THE CABINET.

RUMORS AS TO THE CHANGES TO BE MADE.

CHICAGO, October 8.—Washington special says several days ago it was quite generally believed that there would be no cabinet changes until after the secretaries had submitted their reports to congress; but when it is remembered that the secretaries of the departments prepare the bulk of the reports, and the secretaries write introductory essays upon the facts furnished them, there is no reason why new men could not as well prepare these reports. Secretary Lincoln is the only member of the Garfield cabinet who is to be retained. This latter point has been practically settled. It has been felt by General Arthur that if he made any changes they would have to be quite general in order to secure a harmonious cabinet. General Grant has not been offered a place in the cabinet and will not be, as General Arthur understands in advance that Grant will accept nothing. Another point has been settled and that is that there is no present indication of offering Mr. Conkling a place in the cabinet. From talks with senators fresh from the field in New York it appears that Mr. Conkling will have to endure private life for a year longer at least. Failing in his aim to secure his reelection last summer and also failing to make himself felt in the New York convention, he is now in a position where he must do something himself. If Senator Lapham were to resign it is not certain that Conkling, backed by Arthur, could carry the legislature. The friends of the Lapham intrigue wish to postpone any action until Mr. Conkling gains some lost ground with the public. If he goes into the campaign this fall and makes himself strong by effective work and speeches, then there will be a chance for him. Lapham then will resign some time next winter or hold over to the winter following, as the situation demands.

GUITEAU.

THE INDICTMENT PRESENTED TO THE JURY.

WASHINGTON, D. C., October 8.—The formal indictment of Charles J. Guiteau for the murder of James A. Garfield was given to the grand jury this morning. It is a voluminous document, consisting of eleven counts. The first count recites the date and circumstances of the assault and death. The second alleges that death resulted from the effects of the shot. The third includes the county of Monmouth, N. J., and the county of Washington in the locality where the deceased languished and died, and the other counts form the legal presentment of the case to satisfy all requirements in regard to the exact locality of the shooting and the subsequent circumstances surrounding the condition of the wounded president. The jury considered the matter until noon and then returned a true bill. The prisoner will be arraigned next week.

THE SITUATION.

WASHINGTON, October 8.—The caucuses of the two senatorial parties will be held to-day. It is probable that each caucus will appoint a committee of conference. The senate is so evenly divided, that some agreement between the two sides is necessary in order to avoid another dead-lock. The senators of both parties, while they differ now very much about which it is the proper course to pursue, believe that both sides, through their conference committees, may be able to arrive at some agreement. In the first place not all of the republican senators concede the democrats the right to elect a president pro tempore. Senator Allison says the true way to settle everything would be to restore the condition of things that existed in the senate during the last special session. Then there was a republican president and a democratic secretary. A prominent republican senator says that Judge David Davis has the key to the whole situation. The democrats can elect their man at the first, but unless Senator Davis stands by them they cannot hold the place. This republican senator did not believe that Senator Davis would sustain the election of a democratic president pro tem, considering the make up of the senate and the situation. If he does not, then the republicans will propose Senator Anthony. They would be perfectly willing to accept Judge Davis, however, as a compromise. They are very reluctant to consent that there shall be only one life between Arthur and a democratic administration. President Arthur himself is very anxious that the republican senators should carry their point.

THE CAUCUSES.

THE RESULT OF THEIR DELIBERATIONS.

WASHINGTON, October 8.—The two senate caucuses met at the capitol this morning, the democrats at 10 o'clock and the republicans at 11 o'clock. Senator Pendleton presided over the former and Anthony over the latter. The absentees are Senators Fair, Farley, Slater, Crover and Ransom on the democratic side, and Edgerton, Harrison, Jones of Nevada, Platt, Sawyer and Van Wyck on the republican side. With the exception of Fair and Platte, who are paired, all are expected to be here before Monday. David Davis is expected to-night, and Mahone is already in the city. The republican senators elect are in caucus. At 12:15 p. m. the republican caucus took a recess for an hour giving as a reason the absence of republican senators. The proposition from the republican caucus to appoint committees of each body to confer as to a compromise is being discussed in the democratic caucus. When the republicans reassembled they admitted that the real reason of the recess was to learn what the democrats would do. The democrats are still in session. It is generally understood that the republicans have abandoned all hope of electing a president of the senate, but they still hope for overtures from the democrats to compromise on a further organization.

1 p. m.—It is definitely stated that the democrats are sold for insisting on a choice of the president of the senate and a fight on the rest is by no means uncertain. The democratic caucus agreed to insist on the election of the president pro tem as the first act of the senate. The question whether the senators elect should be sworn in before the election of the secretary provoked a protracted debate which is still in progress.

The democratic caucus has appointed a committee, with Senator Pendleton as chairman, to confer with the committee from the republican caucus and report. A recess for half an hour was taken.

The joint committee of the two caucuses met at 2:15 p. m. The members are Messrs. Pendleton, Garland, Voorhees, Pugh, Davis, Edwards, Allison, Logan, Sherman and McMillan.

The Condition of Trade. National Associated Press. NEW YORK, October 8.—Special telegrams to Bradstreet from thirty-seven leading commercial centers conclusively point to the fact that the colder weather has improved the general outlook. Reports from Chicago, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Cincinnati, Boston and elsewhere, mention a largely increased volume of business in the several lines over the corresponding week last year. The prospects for good trade during the remainder of the year are said to be very good. The number of failures in the United States and Canada reported to Bradstreet's during the past week was ninety-five, a decrease of twenty-eight compared with the record of the preceding week. The greatest decrease is noted in the western and southern states.

Vigilantes.

National Associated Press. LAS VEGAS, N. M., October 8.—Two of the four men who robbed the store of Brown & Mansuetares at Lamy Junction, recently were arrested at Saco on Wednesday, and yesterday they were found dangling from the limb of a cottonwood tree on Methodist avenue at that place with a placard inscribed, "the fate of foot-pads and horse thieves." No names can be ascertained.

The Indian War.

National Associated Press. SAN FRANCISCO, October 8.—Reports from the San Carlos reservation says that over four hundred Indians are now out in different parties. The campaign will probably last all winter. Colonel MacKenzie is now in command and General Wilcox has returned to Tucson. The Chiricahuas have crossed the line and are now safely in Mexican territory.

Unfavorable Bank Statement.

National Associated Press. NEW YORK, October 8.—The bank statement is unfavorable. The following are the quarter changes: Loans decrease, $4,373,500; specie decrease, $3,108,800; legal tenders increase, $2,500; deposit decrease, $9,628,200; circulation increase, $8,000; reserve decrease, $57,725.

A Brakeman Shot.

Special dispatch to THE BEE. LARAMIE CITY, Wyoming, October 8.—Jim McKean, a gambler, shot J. J. Smith, a brakeman, here at noon to-day. Death is hourly expected. The crime was entirely unprovoked.

Woman Suffrage in Utah.

San Francisco Chronicle Correspondence. What surprised me was the cheerfulness with which daughters and wives voted a ticket that had every reason to abhor. That morning I had said to a Mormon wife, whose husband had not yet become a polygamist, "I presume you will vote for Judge Campbell to-day?" "Indeed, I will not," she replied with emphasis.

"Cannon represents polygamy and the degradation of woman," I replied. "While Campbell is the champion of your sex." "I don't want to talk about it," she answered, "but I intend to vote for a good friend of the Church, like Mr. Cannon, than for an old thing like that Campbell." "Then you will be voting for an institution that you do not at heart believe in." "That is not true," she rejoined; "I believe in polygamy." "In the abstract, perhaps; but how would you feel if your husband should bring home a second wife some day?" "I would be perfectly willing. It is a part of our religion." That conversation completely exemplifies female sentiment in Utah. The most fiery advocates of polygamy whom I came in contact with were young women. The election that day at Nephi was entirely one-sided. Everybody voted for Cannon and at evening three cheers announced the glorious result.

"ROVER'S" RAMBLES.

A Description of Three of Nebraska's Fertile Counties.

Correspondence of The Bee. CREIGHTON, Neb., October 5.—Leaving Norfolk we pass through Pierce county, moving north along the course of the north fork of the Elkhorn river. Pierce, the county seat, is the first town we meet on the S. C. & P. R. R., and Plainview, ten miles further up the river, are the only trading points in the county. These are both very young towns and only about a dozen houses in each.

The soil in Pierce and Wayne counties and the southern part of Knox county is made up with about the same elements as are usually found in the best agricultural districts of the state. Although there are some places that are too rough to cultivate conveniently, yet they are covered with a heavy growth of grass, and being a higher altitude make the best of ranges for grazing purposes. There are hundreds of acres of grass now standing and going to waste—for want of stock to utilize it. Land can be bought at from $3 to $6 per acre, and in ranges $3 to $5.

In Knox county there are still considerable quantities of government lands now open for homesteads and timber claims. Over 15,000 acres of these timber lands have been taken up during the past season and still they come. Improvements are going on at a rapid pace in this country, and when the soil has been cultivated good crops are grown.

CREIGHTON comes next, and is at present the terminus of the Norfolk branch of the S. C. & P. road. Creighton was first known by that name in 1870, and was located by J. A. Bruce & Sons, who were the first settlers here and located a colony and erected a store, which was abandoned in 1877 on account of a boom three miles due north on Bazile creek.

In the fall of 1880 the railroad grading reached Creighton. This gave emphasis to the town and since that time there has been three stores opened, with two nearly completed. There are now nearly sixteen buildings in town with many more contemplated. There is a mill site here that will be given away to the party who will erect a mill. Speculators are building houses on their lands in this vicinity, and selling them together with any quantity of land desired, on long and easy terms, and I will here say to parties who are looking for rural homes there are no localities that offer more or better inducements than this. The soil is fertile, indeed rich, and at Pierce, Plainview, Creighton and Bazile mills, all branches of merchandise are represented, and at fair prices, thus giving the homesteader a near market and supply point without the inconveniences and perils of old time frontier life.

Bazile Mills.

Correspondence of The Bee. BAZILE MILLS, Neb., October 5.—At Bazile Mills a woolen factory is in course of construction. A large flouring mill was put up by Brooks Bros. in the summer of 1877 and is now running. The year following three stores and eight or ten dwellings were built and so we find it to-day.

The Bazile Mills company are desirous of obtaining the honor of manufacturing the first woolen goods in Nebraska. Machinery will be put in this winter ready for use in the spring.

This town is evidently waiting the action of the railroads which will decide its course. Should it be left out entirely—which is not probable—it will always hold its own on account of its location and water powers. For a distance of six to ten miles around it is a beautiful country with occasionally an improved farm, a rank growth of vegetation. Mr. Geo. Brooks grew 400 bushels of potatoes on 1 1/2 acres of land this summer. The other portion of Knox county is very undulating, sometimes bluff, is high, dry and sheltered, and is the natural home of the SHEEP.

Several large flocks are now grazing therein, and wool growing in northern Nebraska is no longer an experiment. At Creighton I took the stage line for Niobrara, (see time table in advertising column) thirty miles by moonlight, the broad plain with its northern billowy bluffs making a very attractive scene. One application also removed the pain from a very sore toe. My wife's foot was also much inflamed—so much so that she could not walk about the house; she applied the oil, and in twenty-four hours was entirely cured."
