THE NATION'S INVALID.

President Garfield Passes a Restful Night and a Pleasant Day.

For the First Time Since Wounded He Enjoys the Luxury of an Invalid Chair.

The Wounds are all Healing and Everyone Seems Cheerful.

Dr. Bliss Details a Conversation Between Himself and the President.

At 6 p. m. His Pulse, Temperature and Respiration Were Respectively 100, 98, and 20.

LONG BRANCH, September 13.—The president's condition is on the whole favorable, although it is reported that some fever is existing during the early morning. It was understood before the examination was made that the temperature and respiration were considerably above the normal, but that he has slept and rested so well during the night that the physicians regarded his condition quite as favorable as that of yesterday.

OFFICIAL BULLETIN.

ELBERON, September 13.—At the examination of the president at 8 o'clock this morning his temperature was 99.4, pulse 100, respiration 20. He passed a comfortable night and slept most of the time. On the whole his condition this morning is encouraging and gives promise of good day.

D. W. BLISS.

The president enjoyed a good night's rest and slept soundly most of the time. Last night will compare favorably, so far as beneficial effects of the rest and sleep are concerned, with Sunday night, which was admitted by the attending physicians to be unfavorable to the president's health since he was shot. The doctors say it would be difficult to exactly measure the improvement of the last twenty-four hours over that of the preceding night, because the latter was decidedly marked and stood out prominently against the stationary effect of an early Sunday depression. Nevertheless there was an additional improvement during the night. Drs. Agnew and Hamilton, after a long conference last night, decided that the normal respiration of the patient was 20 and temperature 99, and they so positively stated subsequently to Attorney General MacVeach. This statement created some comment; but Dr. Bliss says they are so eminent authorities that believed the truth. It will be remembered that both have ranged about these figures for some time. Dr. Boynton was cheerful when he emerged from the sick room, and said the patient was improving. Dr. Hamilton declined to be interviewed, but said he was pleased to be able to say that the president was much better than when he saw him last on the occasion of his previous visit to Long Branch. Attorney General MacVeach will remain here and not join the other cabinet members in the White Mountain trip. He states in explanation that he simply does not care particularly for the White Mountains and it is fully as pleasant for him here forever. He does not feel like leaving the president.

TEMPERATURE AND RESPIRATION

LONG BRANCH, September 13.—At 11 o'clock the president sent for Dr. Bliss, Hamilton and Boynton. They hurried out and the people became alarmed. Soon Dr. Hamilton came out and said to the agent of the National Press association:

"I suppose you are alarmed at what you saw just now?"

"Yes, we thought there was something serious going on when we saw doctors running over to the president's cottage."

"Well," said Dr. Hamilton, "it is not unfavorable news I have to give you as the result of that rush, as you call it; in fact it is so good. I will volunteer it. The president has been very anxious to get out of bed and into the invalid chair. He has desired a change of position. We told him we would

MAKE A CHANGE

as soon as we thought he could bear it. He sent for us because he thought he was strong enough to bear the change now. We found him strong enough and lifted him into the chair. It is the first time he has been taken out of bed and the first time he has used of course. He is sitting in a reclining position now and he is enjoying the change immensely. The president remained in the invalid chair thirty-five minutes, when he was lifted back to bed. No resultant ill effects."

THE INVALID CHAIR.

THE ACTUAL CONDITION

of the president at 10 o'clock this morning is better than for three weeks. His day naps have interfered with the night sleep, and wakefulness have been by some attributed to foreign causes. The parotid gland openings and incisions are partially healed, and trouble from that source ended.

THE BULLET WOUND

is healing rapidly and naturally. Neither wound nor attendant incisions are at present disturbing elements. There is no abscess in the lungs nor pus cavity, and never been recognized symptoms of any. The bullet is fully encysted. The lung affection is fully under control, and has not been more serious than a severe cold, is now about gone and no disturbance from it.

DR. BLISS' DIAGNOSIS.

is correct; the diaphragm was pierced by the bullet and is inflamed, and the inflammation extended to the lower portion of the right lung. Small quantities of mucus from the parotid have found way into the mouth and the exertions of the patient to relieve himself of this matter caused inflammation which extended below the pharynx and caused the depression of Sunday. The patient passed the period successfully and is now better than before. His condition now is of convalescence; he assimilates food and his appetite is good.

THE CHAIR

was wheeled over to the window and the president sat there thirty-five minutes looking out upon the sea, and greatly enjoyed his recreation, as he called it. When he was lifted back into bed the president asked: "What do the instruments indicate?" Answer: "No change at all, Mr. president."

"That is well, isn't it?"

[G. M. BULLETIN—OFFICIAL.]

ELBERON, September 13.—At the examination of the president at noon to-day the temperature was 98.8, pulse 100, and respiration 20. At the evening dressing at half-past five the temperature was 98.4, pulse 100 and respiration 20. The president was placed in a semi-recumbent position on an invalid chair at 11 o'clock this morning and remained there half an hour without fatigue or discomfort. The wounds are making the usual favorable progress and his general condition is reassuring.

(Signed) F. H. HAMILTON, D. W. BLISS.

MACVEACH TO LOWELL.

LONG BRANCH, Sept. 13. The following was sent to-night: Lowell, minister, London: There has been no material change in the president's condition during the last twenty-four hours. He was moved at his own request this morning from his bed to an extension chair, on which he remained for half an hour, and he has been less inclined to drowsiness during the day than is usual. The weather is now very favorable and the physicians think they discover signs of a slight improvement in his symptoms. They expect him to pass a very comfortable night. (Signed) MACVEACH.

BULLETIN—11 A. M.

At 11 o'clock to-day the president was lifted out of his bed into an invalid chair, and at this hour, 11:30 remains there. He enjoys the change immensely. Dr. Bliss gives the following authentic history of the invalid chair used to-day: "Before we left Washington, at the president's suggestion, we promised to lift him from his bed and allow him to sit in his invalid chair. He often said he would like to have the change made if we thought it prudent. We encouraged him to hope that it would soon be allowed. Two days after his removal here he said he believed he

WOULD BEAR A CHANGE.

We believed he was improving, and telegraphed to Washington for the chair, which was sent by express at once. Its arrival pleased the president and he frequently referred to his wish. We promised to lift him on Friday last, and but for that day's depression, would have done so on Monday morning. He had so surprisingly recovered that the question was again broached on his part. We then promised that if his we should lift him about noon to-day. About 11 o'clock he sent for us and reminded us of our promise and asked to have a change made as he felt sure he could bear it. We then lifted him from the bed on his sheet and carefully deposited him on the chair. The chair was elevated as high as it could be and the angle of inclination was at least thirty degrees and up towards forty-five.

THE PRESIDENT

never before since he was shot had been raised that high. He really was sitting up and he enjoyed the position and maintained it without languor. The chair was wheeled over to the window and the president sat there looking out upon the sea. I remained on the floor in another room. In half an hour Mrs. Garfield came to me and said the president desired to be put back. We all at once repaired to his room. The president was asked if he was tired, and he answered: "No, I think I am not. I think it better I should not overdo this thing, and on that account alone I think it best that I should be sent back to bed."

He was carefully lifted up and placed on the bed. His pulse, temperature and respiration were taken immediately before and after the removal, and the figures both times were placidly the same. The president has been carefully observed since and it is certain that the lifting and change of position have had no ill effects. The pulse while the president sat in the chair

but dropped to its former figures almost immediately. The president will be lifted into the chair every day, if he so desires, and his present favorable condition continues, and the circumstances will be prolonged daily if the indications warrant it. Some time after the president was put back to bed I said to him:

"Have you those feelings of weariness any more?"

"No, I do not have them at all. I never feel weary now," he answered.

I then said to him:

"Do you have any pain now?"

"No, he said, 'I do not suffer from pain now. I have no pains.'"

"What is your condition generally at the present stage?" I then asked him.

"It is one of comfort. I am perfectly comfortable. Have a sense of perfect comfort," he replied.

I was very desirous to have him answer these questions. You see, some time ago, when he was suffering much and was much worse than he now is, he used, often in an almost disheartened manner, wearily to say, Doctor, I am so tired!

I AM SO TIRED.

He would tell me at those times that his weariness was such that often after being told he had not been asleep, he felt as if he had really not been. I have observed lately that he has not complained of weariness and has not alluded to any forgetfulness of sleep. I was very anxious to know whether this absence of complaint was due to such as induced him to refrain from complaining, or from the absence of conditions previously complained of. My opinion has been that the latter was the case, and I am gratified to have his own positive declaration that it is so. He talks with a better voice and talks more than at any time previously since he was shot."

The favorable improvement in the president's condition continued during the evening, and at 10 o'clock he was seated asleep, with the prospect of adding another night of gain to his case. At that hour the physicians and all the attendants had retired, and Private Secretary Brown's cottage was closed for the night, and all the lights in that and the house occupied by the president were out, except one that was turned down low in the president's room. In addition to the authorized summary of the case, sent out by the National Associated Press during the day, Dr. Bliss said to-night: "There has been a very sensible gain of strength during the past three hours, and has been every day since the removal to Elberon with the exception of the twenty-four hours ending at midnight Sunday, during which period there was a standstill. The president's condition to-night is one of convalescence."

CONVEYED TO KANSAS CITY.

The Parties Arrested on Suspicion of Complicity in the C. & A. Robbery.

CHICAGO, September 13.—The Daily News, Independence (Mo.) special says the prisoners heretofore confined at that point, charged with complicity in the Chicago & Alton train robbery, were this morning quickly, but quietly removed to Kansas City. It is supposed this was done as a precautionary measure, as there is a strong undercurrent of feeling around Independence in favor of lynching the most strongly suspected members of the gang. This would certainly be done if there was little more positive proof of the guilt. A vigilance committee is being organized by the business men and substantial farmers. The outraging parties have not yet been heard from, and their present whereabouts are unknown.

A Party of Notables

National Associated Press. New York, September 13.—The cabinet party left this city at 10:35 a. m. over the New Haven & Hartford road, not on a special train, as has been reported, but on the White Mountain train. The party took possession of the Eastern directors' car, a small yellow sleeper, and, with one exception, the least luxurious one on the train. The party consisted of Windom, wife and Mrs. Windom's sister; Hunt, wife and young daughter; James, wife, son and daughter; Col. Jameson, of the postoffice; a Mr. Cheney, a Boston millionaire. Railroad Director Lincoln was expected, but missed the train.

MASON AND GUTEAU.

Mason to be Tried by Court-Martial—His Conduct Grounded on Superstition.

National Associated Press. WASHINGTON, September 13.—Sergeant Mason is to be tried by a military court-martial, although the details of the court have not been announced. Under the rules and regulations of the army he will be tried for "conduct prejudicial to good order and military discipline." The court will be convened by General Hancock. The order will be issued in a few days, perhaps to-morrow. Mason's counsel, General J. G. Bigelow, is anxious for a civil trial, but is not likely to get it. The plea of insanity will be entered for Mason, as it is clear he is insane upon one subject—avenging the assault upon President Garfield. It has transpired that he has brooded over this matter since the day of Giteau's cowardly attack on the president. Mason was in Texas at the time and says he immediately resolved to kill Giteau if he ever got a chance. The basis of his desire was, as he states himself, that if Giteau was killed and put under the ground, where no ray of light could reach him, the president would get well, but if Giteau lived, there was no hope for the president's recovery. Last Saturday was pay-day. Mason drew his salary, paid off several little debts, and resolved that Giteau should die within twenty-four hours. The opportunity for the shooting at the arsenal did not arrive until Saturday night.

The Anti-Liquor Alliance.

Special Dispatch to The Bee. COLUMBUS, O., September 13.—The Ohio Anti-Liquor alliance met here Thursday to elect officers to secure the incorporation and place of the Alliance News, a weekly paper, upon a solid financial basis. Rev. C. L. Stanton, of Cincinnati, will probably be editor.

A Woman Was the Cause of It.

National Associated Press. CHARLESTON, W. Va., September 13.—Twenty years ago one French became intimate with the wife of J. D. Farley, while the latter was in the war. French left, but Farley swore to kill him on sight. He returned yesterday for the first time, when Farley emptied a load of buckshot into his thigh. The shot took effect and he is dying.

The Projectors of the Lincoln & Fremont R. R. Ask a Bonus of $50,000.

It is Looked Upon Generally as a Scheme to Head off the C. & N. W.

As Also a Device for the Unjustifiable Gaining of Money.

Special Report of a Meeting of Projectors and Citizens in Lincoln.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE BEE:

LINCOLN, Neb., September 13.—A meeting was held in the Opera house last evening for the purpose of discussing the proposition presented by the incorporators of the Lincoln & Fremont railroad to the people of Lincoln, asking them to vote $50,000 as an aid for the purpose of construction of said road. Doctor Litt was called to the chair, and N. S. Harwood elected secretary. Mr. Gale was called for and took the floor and read the proposition, stating that the bonds voted were to run twenty years at the rate of interest, payable annually, of 6 per cent, and also stated what he had accomplished thus: "That none of the railroads in the northern part of the state would take bonds, but one of the roads made a proposition that they be divided between them." He also stated that the Chicago & Northwestern railroad, and Chicago, St. Paul & Minneapolis were favorably impressed and would assist, but would not take any bonds. Lincoln city was asked to vote $50,000, Fremont county $35,000, Saunders county $50,000, two precincts north of Lincoln $10,000, making a total of $150,000. One precinct in Saunders was asked to vote $6,000, but as the survey which their corporation made would not touch that precinct, no bonds could be expected from them. Mr. Gale also said that more interest was manifested at Omaha to defeat the bonds than at Lincoln to vote them, and went into the merits of the case as serving his interests and the corporation. Among other gentlemen speakers upon the subject were Jerome, Courtney, and Caldwell, who spoke against the project, stamping the proposition as a fraud upon the face of it, and called upon the people of Lincoln to vote against the bond. Messrs. Raymond and Cushing spoke in favor of the bonds. Mr. Cushing also spoke for Mr. John Fitzgerald, who was unable to attend, but was in favor of them. Mr. Courtney stated in his remarks that the Chicago & Northwestern railroad would come to Lincoln whether we voted bonds or not and said that this proposition was a Galey scheme to head off the Chicago & Northwestern railroad and put $150 in the pockets of the incorporators. The whole discussion seemed to be upon the point whether the proposition was honest upon its face or not, and if by voting bonds we will obtain competition. The judgment of the audience present, who were composed of our wealthy business men and citizens, was that the bonds would be defeated.

Prof King's Balloon.

National Associated Press. ST. PAUL, September 13.—A dispatch has been received this morning from the aeronauts, who made the ascent last evening in Prof. King's balloon. The voyagers slept last night at a farmer's house, about five miles from this city. It is said that the gas is leaking, and the prospects are the balloon voyage will not be resumed. There was only a slight amount of air when the professor called "let loose all." Shortly before 6 o'clock last night the machine attained a considerable altitude and then began to descend, and the ballast was thrown out and it went up again. When midway between this city and Minneapolis it again began to descend and barely escaped a tree top, when more sand was thrown overboard and it again rose gracefully, when it at last disappeared from view. It was apparently falling near Mendota. This morning's advices were that it struck a current of air blowing in this direction, and returned to within a few miles of this city.

Another Pennsylvania Disaster.

National Associated Press. MORRISTOWNS, Pa., September 13.—As the freight train on the Philadelphia and Erie division of the Pennsylvania railroad was passing over a bridge which spans Spring Creek, the structure, which had been weakened by flames from burning trees below, gave way and the entire train was precipitated into the ravine beneath. The bridge caught fire and much valuable merchandise of all description was totally destroyed. The loss is large. The engineer, Wm. Kipperly, and fireman, Charles Parks, were scotched alive in the burning wreck. Two tramps who are known to have disappeared, and it is supposed they were burned to death.

More Uneasiness.

National Associated Press. SAN FRANCISCO, September 13.—Arms have been issued to citizens of Arizona at all points where Indians are threatening. At Cooley's ranch near Fort Apache, Indians have driven off four hundred head of stock and sixty horses. There are thirty white families and a hundred and fifty Indian squaws and children at that place guarded by friendly Indians. News from Fort Thomas is that the White Mountain Indians have gained control of the Canon Commanche Fort Apache, making the situation very serious. A meeting of citizens in Tucson passed resolutions urging the removal of the Apaches from Arizona.

Names of the Victims.

National Associated Press. DETROIT, Mich., September 13.—The Evening News to-day gives the following list, comprising all the names of all killed by forest fires ascertained to date. Many more lives have been lost, but the names cannot yet be determined with certainty: Huron county, town of Paris—Mrs. John S. Parkasian and five children; Victoria Mizuro, aged five; A. LONDON, September 13.—A Paris dispatch admits the serious defeat of Iran in Tunis, and on which may result a serious disaster. French troops met the Arabs near the town of Scandour and were beaten in the battle, and the Arab cavalry succeeded in temporarily cutting off the communication of the French detachment. The latter were obliged to fall back as rapidly as possible. The Arabs, meanwhile, were on their flanks and cutting off stragglers. This gave the African cavalry opportunity for successful deprecatory movements, and they took advantage of it to such an extent that they were able to destroy the water supply for miles Tunis with water, placing that city, pressed for water supply as it is, by an unusual influx of strangers, in a position of at least temporary danger.
