this attendance is carnestly requested. state. However, many applications are in from other states and territories, and it is certain that creditable displays will be made from Colorado. Utah and Wyoming. It is under-stood that the exhibits from the these will comprise only the products of the farm and garden. However, the various other industries of these sections may be represented, and doubtless will be. Iowa will have a very respectable showing, particularly in stock. Prominent among these will be the entries of S. M. Shortridge, of Burlington, Iowa, who will exhibit a lot of fine Berkshire pigs, and John Williams, of Logan. who will have a number of fine blooded horses. The stock entries from this state are also very numerous and will range well. Two hundred stalls for stock have already been assigned, and it is expected that many more will be in between this time and the early part of the fair week. Stock exhibitors should make their entries as soon as possible, as the space is being rapidly taken up. What are termed the general county exhibits What are will be larger and represent more counties this year than ever before. They will comprise the products of the different counties. Already the counties of Hall and Polk have their entries made, and applications have been received by the state board from Lancaster, Seward, Kearney, York, Adams, Cass and Burt counties for space. Others have written concerning a place for their ex-hibits, and it is likely that they will be represented. The above exhibits will be made in one large tent, which has been prepared for the purpose, and it is known that the display will be varied and attractive. Quite a feature will be the exhibit of terra cotta, which is manufactured by only one firm in the state, and is said to be of a very superior quality. The entries from the different towns have all been made, and will be creditable. Omaha tradesmen and manufacturers are taking a great interest the fair, and will usual, have elegant and elaborate displays of their various branches of testing a proper spirit in the matter. INTERESTING CASE

In Which One Thousand Dollars are Involved.

The case of the state of Nebraska vs. Michael Wallanz was brought up for a hearing yesterday morning before Justice Wright. Homer Stull appeared for the state and Parke Godwin represented the defendant. The follows: On the 31st of August last, Michael Wallanz, keeper of the Wallanz hotel in South Omaha, was arrested on the complaint of Detective Nelighfor converting to his own use $1,000 which, it is alleged, Louis Schneider, a boarder at the hotel, deposited with him for safe keeping. The only testimony for the prosecu tion was that of Schneider himself who not being in the full possession of his faculties, knew nothing much about the case. The justice in announcing his decision remarked that he did not think the state could get a conviction on such testimony, but that this be ing a mere preliminary hearing and having some discrepanacies in the testimony of Wallanz himself he would hold him over to the District court. Wallanz thereupon gave a bond for $700 to appear at the next term of the District Court. Some racy incidents will perhaps be developed on a full trial of the case, as it is 'alleged the man Schneider has been some thing of a sport for some time past and has been living rather high. He is a pensioner of the United States, and receives quite a large amount business. Some of the business men, each year. The particular door which he desired opened and it would be done. The dog ran at once to one leading up stairs. The gentleman opened the door and the dog bounded past him. The gentleman followed, and the dog went at once to the second story and walked directly to the end of a hallway, in which the servant usually slept. Arrived at the door he turned around and wagged his tail vigorously. The gentleman opened the door without man glide through the window on to the porch. The dog saw him too and grabbed one of his heels as he was skipping through. The facts in the case are substantially as man glide through the window on to skipping through. The gentleman caught the other heel and pulled the man into the room. He was at once recognized as a rather well known man about town. It seems he had been paying a visit to the servant and as soon as he could get his clothing together he was allowed to go and the matter hushed.
