

JACKSON.

Description of a Lively Michigan Fair.

Notes Along the Route From Omaha.

Correspondence of The Bee.

JACKSON, Mich., September 23.—Your correspondent boarded the train at Omaha Monday afternoon, September 5, with a hastily selected wardrobe, and a well-filled lunch basket, to sustain the inner man, while en route to the state of Michigan.

Many thanks to my old employers—Steele, Johnson & Co., grocers of your city—who furnished me with a pass over the Wabash line by the way of St. Louis to Chicago and return.

We crossed the company's monopoly bridge over the Big Muddy, arrived at the transfer, where we were delayed until 6 o'clock p. m. for the western U. P. train. After much anxiety on the part of passengers, we were at last under way for St. Louis. The road bed being in good condition, the cars run at times at a break-neck pace.

To use the expression of a late aboarder, "it's but a puff, then shall slip." About forty miles south of Council Bluffs at or near a place called Enginew, we were again delayed, this time by a train jumping the track down an embankment some twelve feet. Several cars went over, killing one man and a woman, and wounding several others.

Soon we were underway again, although some three hours late, caused by the delay incident. The rest of the night was passed in quietude, as most of the passengers were soon sleeping. When daylight again appeared we were fast approaching St. Louis.

Missouri, like Nebraska and many other states, shows signs of the severe dry weather. In many localities there were neither signs of grain, hay, or even straw stacks, and as for corn crop it seemed just as bad, and we can say there is a big deficiency between this and last year.

Many fields planted to corn last spring stand, stripped of its leaves by the wind and not a visible sign of corn, although there are some fields of corn good, all cut and stacked up in order. Cattle and hogs are looking poor, and I should remark that they would make splendid corn cribs for a heap of corn. Even the leaves on the trees seemed scorched as if a raging fire had swept over the land. All small streams and artificial reservoirs, or "hog wallows," as I may call them, were as dry as a barn floor.

We crossed the Missouri river at a place called St. Charles, which showed an important town of some note.

At 10:30 a. m., the 6th, we reached St. Louis. There we found we were late to make connections with the east bound train for Chicago. Therefore we soon landed, sought a place for a general wash up, ate a rather late breakfast, or an early dinner—where we did ample justice to the meals prepared by nine host of the Grand Central hotel. After which we, country style, took in the sights of this great city.

People seemed moving hither and thither, as much as to say, my business leads me this way or that. Forepaugh's great circus was in session here for four days, commencing the day before. Many important buildings are in the course of erection. We were pointed out several. Among the many were the new Custom and Posters House. The latter when completed will be quite an ornament to that burg. At eight o'clock p. m., the conductor's shrill voice echoed "all aboard," and we were soon under ground, running under the busy city towards the father of all rivers, the Mississippi. There, again the great monopoly power controls the traveling public. Although we had a pass to Chicago and return—25 cents was demanded for our passage over the bridge, which we finally paid, after remarking that we thought the U. P. bridge at Omaha was the only "Gull Trap" to catch the traveling public, but we have now come to the conclusion that it is hereditary among railroad companies.

It was quite amusing to the passengers, as every car was opened, but never a reply came from the conductor—who raked in the extra quarters as he passed through the car.

Nature again draped her mantle of darkness over and around us, save the light of that glorious queen of night, aided by the many thousands little twinkling eyes of the heavens above us. While we slept others came and went, and when daylight again dawned we were running at a rapid pace towards the great city of Chicago. At 7:30 a. m. we arrived, and at nine we departed by the Michigan Central railroad for Three Rivers, Michigan, on the air line. Here we commenced our first visit with relatives and friends whom we had not seen for seven years.

Throughout the counties of St. Joseph and Brand we have many near and dear friends. Here too, we have had many a sporting day, with the rod and gun in the years gone by. But like the country we have just passed through, at this date, we find fishing and hunting very dry. Crops in the above named counties are light and farmers are feeling rather blue. Fruits of all kinds are scarce. In orchards that have borne its hundreds of bushels of apples and peaches heretofore, this year are fruitless.

At this date finds me at the above named city of Jackson, whose population figures up to about 17,000 inhabitants. It is a railroad center of some note. Here the State Prison is located which covers an area of some 25 acres of ground. At this prison the famous Jackson wagon, which we can see most any day upon the streets of Omaha and other parts of the west, are made in great numbers. There are seven hundred male prisoners occupying cells here at this prison. Yesterday at the prison they sold to visitors 1636 tickets at 25 cents each, and 1100 this morning in three hours. A squad of 20 to 30 was conducted at once through the premises. Time and space prevents me giving an explanation of the different apartments. The state fair is in session here this week, hence the rush at the prison. The streets are one continual jam of people of all grade, color, nationality and size. From early morn until late at night, that same busy hum and clatter of horses hoofs sounding in your ear as they are hurrying over the Nicholson, or cobble stone pavement; and the cry of street peddlers, together with the steady tramp, tramp, of pedestrians, all go to show and make up that Jackson-to-day is in her glory.

Monday and Tuesday of this week were days of sorrow, as the news were fresh in the memory of the long expected and recent death of President Garfield. All public, private and business places, are yet draped in mourning. That was the glorious emblem of the free yet suspended at half-mast throughout the different parts of the city. There were a large display of everything usually seen at a state fair, and I might say a little more. I will mention but one article at the present time, where they done the thing up large. It was a cake of hard soap; its only weight was 1,175 pounds. Now, ladies, don't blush, but would it not be splendid to have such soap in Omaha? G.

Blair's Budget

Correspondence of The Bee. BLAIR, Neb., September 26.—Today has been the saddest day, perhaps, ever experienced by any one in Blair. At about 1 o'clock p. m. the bells commenced to toll and the people assembled in the railroad park here for the purpose of paying the last tribute of respect to our late president, James A. Garfield. The John A. Dix post were in attendance. They marched from the post rooms to the grounds. The drums were muffled and everything had a sad appearance. Warren Billings was chosen chairman of the meeting. Prayer was offered by Rev. John Patrick, of Herman. Rev. G. W. Wainwright delivered a sermon which was very appropriate for the occasion.

Hon. Lorenzo Crouse, of Ft. Calhoun, delivered an oration upon the political life of Garfield which was excellent. Many were forced to shed tears by the remarks of Mr. Crouse. John S. Bowen delivered an oration upon the loss to the people. Rev. J. Andrew upon the character of Garfield and L. W. Osborn, upon his military career. Following these was a short address from Geo. Bigelow, of Ohio. The services lasted until 4 o'clock in the afternoon. About 1500 people were at the park, nearly all from Blair. All business houses were closed from 1 p. m. until 4 p. m.

The explosion in Council Bluffs was distinctly heard in Blair and many buildings shook from its effects.

MUTUAL UNION TEL. CO.

Great Progress in the Construction of the Lines—The Stock Listed in New York.

NEW YORK, September 23.—The governing committee of the New York Stock Exchange decided to-day that the stock of the new Mutual Union Telegraph Company, being in excess of 10,000, shall be placed on the regular list, and included in each call on and after a date to be fixed. Mr. George W. Ballou, one of the chief promoters of the enterprise, this afternoon said that the entire line between New York and Chicago, by way of Albany, Buffalo, Cleveland, Toledo, and Detroit, will certainly be completed and ready for business by the 15th of next month, and that another line will soon connect Boston with Albany, by way of Springfield. Mr. Ballou added: "A contract has been made with the Chicago & Milwaukee Telegraph company for the use of their lines between Chicago and Milwaukee, and it is expected that the new lines which are being built between Milwaukee and St. Paul and Chicago and St. Louis by the Mutual Union Telegraph company will be finished simultaneously with the line from New York to Chicago." The following statement of the present condition of the enterprise was sent to-day to the holders of the securities of the company: "A southern line has also been surveyed between Washington and Chicago, by way of Cumberland, Wheeling and Pittsburg, including Cincinnati, Zanesville, Columbus, Indianapolis, Terre Haute and Vandalia, and is being rapidly pushed toward completion, so that it is confidently expected that the company will have two independent routes to the west ready for service within the next thirty days. A contract has also been made to extend the company's lines from St. Louis to Kansas City, and it is thought that they will be built before the approach of winter. A connection has also been made from Boston to Bangor, via Portland, and that line is to be completed by the first of November. The construction and equipment of the line has been kept up to an efficient standard. All the wire which has been used is of the most substantial quality, and known as extra B B galvanized. In anticipation of meeting some obstacle in securing adequate size and quality of poles, the company having been obliged to avail itself of the stock in market, last spring several contracts were made with dealers so as to secure a continuous supply up to the time of cutting poles next winter, which will insure the necessary quantity required for this season's work. There have been built 2,000 miles of pole line, one-half of which was erected during the months of June and July, and the engineer of the company reports that the construction is progressing at an average of over 500 miles a month, and adds that up on the poles already erected there have been strung more than 10,000 miles of wire. A sufficient supply of instruments, batteries, and office plant is now held by the company to equip 300 offices. With a view to opening for public business the telegraph lines which have been fully equipped, the company is now seeking suitable locations in the different cities, and some very favorable sites have been secured in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, and Baltimore."

St. Paul Items

St. PAUL, Neb., Sept. 22, 1881.—A sad accident occurred last Sunday while a party of young men were out hunting. Fred Cohn who has been in the employ of Waasnet Bros. while taking a gun from a boat, accidentally discharged it, shattering his arm in a frightful manner, from the effects of which he died the next morning.

The extension of the O. & R. V. railway from St. Paul is being pushed rapidly forward under the direction of James H. Klyner, contractor.

The fall term of St. Paul schools have commenced under the management of Mr. Scott, as principal.

Sudden Death of a Stranger. To the Editor of The Bee. CHESTER, Neb., Sept. 25. While Mr. E. W. Ormsby was having his sheep driven from Big Springs to this city, the party was joined by a young man who gave his name as Crawford, and who said he was going to Omaha, where he had a brother living; that he was formerly from Albany, N. Y.; that he had lately been to California and Oregon. He was a man of fine countenance, was of medium size, fair complexioned, and appeared to be 38 or 40 years of age. On Friday morning, before daybreak, near Plum Creek, he died, not having complained over twenty minutes. The authorities at Plum Creek were immediately notified of his death. It may be admissible to publish the substance of the above, as Mr. Ormsby was not with the party and there was none but a Swede to report at Plum Creek. Respectfully, C. A. OGLAN.

ALBION, NEB.

Matters of Moment From that Part of the State.

The Coming Mass Convention in Boone County.

Correspondence of The Bee.

ALBION, Boone Co., Neb., Sept. 26.—Albion is just beginning to reap the benefits of another bountiful harvest throughout our whole county, and business of every kind has improved wonderfully during the last month. Messrs. Gunther Bros. have just moved into their new and elegant store on the corner of Church and Third streets, and are carrying one of the finest and most complete stocks west of Omaha.

Flax has almost become one of the staple productions of Boone county, and is bringing a good price in our markets. There is some talk of large oil mills being erected on the Cedar, to utilize the enormous quantities now being raised in the county.

District court has been adjourned until after election, by Judge Barnes. The fact that Clark has got his hands full, without any temperance complications arising, probably accounts for this action.

The corn crop throughout the whole county is larger than ever before known, and is bringing forty cents per bushel, with no limit to the demand. A new bank is the latest improvement talked of. A Mr. Ball, from the east, with an abundance of capital, has decided to locate here and will build a handsome bank building before winter.

Peters & Clark, after twice vainly trying to get a quorum of the central committee together, carried out, on Saturday last, the scheme of disfranchisement. Only five out of twelve republican committeemen were present, though they canvassed the city for two hours, vainly trying to induce four others, who were in town, to join them. They finally proposed to elect a democrat and they called the meeting to order.

Whereupon, Mr. Moore, of Plum Creek precinct, arose and after expressing in the strongest terms his disapprobation of the course about to be pursued, moved that the selection of the delegates be left to the mass convention, but not one of the five would second his motion. Thereupon he promptly arose and left the room, saying that he would have no part in such a disgraceful proceeding. The remaining five, with a democrat from Bonanza precinct, then appointed the following persons to represent Boone county in the state convention: T. B. Tiffany, A. Brooks, H. F. Snider, J. H. Robinson, Kitte Furrow. It is exceedingly doubtful whether two or three of the delegation will accept, as they have repeatedly expressed themselves as strongly opposed to any such action.

Next Saturday is the day for the mass-convention, when the republican voters of Boone will meet to exercise the right of choosing their own representatives, and at present there is every indication of this being one of the largest and most enthusiastic meetings ever known in the county. Boone county republicans will go to the state convention this year demanding only justice and asking that the voice of the people be heard, and that the delegates chosen by republicans in mass-convention be admitted in preference to any appointed, contrary to every precedent of the party, by a ring of disreputable political tricksters, who, not daring to come before a convention of the people, have resorted to the very lowest means to accomplish their ends.
