Substantial Improvements Going on in That Bustling

Correspondence of The Bee.

SYRACUSE, October 13. - When 1 looked around for my "ma," but some reason, and you don't know how home-sick I was. No one to care for me, a poor, lone orphan, with only one father and mother, that is living, -groping about in the mud a picture of despair.

Presently I remembered that I was note, and I was very successful in finding them. Space a one prevents me from entering into details, but I will spoil a few sheets, anyhow, (if the land-lady don't object.)

Secretary Hunt ordered an advisory board to prepare plans for a new navy and the members have recommended the construction of four classes of vessels, in which tens of millions would be sunk. If congress could be persuaded to impose such burdens on the people. We do not stop to consider what these plans are, for the simple reason that all the recent attempts at naval architecture, directed by the same minds, have been disgraceful failures.

Millions have been squandered to gratify the caprice of ignorance and incompetency, and other millions have been pocketed by the jobbers who were favored with the execution of visionary and reckless schemes that were the laughing stock of men of science at home and abroad. After these failures, we are now asked to listen to new projects no better designed than the others.

Corn is below the average in quantity, many pieces on high ground is not worth the expense of harvesting, but the quality is good and at the present market prices growers will realize as much from their produce this year as from seasons of larger yield. But few cattle will be fed in this vicinity this winter. Most of the hards will be kept over. Large numbers are crossing the river to be wintered or fed in Iowa. Over 1,000 head passed through Nebraska City on the 1Ith inst.

Bradford, Pa.

When the Union Pacific secured the Kansas Pacific railroad it was generally believed that it would use that line as its principal outlet for Denver from Chicago. But if such was the intention of the Union Pacific people they have no doubt come to their advantage to give up the idea and establish a more direct route from Chicago, via Omaha and Julesburg, and for this reason the Julesburg cut-off was built. Altogether, the Union Pacific has lately shown a much fairer spirit toward Omaha and Chicago than formerly, having found out that in order to keep up its prestige it was necessary to give Chicago all the advantages possible, this being its most direct and convenient route.
