NOT DISBANDED.

The Mammoth Southern Minstrels Showing.

A rumor has been pretty widely circulated about the streets that the Mammoth Southern Minstrels who started from this city some weeks ago had "gone to thunder," having disbanded, and that their manager, Nugent, was on his way back to resume the personal supervision of the variety show in this city. Inasmuch as the Mammoth Southern are essentially an Omaha organization, at the head of which are McIntyre and Heck, a reporter of THE BEE investigated the matter last evening. James Nugent, brother of the manager of the minstrel troupe, denied the story in toto, and showed a letter from the other but three days old, which stated that the troupe are clearing, above expenses and salaries, $200 weekly and promise to do a still better business. The fate of Omaha entertainers in the burnt-over line, does not, therefore, seem to be in the way of failure.

HENRY ANDERSON.

His Version of the Indictment Found in Iowa.

Domestic Infelicity His Excuse For Infidelity.

A Chapter on the Villain Who Still Pursues Him.

To the Editor of THE BEE. WAHOO, Neb., October 18.—I was not much surprised at reading the interesting and flattering report of myself in your issue of the 13th inst., because the author of it has been busy for the past year and a half telling his story and hunting an editor mean enough to advertise his tirade, but failed, and now if you had published his name (which is John Steen) as plainly at the bottom of his article as it appeared in every sentence of it, to the mind of the citizens of Wahoo and vicinity, I would not stoop to notice any part of it, because the general public are not interested in a family quarrel, and such matters should be beneath the notice of a public journal; but as many will read it who are not acquainted with me and who have no opportunity of knowing the circumstances connected with the case, I will accept your kind offer of publishing a reply.

The indictment was found upon the evidence of John Steen, who, under the statutes of Iowa, made an illegal complaint, and then indirectly perjured himself by evading the facts by some heinous pious, known only to those who, on this occasion were admitted into the secrets of the grand jury room. He swore "that in June, 1867, I was married to Carrie A. Anderson, which I am sorry to say is true—"that I lived at Wahoo, and that he was there at the request of the woman I married, his wife's sister, to make the complaint." Thus you see he leaves me in the mind of that grand jury, who were all strangers to me, as being still the husband of Carrie A. Anderson, "the woman I married." He was very careful not to say he was there at the request of my wife. He then identified a picture of myself which he had taken there for that purpose, and ends his testimony. He then has my wife's sister, a little girl 11 years old, brought in before this secret court, and she testified "that she had a sister named Alice who married Henry Anderson, of Wahoo, Nebraska. That she was not at the wedding, but that I had been at her father's house in company with my wife at different times, and that the picture presented was of me." The result was an indictment, as stated. A short time after I had an intimation that something of this kind was going on and I went over to investigate and found the case standing as above stated. I then went to the prosecuting attorney and asked him what he proposed to do about it. If I was to be tried I was there to give bonds for my appearance. But he advised me not to do so, saying he might not want me and it would be a useless expense and inconvenience to attend court to save the forfeiting of my bond, in fact he admitted that he had since come to the conclusion there should not have been an indictment, but it was too late to remedy and Captain (?) John Steen had gained his object and now has got it published and ought to be happy. He had the same kind of a telegram sent to The Herald just in time to be published for the enlightenment and edification of our county convention on the 3d instant, but not having the method to sign his own name, in regard to my leaving for Colorado I will say that in the fall of 1878 I made up my mind that it was useless for me to attempt to live and maintain a house with Carrie A. Anderson any longer and consulted my bosom friend "John" and his verdict was that "he would be G—d— if he would have lived with her half as long as I had," (his own language, not mine), and I commenced preparations for temporary or permanent removal from her as circumstances might dictate, repeatedly counseling Capt. (?) Steen concerning my course, and on February 23, 1880, I had my business matters in shape to leave. The last three months previous to my departure a slight coldness was perceptible on the part of Capt. (?) Steen because I did not turn over my banking business nor the treasurer's office to him as my "nearest and best friend," to use his own language on the evening before I started, when he asked me what I intended to do with my office after I was gone. He supposed he would be as near in the line of succession as any one here. I told him I had employed my deputy during my term of office, and as long as he did the business satisfactorily to the public and myself I should retain the same. This was the straw that broke the camel's back," and Captain (?) John Steen has since laid out his drives to plan how to ruin me, or drive me out of the country. Among other arrangements, I had my attorney prepare a petition suing for divorce in the term of the district court for Saunders county in April, 1880, but with the instruction not to begin action if there was any prospect of Mrs. Carrie A. Anderson beginning an action of the same kind, which she did. What induced her I care not, but that I had any intention or desire to defraud her of any rights or beat her out of any part of her interest in my property is a willful and malicious falsehood, for I did not attempt to dispose of one dollar's worth of property during my absence, nor did I ever write for her to follow me, and what she got was my own free gift, and amounted to $5,000, instead of $5,000, viz: Our house and barn, horse and carriage, well worth $3,000, an 80 acre farm, well improved and good buildings, adjoining town, worth $2,000; twenty-eight town lots, for which I would and will now give her $2,000, and $1,000 cash besides her attorney's fee, the modest sum of $200. If the property has dwindled down to $5,000 it has been done through the manipulations of this same Capt. (?) John Steen, who I know got the most of the cash at the time and even refused to give her a note for it, and his brother's houses are now partly furnished with the furniture out of our home, and then they point to the home of my children, saying they cannot afford to have anything better than the old furniture refused by them. I returned here about the 1st of May, 1880, and found that Carrie A. Anderson had broke up her home and moved to Omaha by the advice of John Steen and her sisters, as she told me herself, and she complained that they treated her so badly, they would not even answer her letters on matters of business, and consequently she wrote to my brother and myself, saying in one of her letters, now before me, that she had "come to the conclusion that if anyone would do anything for her it would be Henry and his folks," but I, another change came over them, and in a December I was married again and brought my wife here, then she said their letters and visits were too numerous to keep account of and nothing would do but she must come back to Wahoo to live, it would make it so much more pleasant for us all you know, and now while I do not think I should have brought a second wife here to be persecuted by these devils had Carrie A. Anderson and our children made this their home. I do not wish to be driven away by these rabble. As to their charge that I avoid my dear children they know it is an infamous lie. On the contrary I never miss an opportunity to see them and they know it so well that they have both coaxed and threatened the children to induce them not to notice or speak to me, and they have even committed violence on the smallest girl in order that they might punish me and have told them that they ought to shoot me if I ever came near them. As to the charge that disease had crazed or impaired the mind of Carrie A. Anderson before our separation it is as false as it is infamous and nobody knows it better than Capt. (?) John Steen and you will please allow me to copy his own voluntary effusion addressed to me four and a half years ago, at a time when Carrie A. Anderson concluded that she could no longer occupy our joint domicile, and I consented to her going away and taking one of the children with her upon the express condition that she should send her money to support her, and whenever she was inclined to come back she was welcome to do so. Three days after her departure I received a letter from her dated Sidney, Neb., saying she was bound for the Black Hills, and wanted me to send her money to go on or else to buy her a house and lot in Sidney. No one knows what I suffered the next couple of weeks. I was just getting established in my business and was entirely alone, so I could not possibly get away, and she would write me almost every mail what a terrible place she was in, and the little child without a place to sleep or keep comfortable, but to cut this narrative short, in the same mail in which I received the first letter from Carrie A. Anderson I received the following from my friend John:

OFFICE OF JOHN STEEN, FREEMONT, March 7, 1877. "MY DEAR HENRY—I learned from Mr. Fuhsman, yesterday, that Carrie was on the train from Wahoo, evidently to try the world alone for an indefinite period of time. As I may not be in Wahoo for a few days I hereby extend my hearty and friendly sympathy, while the separation may not be without its benefits. I think I can readily comprehend the position in which it places you to say the least it must be terrible and it is certainly to be regretted that no other course was possible for either a temporary or permanent peace. The world may never know what you have undergone for the past three years, to continue and uphold a home for the sake of your children not yourself, and the patience with which you have borne it all. But I think that you can appeal to your own conscience for that approbation you failed to receive from an unreasonable, jealous and ungrateful wife, and in case Mother Gosspie becomes too loud, please refer them to your old and steadfast friend, who will stand by you through thick and thin.

"You, as ever, JOHN." Suffice it to add, on this subject, that I do not think she is at all blame for these fits of frenzy, because I believe her mother brought her up to a promiscuous grade by the same conduct, and I am told her sisters are afflicted with periodical screaming fits, and their father told me himself, the last time I saw him—now about nine years ago, and before my family had been disturbed by any trouble—that he feared Carrie and I would not live happily together long, because Carrie was getting more like her mother every day." Is it disease, or what is it that she is all of these years? I might go on and make charges against John Steen's conduct in private life, which are facts to my own knowledge and of equally as a damaging nature, but as I have already said they could be of neither public benefit or particular interest, and rather than to make innocents suffer as they do by such reports I forbear.

I have already written much more than I had any idea of doing, and will leave the case to be judged by friend and foe, as they see fit, relying on the promise from the higher court that He—who once said: "Let him who is without sin cast the first stone"—shall eventually judge who is a villain. Yours, etc., HENRY ANDERSON.

"Don't Know Half Their Value." They cured me of Ague, Biliousness and Kidney Complaint, and recommended. I had a half bottle left which I used for my two little girls, who the doctors and neighbors said could not be cured. I would have lost both of them one night if I had not given them Hop Bitters. They did them so much good I continued their use until they were cured. That is why I say you do not know the value of Hop Bitters, and do not recommend them high enough.—B., Rochester, N. Y. A STRANGE VERDICT,

Which Greatly Astonished Judge Savage's Court.

List of the Jurors Who Brought It In.

The case of the state vs. Frank Martin was concluded in the district court yesterday. Martin, who is a young man, was charged with having made away with one of Jim Stephenson's horses, which that gentleman valued at $80. Martin had represented to Stephenson that he was a commercial man and would probably be out on the road for several days, but there would be no cause to worry. When a few days had elapsed Stephenson did not become alarmed until he received a telegram from Iowa saying that a horse, apparently belonging to him, had been sold there by a stranger. From the description appended to the telegram there was no doubt whatever that the horse was Stephenson's, and a deputy sheriff was at once sent there. He soon returned to the city with the information that the surmises were correct, and Martin being in custody, was looked up. The case against Martin was as clear as it would be possible for a case to be, but nevertheless the jury to whom it was given returned the astonishing verdict of not guilty. Judge Savage himself was taken by surprise and in discharging the prisoner from custody intimated to him that it would not be safe for him to rely upon juries hereafter, which, like the one that had just tried him, seemed to act in the face of positive and direct evidence. He advised the young man to mend his ways and get out of the city as rapidly as it was possible for him to do so. The jury which rendered this peculiar verdict was composed of Joseph Redman, B. L. Keyes, Thos. Price, H. D. Shull, Theodore Grobe, John P. Timperly, Chas. J. Ryan, W. Anderson, Frank E. Currier, Frank P. Hanton, Wm. Crowley, and D. D. Deyo.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Heth, of Lincoln, Neb., is in the city. W. R. Bacon, of Grand Island, is in town. C. C. Freeman, of Exeter, Neb., is in the city. L. Carter, the cattle man, left to-day for the west. Mrs. M. T. Davis, of Beatrice, is at the Withnell. Tom Collins, hailing from Chicago, is at the Creighton house. Fred H. Blecker, agent of the Fay-Templeton opera company, is in town. John Sanger, of Niobrara, Neb., is in the city, a guest at the Creighton house. Hon. Mason Gregg, of Fairbury, Neb., is in the city staying at the Creighton house. G. D. Thayer, from Rock Creek, Wyoming territory, is registered at the Withnell house. Peter Herdic, of Philadelphia, of Herdic coach notoriety, is in the city at the Withnell. Hon. Samuel Chapman, of Plattsmouth, is in the city. He is stopping at the Metropolitan.

Garrigan's Trial.

The trial of P. H. Garrigan, former agent for the Singer sewing-machine company in this city, on an indictment for embezzlement, will probably come on to-day. It will be remembered that Garrigan was arrested in Indiana, on a requisition, by a special detective who discovered his whereabouts in a small town in that state. The chief complainant in the case is Sidney Smith, the general agent for the Singer company in this state. Smith alleges that Garrigan embezzled about $150 in money and machines. The defense will be based upon a general denial of the charges in the indictment.

HERDIC COACHES.

Who Will Run Them in Omaha If They Run at All?

The presence of the venerable Peter Herdic, of Williamsport, Pa., in Omaha, is on business relating to the Herdic coach and its adaptability to Nebraska mud and dust. In Omaha, another thing should be mentioned, and that the crosswalks. It is claimed by many that the low hind axle of the Herdic coach and the high crosswalks in certain parts of the city can never agree, or that the coaches can never go over the walks nor the walks under the coaches without a collision. This is at present more a matter of calculation than of trial. Of course this difficulty will be obviated whenever the streets are fully graded, which it is to be hoped will be in a year or two at the most. But another consideration comes into question now, and that is if the Herdics can be run at all in Omaha. It is reported that the delay on the part of certain gentlemen to push forward the plan of putting the coaches the streets is due to the fact that they have been checkmated, and that parties in Council Bluffs have bought the privilege from Peter Herdic to run the coaches in both cities, paying therefor the neat sum of $10,000. In any event the coaches are a good thing—hand, handsome and cheap to ride in—and could, doubtless, obtain a profitable patronage.

WORTHY OF PRAISE.

As a rule we do not recommend patent medicines, but when we know of one that really is a public benefactor, and does positively cure, then we consider it our duty to impart that information to all. Electric Bitters are truly a most valuable medicine, and will surely cure Biliousness, Fever and Ague, Stomach, Liver and Kidney complaints, even where all other remedies fail. We know whereof we speak, and can freely recommend to all.—(Ex. Sold at 50 cents a bottle. Lah & McMahon.)

South Omaha Sewer Levy.

It will be remembered that some time ago it was decided by the council that if those having claims against the city would mass the amount judgement would at once be confessed and the amount of the claims paid by the city. E. R. French and A. M. Chadwick were trustees for claimant to the amount of $4,745. Yesterday Mr. French presented the matter before Judge Chadwick and City Attorney Manderson confessed judgement in the amount besides the costs. This money cannot at once be paid by the city, but provisions will be made for its payment in the next tax levy.

DISTRICT COURT.

Some of the Offenders Before It Yesterday.

Convictions Secured in a Couple of Cases.

John McDonald was tried in the district court yesterday on charge of robbery. One evening some time ago Jack Connelly alias Whisky Jack, was lying on a sidewalk in his usual condition of elaborate intoxication. He had a short time previously been paid by the U. P. for a month's work, and consequently had about $40 in his possession. While he was lying there a man with the appearance of a re-puted Thespian happened to pass. He rifled Connelly's pocket and moved along. A couple of little boys had, however, noticed the performance, and followed the fellow up until a policeman was met, when the man was arrested. He proved to be John McDonald, one of the alleged actors who perform at the St. Elmo. McDonald, when put on the stand, acknowledged having taken $20, but this did not prevent the jury from bringing him in guilty of grand larceny.

EXPOUNDING THE GOSPEL.

Maj. Whittle's Subject's for the Week.

The terrible condition of the streets did not deter a large audience from gathering in the First Presbyterian church last night. Seats could not be obtained for many in the audience, and those who were consequently compelled to stand during the service. The topic for last evening's discourse was "Guilt of Sin," and this was ably handled by Major Whittle. As usual, Mr. McGranahan and lady gave their assistance in a vocal way. There will be two services held daily during the week, one at 3:30 and another at 7:30. The topics for the afternoon services relate generally to the Holy Spirit and are as follows: On Wednesday, "Walking in the Spirit;" Thursday, "Filled with the Spirit;" Friday, "Prayer for the Spirit." Major Whittle's topics for the evening services throughout the week will be as follows: Wednesday, "Stain of Sin;" Thursday, "Penalty of Sin;" Friday, "Remedy for Sin." There will be no Saturday service.
