

THE DAILY BEE

OMAHA PUBLISHING CO., PROPRIETORS
TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION
One copy 1 year, in advance (postpaid) $10.00
6 months " " " 6.00
3 months " " " 3.00

RAILWAY TIME TABLE

OMAHA, CHICAGO, ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS AND GREAT NORTHERN RAILROADS
Leave Omaha—No. 2 through passenger, 11 a. m.
Arrive Omaha—No. 1 through passenger, 2:30 p. m.

Opening and Closing of Mails

CHICAGO, ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS AND GREAT NORTHERN RAILROADS
Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis, etc., 11:00 a. m.
Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis, etc., 11:00 a. m.

OMAHA Business Directory

Abstract and Real Estate. JOHN L. MCGAUGHEY, opposite Post Office.
Architects. DUFRENE & MENDELSON, ARCHITECTS, Room 14, Creighton Block.
Boots and Shoes. JAMES DAVINE & CO., Fine Boots and Shoes.

Pawnbrokers.

J. ROSENFELD, 13 1/2 St., bet. Far. & Har.
Florist. A. Donaghy, plants, cut flowers, seeds, bouquets, etc.

Civil Engineers and Surveyors.

ANDREW ROSEWATER, Creighton Block, Town Surveyors, Grading and Sewerage Systems a Specialty.

Commission Merchants.

JOHN G. WIL, 113 1/2 Dodge Street.
D. B. BREMER, For details see large advertisement in Daily and Weekly.

Cigars and Tobacco.

WEST & FRITZGER, manufacturers of Cigars, and Wholesale Dealers in Tobacco, 1303 Douglas.
W. F. LORENZEN, manufacturer 214 1/2 Dodge Street.

Cornice Works.

Western Cornice Works, Manufacturers Iron Cornices, Tin, Iron and Slate Roofing. Orders from any locality promptly executed in the best manner. Factory and Office 1210 Dodge Street.

Crocery.

J. BONNER 1309 Douglas Street. Good line.
Clothing and Furnishing Goods. GEO. H. PETERSON, Also Hats, Caps, Boots, Shoes, Notions and Cutlery, 801 S. 10th Street.

Fence Works.

OMAHA FENCE CO.
GUST, FRIS & CO., 1213 Harnes St., Improved Ice Boxes, Iron and Wood Fences, Office Buildings, Contractors of Fine and Walnut.

Refrigerators, Canfield's Patent.

C. F. GOODMAN 11th St., bet. Far. & Harnes.
Show Case Manufacturer. O. J. WILDE, Manufacturer and Dealer in all kinds of Show Cases, Upright Cases, etc., 1317 Cass St.

Stoves and Tinware.

A. BURNESTER, Dealer in Stoves and Tinware, and Manufacturer of Tin Roofs and all kinds of Building Work, 634 Feltow Block.
J. BONNER, 1309 Douglas St. Good and Cheap.

Physicians and Surgeons.

W. S. GIBBS, M. D., Room No. 4, Creighton Block, 15th Street.
P. S. LEISENING, M. D., Masonic Block.
C. L. HART, M. D., Eye and Ear, opp. postoffice.

Photographers.

GEO. HEYX, PROP., Grand Central Gallery, 212 Sixteenth Street.
E. W. TAPPY, CO., 216 1/2 St., bet. Farnham and Douglas. Views promptly attended to.
D. FITZPATRICK, 1409 Douglas Street.

Painting and Paper Hanging.

HENRY A. ROSTERS, 1412 Dodge Street.
Shoe Stores. Phillip Lang, 1329 Farnham St., bet. 13th & 14th.
Second Hand Stores. PERKINS & LEAR, 1414 Douglas St., New and Second Hand Furniture, House Furnishing Goods, etc., bought and sold on narrow margins.

AGENTS WANTED FOR

Foundations of Success!
BUSINESS AND SOCIAL FORMS.
The laws of trade, legal forms, how to transact business, valuable tables, social etiquette, parliamentary usage, how to conduct public business, in fact it is a complete Guide to Success for all cases. A family necessity. Address for circulars and special terms ANCHOR PUBLISHING CO., St. Louis, Mo.

Dexter L. Thomas, ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,

To Nervous Sufferers

THE GREAT EUROPEAN REMEDY.
Dr. J. B. Simpson's Specific MEDICINE.
It is a positive cure for Spasmodic Rheum, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, and all diseases resulting from Self-Abuse, as Mental Anxiety, Loss of Memory, Pains in the Back or Side, and diseases that lead to Consumption, Insanity and early graves.

AUCTION SALE OF MISCELLANEOUS ARTICLES, AT OTOE AGENCY, NEB., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 1881.

The undersigned will sell at public auction to the highest bidder or bidders, at the above mentioned time and place, the following property, viz:
One (1) corn sheller, four (4) cultivators, five (5) hand (200) foot posts, one (1) grain drill, machinery and engine of steam, grain and saw mill, four (4) horses, one (1) mule, four (4) harness, one (1) aridation, one (1) horse rake, one (1) mowing machine, four (4) mowers and reapers, fifteen (15) stirring plows, ten (10) shovel plows, twenty (20) bedsteads, forty (40) chairs, one (1) soap stove, five (5) heating stoves, eight (8) tables, one (1) step-ladder, fifteen (15) boxes, etc.
Sale to commence at 10 o'clock, a. m. Terms cash.
By order of Department of Interior.
LEWIS L. E. WOODS, U. S. Ind. Agt.
J. M. BIRK, Auctioneer.
Otoe Agency, September 8, 1881. Sept. 8, 4-6.

Geo. P. Bemis REAL ESTATE AGENCY,

15th and Dodge Sts., Omaha, Neb.
This agency does STRICTLY A brokerage business. Does not speculate, and therefore any bargain on its list is made for the patron, instead of being grabbed up by the agent.

WISE'S Axle Grease NEVER CUMS!

Used on Wagons, Buggies, Reapers, Thrashers and Mill Machinery. IS INVALUABLE TO FARMERS AND TRAVELERS. It cures scratches and all kinds of scum on Horses and Stock, as well as on men.

CLARK & WISE, MANUF'RS.

385 Illinois Street, Chicago.
SEND FOR PRICES. Jc 24-6a

STONEWALL JACKSON.

A Night with the Great Confederate Leader.
Resting After Battle—Fast Asleep During the Artillery's Thunder.

His Bloody Servant and Favorite War Horse.

A. K. ESTERLY in the Philadelphia Times.
While serving on Stonewall Jackson's staff I sometimes shared with him the shelter of his tent, and it was my good fortune to do so on the night of the battle of Fredericksburg, when some little incidents occurred which though trifling in themselves, were so characteristic of the general's considerate kindness, that perhaps on that account they deserve to be recorded. After the fight was over, when the night cloud had lowered and the sentinel stars set their watch in the sky,

We were riding together near Hamilton's Crossing, on the right of our line, when he turned to me and said: "Colonel, as this has been a fatiguing day and you must be tired, I think you had better return to camp, get your supper and go to bed, for we are likely to have a very busy day to-morrow. The advice was timely and too good to be neglected, so with a grateful appreciation of its fitness, I thanked him for the suggestion and promptly turned my horse's head toward the camp, which was about a mile from the crossing, whereupon he added as a parting injunction: "Be sure and tell Jim to make you comfortable in my tent to-night and not to wait for me."

It was the general's body servant and faithful factotum, as such identified with him in his campaigns as was the "Old Sorrel" which his master always rode in battle and which, by-the-way, was a little like the Scriptural war-horse described in Job, as the general himself resembled the classical representation of Mars in Hebrew mythology. "Old Sorrel" being about the same color—each having the hue of gingerbread, without any of its spiciness—their respective characters were in a concatenation accordingly. For they were equally obedient, patient, easy-going and reliable; not given to devious courses nor designing tricks; more servicable than showy, and altogether as sober-sided as a pair of subordinates as any Presidential Guard could be.

Jim was the general's body servant and faithful factotum, as such identified with him in his campaigns as was the "Old Sorrel" which his master always rode in battle and which, by-the-way, was a little like the Scriptural war-horse described in Job, as the general himself resembled the classical representation of Mars in Hebrew mythology. "Old Sorrel" being about the same color—each having the hue of gingerbread, without any of its spiciness—their respective characters were in a concatenation accordingly. For they were equally obedient, patient, easy-going and reliable; not given to devious courses nor designing tricks; more servicable than showy, and altogether as sober-sided as a pair of subordinates as any Presidential Guard could be.

Jim was the general's body servant and faithful factotum, as such identified with him in his campaigns as was the "Old Sorrel" which his master always rode in battle and which, by-the-way, was a little like the Scriptural war-horse described in Job, as the general himself resembled the classical representation of Mars in Hebrew mythology. "Old Sorrel" being about the same color—each having the hue of gingerbread, without any of its spiciness—their respective characters were in a concatenation accordingly. For they were equally obedient, patient, easy-going and reliable; not given to devious courses nor designing tricks; more servicable than showy, and altogether as sober-sided as a pair of subordinates as any Presidential Guard could be.

Jim was the general's body servant and faithful factotum, as such identified with him in his campaigns as was the "Old Sorrel" which his master always rode in battle and which, by-the-way, was a little like the Scriptural war-horse described in Job, as the general himself resembled the classical representation of Mars in Hebrew mythology. "Old Sorrel" being about the same color—each having the hue of gingerbread, without any of its spiciness—their respective characters were in a concatenation accordingly. For they were equally obedient, patient, easy-going and reliable; not given to devious courses nor designing tricks; more servicable than showy, and altogether as sober-sided as a pair of subordinates as any Presidential Guard could be.

Jim was the general's body servant and faithful factotum, as such identified with him in his campaigns as was the "Old Sorrel" which his master always rode in battle and which, by-the-way, was a little like the Scriptural war-horse described in Job, as the general himself resembled the classical representation of Mars in Hebrew mythology. "Old Sorrel" being about the same color—each having the hue of gingerbread, without any of its spiciness—their respective characters were in a concatenation accordingly. For they were equally obedient, patient, easy-going and reliable; not given to devious courses nor designing tricks; more servicable than showy, and altogether as sober-sided as a pair of subordinates as any Presidential Guard could be.

Jim was the general's body servant and faithful factotum, as such identified with him in his campaigns as was the "Old Sorrel" which his master always rode in battle and which, by-the-way, was a little like the Scriptural war-horse described in Job, as the general himself resembled the classical representation of Mars in Hebrew mythology. "Old Sorrel" being about the same color—each having the hue of gingerbread, without any of its spiciness—their respective characters were in a concatenation accordingly. For they were equally obedient, patient, easy-going and reliable; not given to devious courses nor designing tricks; more servicable than showy, and altogether as sober-sided as a pair of subordinates as any Presidential Guard could be.

Jim was the general's body servant and faithful factotum, as such identified with him in his campaigns as was the "Old Sorrel" which his master always rode in battle and which, by-the-way, was a little like the Scriptural war-horse described in Job, as the general himself resembled the classical representation of Mars in Hebrew mythology. "Old Sorrel" being about the same color—each having the hue of gingerbread, without any of its spiciness—their respective characters were in a concatenation accordingly. For they were equally obedient, patient, easy-going and reliable; not given to devious courses nor designing tricks; more servicable than showy, and altogether as sober-sided as a pair of subordinates as any Presidential Guard could be.

Jim was the general's body servant and faithful factotum, as such identified with him in his campaigns as was the "Old Sorrel" which his master always rode in battle and which, by-the-way, was a little like the Scriptural war-horse described in Job, as the general himself resembled the classical representation of Mars in Hebrew mythology. "Old Sorrel" being about the same color—each having the hue of gingerbread, without any of its spiciness—their respective characters were in a concatenation accordingly. For they were equally obedient, patient, easy-going and reliable; not given to devious courses nor designing tricks; more servicable than showy, and altogether as sober-sided as a pair of subordinates as any Presidential Guard could be.

Jim was the general's body servant and faithful factotum, as such identified with him in his campaigns as was the "Old Sorrel" which his master always rode in battle and which, by-the-way, was a little like the Scriptural war-horse described in Job, as the general himself resembled the classical representation of Mars in Hebrew mythology. "Old Sorrel" being about the same color—each having the hue of gingerbread, without any of its spiciness—their respective characters were in a concatenation accordingly. For they were equally obedient, patient, easy-going and reliable; not given to devious courses nor designing tricks; more servicable than showy, and altogether as sober-sided as a pair of subordinates as any Presidential Guard could be.

Jim was the general's body servant and faithful factotum, as such identified with him in his campaigns as was the "Old Sorrel" which his master always rode in battle and which, by-the-way, was a little like the Scriptural war-horse described in Job, as the general himself resembled the classical representation of Mars in Hebrew mythology. "Old Sorrel" being about the same color—each having the hue of gingerbread, without any of its spiciness—their respective characters were in a concatenation accordingly. For they were equally obedient, patient, easy-going and reliable; not given to devious courses nor designing tricks; more servicable than showy, and altogether as sober-sided as a pair of subordinates as any Presidential Guard could be.

Jim was the general's body servant and faithful factotum, as such identified with him in his campaigns as was the "Old Sorrel" which his master always rode in battle and which, by-the-way, was a little like the Scriptural war-horse described in Job, as the general himself resembled the classical representation of Mars in Hebrew mythology. "Old Sorrel" being about the same color—each having the hue of gingerbread, without any of its spiciness—their respective characters were in a concatenation accordingly. For they were equally obedient, patient, easy-going and reliable; not given to devious courses nor designing tricks; more servicable than showy, and altogether as sober-sided as a pair of subordinates as any Presidential Guard could be.

Jim was the general's body servant and faithful factotum, as such identified with him in his campaigns as was the "Old Sorrel" which his master always rode in battle and which, by-the-way, was a little like the Scriptural war-horse described in Job, as the general himself resembled the classical representation of Mars in Hebrew mythology. "Old Sorrel" being about the same color—each having the hue of gingerbread, without any of its spiciness—their respective characters were in a concatenation accordingly. For they were equally obedient, patient, easy-going and reliable; not given to devious courses nor designing tricks; more servicable than showy, and altogether as sober-sided as a pair of subordinates as any Presidential Guard could be.

Jim was the general's body servant and faithful factotum, as such identified with him in his campaigns as was the "Old Sorrel" which his master always rode in battle and which, by-the-way, was a little like the Scriptural war-horse described in Job, as the general himself resembled the classical representation of Mars in Hebrew mythology. "Old Sorrel" being about the same color—each having the hue of gingerbread, without any of its spiciness—their respective characters were in a concatenation accordingly. For they were equally obedient, patient, easy-going and reliable; not given to devious courses nor designing tricks; more servicable than showy, and altogether as sober-sided as a pair of subordinates as any Presidential Guard could be.

Jim was the general's body servant and faithful factotum, as such identified with him in his campaigns as was the "Old Sorrel" which his master always rode in battle and which, by-the-way, was a little like the Scriptural war-horse described in Job, as the general himself resembled the classical representation of Mars in Hebrew mythology. "Old Sorrel" being about the same color—each having the hue of gingerbread, without any of its spiciness—their respective characters were in a concatenation accordingly. For they were equally obedient, patient, easy-going and reliable; not given to devious courses nor designing tricks; more servicable than showy, and altogether as sober-sided as a pair of subordinates as any Presidential Guard could be.

Jim was the general's body servant and faithful factotum, as such identified with him in his campaigns as was the "Old Sorrel" which his master always rode in battle and which, by-the-way, was a little like the Scriptural war-horse described in Job, as the general himself resembled the classical representation of Mars in Hebrew mythology. "Old Sorrel" being about the same color—each having the hue of gingerbread, without any of its spiciness—their respective characters were in a concatenation accordingly. For they were equally obedient, patient, easy-going and reliable; not given to devious courses nor designing tricks; more servicable than showy, and altogether as sober-sided as a pair of subordinates as any Presidential Guard could be.

how, notwithstanding these combined attacks, the boy artilleryist maintained the unequal duel for more than an hour, and until he was recalled by positive orders from his perilous position. Well might Gen. Lee exclaim as he did to Jackson in regard to Pelham's prowess: "It is inspiring to see such glorious courage in one so young," and well might Jackson say to him, as he did to me that day: "He's the best artilleryist for his age, I ever saw." I thought of the furious assaults made early in the afternoon upon our right, when again under cover of a terrible cannonade, "three lines of battle advanced to the charge, preceded by clouds of skirmishers," strengthened by ten battalions of field guns upon their flanks; of how they broke through a portion of the confederate line, forcing two of A. P. Hill's brigades to fall back on their supporters and of the temporary confusion which was caused thereby, for fear our flank should be turned and our position taken in reserve; or how grandly the lion-hearted Gregg flung himself into the fight that was fast taking its last; of how the staunch old soldier, Jubal Early, came to the rescue, regaining the lost ground and re-establishing our line, and how the federals again were finally compelled to seek safety in flight, while a terrible fire of canister and grape made fearful havoc among the fugitives. I thought, too, of the last desperate efforts that were made in the evening upon our left, as described to me by those who saw them when the enemy so insanely assaulted Lee's position on Marye's hill, which was impregnable, and where so many gallant men were sacrificed in vain attempts to achieve an impossibility.

STONEWALL'S ODD HABITS.
Thus the principal events of that momentous day of excessive excitement passed in review before me in the order of their occurrence. Like the pictures of a moving panorama, with all the horrible details of a battle field, so that, of course, there was no more sleep for me that night. But this was not the case with the general by my side, who was more fortunate, I was glad to see, in securing for himself the benefit of "fired nature's sweet restorer," which I knew he greatly needed. Jackson, however, had the happy faculty of sleeping when he pleased, of waking when he wanted to do so, and of taking naps under circumstances that certainly were not calculated to lull the senses in oblivion; for not only have I frequently seen him nodding by the camp fire, with his staff laughing and talking around him, and sleeping in the saddle amid the dust, confusion and din of a march, but like-wise on more than one occasion when under fire, as was notably the case at Hallowell in May, 1862, when I made a pencil sketch of him as he reclined on the ground against a tree in the rear of a battery, not more than 30 feet from the guns, and was slumbering as placidly as an infant in its mother's arms, while the cannon were firing rapidly, and his reports were as loud as the "five thunders" of heaven.

But to resume the thread of my narrative. It was about 2 o'clock when the general awoke, and he did so suddenly, as if by his own volition, at the expiration of the time he had previously allotted for his nap. He got up carefully, making as little noise as possible, for he evidently thought I was still asleep—an impression on his part which I did not think proper to correct.

Relighting the candle he began to write at the table, which stood near the foot of the bed and in a position that enabled me, as he sat by it, to study his handsome profile, to which, by the way, none of his pictures do justice. After being thus engaged for some little time he turned toward me, and seeing that the light of the candle shone in my face, he softly arose from his seat and brought a book from the opposite side of the tent, which he carefully adjusted on the table between the candle and myself, so as to shield my eyes completely from the light. It was a little thing for him to do, a very little thing indeed, but at the same time it was sufficient to indicate to me the thoughtful goodness of that great heart of his, which was as bold as a lion's and as gentle as a lamb's.

JACKSON AND GREGG.
While I lay there looking at him through my half-closed eye-lids I heard some one gallop up to our quarters and inquire of the orderly if the general was in, and presently an aide of Gen. Maxey Gregg's was ushered into the tent, who came with a verbal message from his dying chief.

"The general is dead," said Gen. Gregg, and sent me to say to you that will be glad to see you before he leaves us. We fear that he will not live until morning, and he wishes to tell you that he regrets having sent you the note he did day before yesterday, as he has since discovered that you were right and he mistaken.

"Poor fellow!" exclaimed the general, in a tone of deepest feeling, "I feared his wound was mortal, but did not think he was so near. Give my love to him, and when you get back to him, as soon as I can get there, whereupon the young officer took his leave, and the general, accompanying him outside, gave orders for Jim to saddle "Old Sorrel" for him at once. When he re-entered the tent I took occasion to speak to him to let him know I was awake, and after some little conversation about Gen. Gregg, whom he referred to in emphatic terms of praise, affection and regret, I asked him what was his idea of the situation in front, and whether he thought the attack would be renewed.

"Yes," said he, "and I think upon our right; so I have given orders to strengthen our position there by entrenching. Burnside has doubtless discovered by this time that it is useless to make any further attempts on the left, and in the center of our line, and that his only chance for effecting anything will be to concentrate his force upon our right, near Hamilton's crossing, making a feint in the direction of his last assault, near Fredericksburg. But, colonel," he added as he drew on his boots, "we'll be ready for him, and, with God's help, we'll gain another victory."

MASTER AND MAN.
When he was out I mounted his horse was a somewhat amusing colloquy between himself and Jim, which, though characteristic of master and man, showed how the latter failed for once in obedience to orders, and the former, likewise, in enforcing his own command. Jim, it seems, had put the saddle on the wrong horse, which caused the general, as he discovered it, to exclaim: "Why, what does this mean? Didn't I send you word to saddle the 'Old Sorrel'?"

"Yes, sir, you did," said Jim. "Then why have you brought me this animal?" was the next inquiry. "Well, sir, I tell you," said Jim; "you see, sir, when you come back last night it was most midnight, and the 'Old Sorrel' was that dead tired 'cause you'd been a-riding of him all day long that I sort o' promised him some rest before he should be rid again, sir. Tharfo' sir, I a done fo' the young sorrel for you this time, sir."

"But, Jim," replied the general, "I always prefer to ride the 'Old Sorrel' in battle."

"I know what, sir," responded Jim; "an' if there were to be another battle, I tell you what I'll do. Soon as I have the first gun go bang I'll fo' the 'Old Sorrel' down to the front for you, sir, and then you see, sir, he'll be fresh, sir."

"That assurance seemed to satisfy the general, as he rode off without further remonstrance. What happened, calling Jim into the tent, I asked him what it was his master was saying about another battle, and his reply showed that he was by no means deficient in sagacity. "For," said he, "the general, sir, he thinks there's gwine to be another battle here, maybe this morning. But, sir, I don't believe it—for it stands to reason, sir, that the powerful feller, 'im done give the Yankees what they're gwine to last 'em a good long while, 'cause they want what my no' don't a' that sort to-day. No, sir-ee, they're too smart for that—them thar Yankees is sir."

Jim was right in his prognostication, for though "the morning disclosed the federals still drawn up upon the plain in full array, and their commander, Gen. Burnside, was anxious to renew the engagement, he received no encouragement to do so, it is said, from either his officers or his men, and the following morning passed without any demonstration, except some artillery practice at long range and a continual skirmishing of sharpshooters until a temporary truce was granted to enable the federals to re-leave their wounded on the field, many of whom had been lying for twenty-four hours on the freezing ground where they had fallen, and some poor fellows for two days and nights, unattended from the time they had been stricken down in the preliminary skirmishing of the day before the memorable battle of December 13, which closed the campaign of 1862.

INCREDIBLE.
F. A. Scratch, Ruthton, Ont., writes: "I have the greatest confidence in your 'BURROCK BLOOD BITTERS.' In one case with which I am personally acquainted their success was almost incredible. One lady told me that half a bottle did her more good than hundreds of dollars' worth of medicine she had previously taken." Price $1.00, trial size 50 cents. 12cedit

Bucklin's Arnica Salve.
The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all kinds of skin eruptions. This salve is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction in every case or money refunded. Price, 25c per box. For sale by ISH & McMAHON, Omaha.

HENRY WARD BEECHER
addressing the students of the National School of Education and Oratory, said: "We are living in a land whose genius, whose history, whose institutions eminently demand oratory." The National School of Elocution and Oratory was established in 1874, to supply this demand. Chartered in 1875, Nineteen Teachers and Lecturers, Specialists in their respective branches. Summer Term, July 5, Fall Term, October 3. Send for circular to J. H. BECHTEL, Secretary, 1416 and 1418 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia. Jc 22-24

TAKEN UP—A red and white spotted cow, about 9 years old; right ear cropped, at Rego's addition, north Omaha. H. HENNINGHOFF, 541-47.

AGENTS WANTED FOR OUR NEW BOOK: BIBLE FOR THE YOUNG, being the Story of the Scriptures, by Rev. George Alexander Crook, D. D., in simple and attractive language for old and young. Profusely illustrated, making a most interesting and instructive youth's instructor. Every parent will secure this work. Preachers, who should circulate it. Price $3.00. Send for circulars without delay. J. H. CHAMBERS & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

WANTED! Men of ability, to represent personal knowledge. Complete Cyclopaedia of Every Day Words. This is the Most Useful and Compact Literary Achievement of the Age. It has no competitors. We want competent men to sell this work. Send application. J. H. CHAMBERS, St. Louis, Mo., Chicago, Ill., Astoria, Ga., Astoria, Wis., Astoria, W. Va.

THE CHAMPION HAY GATHERER.
Takes the hay direct from swath to stack 500 to 700 lbs. at a load. Saves winnowing, shocking, &c. Price, $25.00. For particulars address S. B. GIBBS, L. D., Monroe City, Mo. 4410-221 Proprietor and Manufacturer.

PROBATE NOTICE.
State of Nebraska, Douglas County:
At a County Court, held at the County Court House in and for the County of Douglas, on the 13th day of September, 1881, A. P. SMITH, Present, HOWARD B. SMITH, County Judge.

In the matter of the estate of James K. Ish, deceased:
On reading and filing the petition of Martha M. Ish, praying that admistration of said estate may be granted to her as administratrix:
Ordered, That September 13th, A. D. 1881, at 10 o'clock a. m., is assigned for hearing said petition, when all persons interested in said matter may appear at a County Court to be held, in and for said County, and show cause why the prayer of petitioner should not be granted, and that notice of pendency of said petition and the hearing thereon be given to all persons interested in said matter, by publishing a copy of this order in this issue of the Omaha Daily Bee, and in some other issue of said paper, and by mailing a copy of this order to said County, for three successive weeks, prior to the day of hearing.

PIONEER LAND AGENCY
F. M. RATHBUN, Cambridge, Neb.
1,000,000 acres government land open to Homestead. Pre-emption and Timber land. 300 choice improved claims for sale or exchange. 500 of the best wooded farms in southwestern Nebraska with timber and water for sale. A few choice stock ranches with fenced fields, timber, hay and water, for sale, cheap. Correspondence solicited. 4410-221

INVITATION TO ALL WHO HAVE
WATCHES AND CLOCKS
TO BE REPAIRED,
ENGRAVING
TO BE DONE OR—
JEWELRY to MANUFACTURED.

While our Work is better, our Prices are Lower than all others.
AT THE LAST STATE FAIR I received all of the SIX FIRST PREMIUMS offered for Competition in our line Over All Competitors.

For the Best Watch Work,
For the Best Jewelry, (own make.)
For the Best Engraving,
For the Best Diamonds (own importation)
FOR THE BEST QUALITY GOODS DISPLAYED, ETC.

Having lately enlarged my workshops and putting in new and improved machinery, I hope to still more improve the quality and finish of our work and fill orders with more promptness than is usual.

CAUTION!
My Motto has always been and always will be: "First to gain superior facilities and then advertise the fact—not before—not wild advertisement. Some unprincipled dealers being in the habit of copying my announcements, I would beg you, the reader of this, to draw a line between such copies' advertisements and those of Yours, very truly,

A. B. HUBERMANN,
The Reliable Jeweler, Omaha, Neb.,
Sign of the Striking Town Clock.

STRANGERS VISITING OMAHA
—DURING THE—
STATE FAIR
Will Find it to their Advantage to Purchase their DRY GOODS
—AT THE—
BOSTON STORE
614-616 TENTH STREET.

Ladies' Beaver Dolmans $6 00 upwards; Ladies' Beaver Cloaks, $5 00 upwards; Ladies Wool Shawls, $1 00 upwards; Ladies' Vests, $3 50 upwards.
1 Lot Black Cashmeres, all wool, 40 inches wide, 50, 65, 75, 85 and 95 cents, Extraordinary Value.
1 Lot English Cashmeres, all Shades, reduced to 37 1-2 cents.
4 Cases Canton Flannels, 8 1-3, 10 and 12 1-3 cents.
4 Bales 4-4 Sheetings, 7 1-2 cents per yard, by the piece.
1 Case Prints, new styles, 5 cents.
8 Cases Bed Comforts and Blankets at Bottom Prices.

Cheviots, Gingham, Ticks, Denims, Table Linens, Towels, Bed Spreads, &c., at Popular Prices.
Ladies', Misses', Boys' and Childrens' Shoes 20 per cent lower than any Shoe Store in Omaha.
SPECIAL—1 Lot Splendid Shirting Flannels, 22 1/2 cents per yard, worth 35 cents.

P. G. IMLAH, Manager,
Leader of Popular Prices.

Special Attention
Is Once More Called to the Fact that
M. HELLMAN & CO.
Rank foremost in the West in Assortment and Prices of CLOTHING,
FOR MEN'S, BOYS' AND CHILDREN'S WEAR.

ALSO A COMPLETE LINE OF Furnishing Goods
Hats and Caps.
We are prepared to meet the demands of the trade in regard to Latest Styles and Patterns. Fine Merchant Tailoring in Connection.
RESPECTFULLY,
M. HELLMAN & CO.,
300 to 312 13th St., Corner Farnham.

O. H. BALLOU,
—DEALER IN—LUMBER,
Lath and Shingles,
Yard and Office 15th and Cumings Street, two blocks north of ST. PAUL AND OMAHA DEPOT.
jyl-eod-3m.