DISCRIMINATION

OF THE U. P. ROAD AGAINST COUNCIL

the other day that in reality the road had no freight house on this side of the river; that a merchant in Council Bluffs cannot ship a smaller quantity of meerchandise across the bridge than a full car load. If less is sent der therefore unto Caesar the things both to the transfer than that, the chances that are Caesar's, and unto God the and were that it would be several weeks, things that are God's." before it was sent over the river. All merchant can send one truck load, or be sure and have it go he must send it by team to Omaha. Now if this is so it is a discrimination against Council Bluffs that ought not for a moment be tolerated. By the decision of the highest court in the land Council Bluffs has been declared the eastern terminus of the railway company and it should be compelled to live up to that decesion, if they don't respect their charter. Simply having a union depot on this side and landing passengers here is not living up to their charter or keeping within the provisions of the decision of of the United States court. This company owes, in a measure, a great deal to Iowa statesmen for the charter under which they are now operating, and if it will not of its own volition live up to the promises made when it was knocking at the door of congress for help it should be compelled to do so. This discrimination on the freight business against this city is not right. The road should have a freight house on this side to accommodate the business men here, and forward all mer-gand is staying at the Ogden.

chandise as speedily and as cheaply. Smith McPherson, attorney, general from this side as the other, and our of Iowa, arrived in Council Bluffs last merchants should make war upon them until they do.

A SORROWFUL SIGHT. A poor unfortunate "cuss," if we may be pardoned the expression, with more brains than mind, was fool enough to let whisky get away with him Sunday afternoon. He was a fine young man, rather good looking, who backed up against the American express company's office and sat down and was obliged to draw his calf-sk on a box of pop. The longer he sat for $7.35, including costs.

there the more foolish he appeared, Hon. C. F. Loofbourow, judge until he leaned his head over on one side, dropped his hat off and allowed his tongue to hang out of mouth. There he sat, a laughingstock for his so called friends, a thing of pity in the his sight of sensible people. At last the inpolice could not look longer upon the the disgusting spectacle, so they got an express wagon and conveyed the help-less, senseless mass of human clay to the calaboose to sleep his drunk away and pay $6.35 for the privilege. and pay $6.35 for the privilege.

PROF. RUSH BEFORE THE LEAGUE. St. Joseph's academy hall was filled Sunday afternoon by the best class of Irish in our city, drawn there to listen to Prof. John Rush, of Omaha. There was not to be seen a vacant seat in the hall. M. G. Griffin occupied a seat with Mr. Rush behind the speaker's stand, and promptly at 4 o'clock in a few brief remarks in troduced the speaker, who opened his speech by repeating in a smooth and eeling tone a few extracts from Olive Goldsmith's immortal poem written after a brief incarceration within the walls of an English prison, and concluding as follows:

"Ill fares the land To boasting ill a prey, Where wealth accumulates And men decay."

Mr. Rush very briefly alluded to England's tyranny from the ascension of Henry VIII down to the presen time. He referred to Cromwell as a infamous monster, relating touchingly the scenes at the time of the Limer ick capitulation showing how at that time Cromwell, in order to get posses sion of a town he could not compel to surrender unconditionally, offered protection which he gave by ordering his men to amuse themselves in in throwing children into the air and impaling them on their pikes. The speaker pictured very feelingly the happy home of his children and com-pared it with the deserted village that marks the spot from which hundreds of happy Irish families have been driven through the treachery and ty-ranny of the English government. He commended John Dillon and Messrs. Parnell and Davitt for their honesty, integrity and true Irish patriotism. Mr. Rush is a speaker of more than ordinary capacity and was listened to with marked attention throughout. At the conclusion Col D. B. Daily was called for, but owing to the lateness of the hour did not
