-The appointments of the military headquarters at the barracks are being rapidly transferred into Strane's new building at Tenth and Farnham streets.
-One man called another a very ugly name in the alley back of police headquarters at noon yesterday, and was so badly pounded that he left for home with more haste than ceremony.
-Fred Meeble saw a couple of men steal the thermometer from in front of his place at Eleventh and Farnham streets Tuesday night. Both were arrested. Judge Benke yesterday fined one of the men $10 and the other $5.
-P. C. Backus, of the ninety-nine cent store in this city, yesterday received a telegram that his branch store in Aveca had burned to the ground with its contents a few hours before. The telegram contained no further particulars. Mr. Backus at once started for the scene.
-Mrs. Hester was on trial in the police court yesterday on charge of robbing John Wendt. The latter was drunk at the time the robbery was committed and so knew little about it. A party of boys, however, watched the occurrence and followed as Hester after the robbery had been committed. They afterward identified Hester.
-Mrs. Kurden was thrown from a buggy about 1 o'clock this afternoon and had her right arm fractured. Mrs. Kurden was on her way from La. Platte, and the horse became frightened by a piece of paper blowing along the road and started to run pulling the buggy against a tree and throwing her out. She was taken to a house near by and a doctor called to attend to her. After her arm had been dressed she was taken home.
-Yesterday a well known resident of Omaha happened into Dick Wilde's place and, in conversation with some one, said that he would like to find Rowe, of the Masopha party, who was an old friend. As he was talking, Rowe himself appeared in, shook hands with Dick, and looking all around, asked: "You haven't seen anything of... have you? I've been looking for him all over town." After the two men had both failed to recognize each other, the proprietor introduced them. Their mutual surprise may be imagined.
-Ninety suppers were served in the east bound Northwestern dining car Tuesday night.
-The Union Pacific train yesterday from the west brought in four loaded Pullman coaches, four day coaches and a special car.
-The Union Pacific depot in this city is receiving a new platform. A new depot for the platform is understood to be one of the near possibilities as well as one of the present necessities.
-The C. B. & Q. express train this morning ran thirty-five miles in forty-five minutes, making up lost time this side of Omaha, Iowa. The conductor says it is the quickest time ever made on that portion of the road.
-The regular meeting of the Young Folks' Society of the Lutheran church, will be held to-night at Mr. Searson's residence, northeast corner of Third and Davenport streets. All the members are requested to come and bring their friends with them.
-A Baptist Minister's Experience.
I am a Baptist minister and before I ever thought of being a clergyman I graduated in medicine, but left a lucrative practice for my present profession, ten years ago. I was for many years a sufferer from quinsy. "THOMAS' ELECTRIC OIL" cured me. I was also troubled with rheumatism, and "THOMAS' ELECTRIC OIL" always relieved me. My wife and child had diphtheria, and "THOMAS' ELECTRIC OIL" cured them, and if taken in time it will cure nine times out of ten. I am confident it is a cure for the most obstinate cold or cough, and if any one will take a small teaspoon and half fill it with the Oil, and then place the end of the spoon in the nostril and draw the Oil out of the spoon by sniffing as hard as they can, until the Oil falls over into the throat, and practice that twice a week, I don't care how often wires their head may be, it will clean it out and cure their catarrh. For diphtheria and croup it has done wonders to my certain knowledge. It is the only medicine I have ever felt like recommending, and I am very anxious to see it in every place, for I tell you that I would not be without it in my house for any consideration. I am now suffering with a pain like rheumatism in my right hand, and nothing relieves me like "THOMAS' ELECTRIC OIL."

TERRIBLE FALL.

Fatal Accident Last Night on Douglas Street.

Lloyd M. Briggs Falls From a Third Story Window.

A fatal accident occurred on Douglas street about half past eight o'clock last evening. Lloyd M. Briggs, a boy fifteen years old, fell from the corner post window in the Academy of Music to the pavement below. The injured lad was carried to his home on Harney street, between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets. Dr. Chadwick was immediately summoned and Dr. Peck arrived soon after. The boy's skull was found to be broken from the base in an irregular line extending nearly to the forehead. Dr. Chadwick, assisted by Dr. Peck, trophined the skull in an admirably skillful manner, and did everything possible, but as soon as the injuries were ascertained the surgeons pronounced the case a hopeless one. The best explanation of the cause of the accident that could be derived from those who saw it and the attaches of the academy, is that the boy was attempting to look out of the window, which above down from the top clear to the floor. The space from the circular top of the window to the gallery floor is only three or four feet. A person might place his hands on the top of the sash and, by its easily giving way and dropping, be precipitated headlong outside. It is also suspected that young Briggs may have stolen his way into the gallery before the show began, and when the janitor went around to look under the gallery seats, where the boys sometimes hide, he may have swung himself outside and stood on the narrow coping, from which he could have easily fallen. It is more probable, however, that he was inside and fell while attempting to look out. Two or three persons were standing near the foot of the academy stairs when the accident occurred, but their first sight of the boy was as he came falling through the air and landed with a heavy thud. He struck on his head and shoulders, the former receiving the effects of the fall. Young Briggs had frequently been caught endeavoring to steal his way into shows, by getting under the seats near the window from which he fell. Briggs is a son of J. L. Briggs, an elderly man well known in Omaha. The latter has suffered for a long time from a misfortune, which has disabled him to walk, and he has earned a scanty subsistence for his family by keeping a small stand on the corner of Douglas and 14th streets. The family are spoken of highly, but are quite poor, and the boy, when out of school, contributed somewhat to the general maintenance. The sad accident falls with crushing effect upon them all and they have general sympathy.

Col. Williams' Removal.

Col. Robert Williams, the assistant adjutant general, department of the Platte, after six years of service in that capacity, is about to be removed to another field of action. Gen. Crook, in speaking of the matter in his general order, says: "The department commander feels, however, that it is his duty to specify the important and arduous labors connected with the campaign against the Sioux in 1876 and 1877, and against the Utes in 1879, during which periods Col. Williams' assistance was simply invaluable. While it is a source of regret to sever such pleasant relations, the department commander is glad to know that Colonel Williams will in the future have a field of action more in accord with his distinguished abilities, and that he will take with him the sympathies and best wishes of every officer and soldier in the department."

WILL IT BE COMPLETED?

The Race Against Time at the Opera House.

What Has Already Been Done at Boyd's Theater.

A grand transformation scene is now in progress at Boyd's opera house, and those who visit the interior to-day will not recognize it to-morrow. The delicate tracery, the finely carved wood work and all the other minutiae of the details which usually require so much time and careful attention, are all in readiness to be put in their proper places. Shaw & Field, who have the contract for the entire building, while delayed in the work last spring by the heavy floods, put in their time to good advantage by keeping a force of expert carpenters and wood carvers at work preparing the fancy material that now requires merely to be put in position. All the heavy work is now done, and careful attention to the artistic details is all that is required. The radiating joists forming the basis for the circular and third gallery are now buried out of sight under a fine flooring. In the semi-circle to form the front of these two divisions of the house the elegant wood carving is already half concealed and half revealed. He claimed that he would be better for it to burn up. He thought he was a uniform, but couldn't tell anything about the style of it, nor could he recognize the man again. E. B. Witt said that about 10 o'clock in the morning he went through the Ainscow building, where he used to room, and examined the basement and every part of the building, and could not find a particle of fire anywhere. His remark applied merely to the Ainscow building. No more of his room was burned after the second than the first fire. James Ainscow testified that he reached the scene about 11 o'clock. When Edward Ainscow went away he left him in charge of the building. The fire then was smoldering under the building on Dodge street which had burned down. He had carried water from early in the morning until 10 o'clock. He then went away and came back about 11. He remained until 1 o'clock and then went away again. At that hour he went to where the fire had been smoldering and found it breaking in to a blaze. He didn't think it would break out but the remainder of the property. Before he went away in the morning he had heard Galligan tell Ainscow he would get a stream in half an hour. M. Donovan said he knew nothing about the origin of the second fire. He had spoken to Chief Galligan about a quarter before 2 o'clock. At that time Galligan was engaged in having hose coupled and told him that he had an engine at the U. P. shops getting a supply of water and had a cistern partially filled. He examined a portion of the ruins between 10 and 11 o'clock and could see nothing but smoke. He did not examine the cellar of the burned building. There were no people carrying water at that time. He remained only a few minutes on the spot. Sol Prince testified that he was an assistant chief. At a few minutes before 2 he passed the scene of the fire and saw Galligan standing at ex-Mayor Chas. S. Jones' fence. He passed along the Dodge street side and saw no sign of smoke at that point. He went to his home a few squares away. At the alarm he ran back and saw the building adjoining Ainscow's on fire. Ainscow's building did not seem ablaze. Passing along Thirteenth street about 2 o'clock he could see a slight blaze in the cellar of one of the burned buildings. The firemen were then laying hose. When they left the fire in the morning he considered it practically out. At 8 o'clock he considered it perfectly safe. At this point the meeting was adjourned until to-night, when other witnesses are expected to be on hand.

THE INVESTIGATION.

How Did the Second Fire on September 4th Start?

A Question That is Being Solved by a Council Committee.

The special council committee met last evening in the city clerk's office for the purpose of resuming the investigation as to the cause of the second fire on Sunday, September 4th. The first witness examined was Edward Ainscow, whose building was one of those burned at that time. He said he had asked two firemen whom he didn't know to extinguish some embers as they were going home after the first fire. They advised him to take buckets. He had asked Chief Galligan for water and received an answer that he would probably get it in half an hour. Ainscow said he would have to get it soon or the whole block would go and Galligan wanted to know what he took him for. After the first fire he had removed some sash and doors to a room on the first floor. The fire would have gone off hours before but for the fact that he had thrown water on it. He did not see the second fire. He had blood up at intervals during the morning. He left the scene at 11:30 and did not return again. About half of his whole building remained after the first fire, and probably as much damage was done by the second as the first. In reply to a question from Chief Galligan Ainscow said when the firemen left in the morning, the whole fire seemed to be out from the Dodge street side, but was not from the center of the ruins. When they left all the fire was in the cellar. At the second fire there were three rooms on Dodge street and three on Thirteenth street destroyed. Wm. Ainscow said he went to the scene of the fire about ten minutes before two o'clock and took charge of the Ainscow building. Removed some doors and sash from the first and second stories. While so engaged a burning cornice fell, and he narrowly escaped death. He claimed that he would be better for it to burn up. He thought he was a uniform, but couldn't tell anything about the style of it, nor could he recognize the man again. E. B. Witt said that about 10 o'clock in the morning he went through the Ainscow building, where he used to room, and examined the basement and every part of the building, and could not find a particle of fire anywhere. His remark applied merely to the Ainscow building. No more of his room was burned after the second than the first fire. James Ainscow testified that he reached the scene about 11 o'clock. At this point the meeting was adjourned until to-night, when other witnesses are expected to be on hand.

Business Failures.

Telegrams to Bradstreet yesterday announced two more failures, that of Abel Bros., wholesale notions, Denver, Col., with liabilities of $52,000, and assets more or less nominal. Both members of the firm are well known in Omaha. A telegram also received last evening announced the failure of C. P. Sailer & Co., grocers, Beatrice, who were closed up yesterday afternoon by attachment. They were sheeted by Bradstreet over two weeks ago, and claims for Law & Co., Lincoln, and others in Omaha, have been secured so that actual liabilities cannot be stated at present.

Birthday Party.

Mr. Chat. Morgan gave a dinner party last evening at the residence of his parents, corner of Twenty-first and California streets, to the members of the Sans Ceremonie club, in commemoration of his twentieth birthday, which he had just attained. A very pleasant time was had by those present.

SERIOUSLY HURT.

A Lady Visitor Badly Injured in a Collision.

Reckless Driver Runs Into and Upsets Her Carriage.

Yesterday while Mrs. Hospe, of this city, and Mrs. Stinchcomb, of Des Moines, who is visiting here, were out riding, they turned in towards Wyman's with the intention of entering the book-store. As they did so a strange man came dashing past in a buggy and striking violently against the carriage in which the ladies were riding partially overturned it. Mrs. Stinchcomb made an attempt to jump from the carriage and in doing so fell to the ground. In her descent the lines caught round her neck, and in this predicament she was dragged some distance before she could be stopped. She was picked up at once by J. E. Welch, who happened to be standing near, and carried into Wyman's. Dr. Dinwiddie was hastily summoned and made a rapid examination. The lady seemed to be very severely, if not dangerously, hurt, but the extent of her injuries could not be ascertained. About 2 o'clock a hearse was procured and the lady transferred to the home of Mrs. Hospe. Mrs. Stinchcomb is a daughter of Mrs. Welch, of this city, and a sister of Mrs. Hospe and Mrs. Wyman. "The Hever House Council Bluffs is the best second-class hotel in the west."

Going Home.

The last of the Chinese students, who have been at school at Hartford and in various colleges throughout the country, pass through this city today on their return home. Their recall by the Chinese government has been heretofore published. It was based upon two reasons—one that the United States government refused the students the privileges of the military academies, and the other that in some instances what the students deemed unfair discrimination against them had been practiced in Columbia college. Most of the students sent home are the sons of high officials in the Chinese government, so that these alleged grievances strike directly to home.

FARMERS AND MECHANICS.

If you wish to avoid great danger and trouble, besides a no small bill of expense, at this season of the year, you should take prompt steps to keep disease from your household. The system should be cleaned, blood purified, stomach and bowels regulated, and prevent and cure diseases arising from spring salarials. We know of nothing that is so perfectly and surely do this as Electric Bitters, and at the trifling cost of fifty cents a bottle. [Exchange.] Sold by Ish & McMahon. (1)

A BIG DEFICIT.

Figures Showing the Loss at the Late State Fair.

Several days ago THE BEE published a general statement from Treasurer Hartman regarding the financial outcome of the late state fair. Mr. Hartman then said the deficit would probably exceed $3,000. The figures now show the loss to be nearly $6,000. Meeting Treasurer Hartman last evening a reporter of THE BEE requested from him the figures, so nearly as could be obtained, of the state fair business. He kindly furnished the following: Total receipts, including $1,000 from the state, $12,909; expenses paid to date, $15,532.42; expenses paid to meet, $2,500, making the total $18,032.42. The deficit thus becomes $5,723.42. The board started with $6,101.19 from last year. With expenses paid they will have $467.77 to start on next year. The total of premiums, speed and all, this year did not exceed $6,000. This shows the other expenses of the fair to have been over $12,000.

Hal P. Brown, the electric light agent, who was here during the state fair week, superintending the attempt to light the grounds, arrived in Omaha from Denver yesterday. He states that two hundred and fifty lamps are successfully running in Denver, and all the principal thoroughfares are lighted by electricity. The general illumination of the city, from four towers, each 225 feet high, is very successful. He stated that several Omaha merchants are considering the feasibility of lighting their places of business in this way. Regarding the failure of the light on the driving park grounds, Brown had but little to say. From other sources it is learned, however, that a very lively lawsuit is to grow out of the affair, which will call into question the effectiveness of the electric light, and also how Secretary McBride and the Brush company carried out their respective contracts. There is plenty of material on both sides for a legal contest, and some interesting developments in regard to general management of matters during the fair are also promised. At F. C. Goodman
