

BUSINESS AT THE BLUFFS

Newsy Notes from the Western Iowa Metropolis.

The City Streets Need Permanent Paving.

Lively Row Over a Sunday Gambling Table.

Personals, Pick-Ups and General Items of Interest.

No city of any size can get along many years unless the streets upon which the heavy wholesale business is transacted are paved in some way. The streets in Council Bluffs will certainly, in a very few years, require paving. Our rapidly increasing wholesale business houses will demand it, and, as necessity knows no law, they will have the pavements. Main street, where most of the heavy wholesale business will be done, will demand a solid pavement. Wood won't do, it will take something more substantial. A large portion of Broadway would not require heavy paving. Something lighter would answer and we could get along with one solid paved. For this street there is no doubt the Nicholson pavement would be heavy enough. On account of the level character of Main street and Broadway, the work could be very rapidly carried on, and by doing a little each year we would in a few years see Main street in a condition to defy the rain.

"CRANKY BILL," from Omaha, and Mayor Vaughn met on our streets the other afternoon, "Crank" was unusually cranky, having just come from a saloon. He was very anxious to enter into conversation with our mayor. He stopped him and extended his hand to shake, at the same time informing his honor that the panic of '73 had brought him to the gutter. That he was once a reporter on the Chicago Tribune. His tongue was getting thick and his story thin, so the mayor started to leave when Cranky Bill followed him up and requested the mayor to allow him to proceed, as he believed, when he had heard the full story of his checkered life, he would have compassion. But Mayor Vaughn remarked that he was in a very great hurry that his position as mayor of Council Bluffs would not prevent him from talking to the meanness of God's creatures, but that he would have to excuse him this time as he was on his way to the Northwestern depot to meet the "prince of whales."

SERENADE NOT APPRECIATED. The Council Bluffs jubilee singers, thinking a certain editor might be feeling badly on account of the reaction of the retraction, proceeded to tune up and give their whistles for a pucker. They marched to the residence of the scribe and standing in a row "by the wayside" they opened up their coal scuttles and for a few moments poured forth some "hair splitting" melodies until a neighbor, a colored woman, cried out, "gennens, fur de good Lord's sake give us a rest."

Last evening quite a grand affair took place in the way of a social gathering in Castle hall. Music and dancing were kept up until a late hour. The public were invited, and a large number of our citizens attended. ABOUT THE CLIMATE. Chas. J. Beckman says that he proposes to move to a healthy climate. You are in one now, Mr. Beckman; the healthiest in the country, as shown by statistics, and not only are you living in the healthiest climate, but the pleasantest, take the average year through. This is admitted by people who have resided in all parts of the United States. There is no portion of the United States more healthy than the Missouri Valley, and we find this stated as a fixed fact in our school books. Stay in Council Bluffs and you will not only be healthy but happy and wise.

QUITE A ROW was kicked up in one of our Broadway saloons last Sunday night which we have just dropped on to. It seems that there is an established rule that no cheating in a game of cards for money shall be tolerated. One of the gamblers last Sunday night was caught disobeying the rule in this regard and it being on the Sabbath out of respect for the occasion they determined to set an example, so they pitched in and used the man who dared to cheat in gambling, on Sunday evening especially, pretty roughly. No arrests were made, in fact, no policeman knew anything about the affair. It would seem as if there ought to be some scheme devised by the citizens of Council Bluffs to put a stop to this gambling, Sunday at least. It ought not to be allowed. It is bad enough on secular days, it should not be indulged in on the sabbath.

ADVICE TO A SHADOW. We advise the editor of our morning contemporary to stand by his record, and Justice Frayne to stand by his. The county attorney, Sims, may have been a little hard on the justice if the contents of the retraction is true. But there will be nothing gained by keeping doors open. Let them heel up.

ABOUT THE WHALE. A man who visited the "Prince" yesterday remarked that he was the perfect image of his mother. The reporter of The Nonpariel met the reporter of The Bee. "They have sold the whale," said the Nonpariel man. "Have they?" says The Bee; "who to?" "The U. P.," said The Nonpariel. "Why for?" says The Bee. "Why, they intend to use his mouth for a round house." One beer and a cigar.

MISDEMEANORS. A young lad entered one of our grocery stores on Broadway yesterday, and, drawing a pistol, demanded a loaf of bread. He got it. The man Quinlan, who frightened several women out of their wits yesterday, besides shooting a dog, did not recover from the effects of the whisky until he was arrested by Officer Clough, taken to the calaboose, convicted by Judge Burke and sentenced to the rock pile for a couple of days.

A man by the name of Johnson got pretty full yesterday. He works for Oberfelder & Newman. He went into the workshop and got pretty noisy, when one of the clerks in the employ of the firm informed him that they did not allow any man in the shop who was under the influence of whisky, and told him he must go out. He refused to go, and gave back considerable cheap tongue, when Ned gave him a couple under the ear and landed him out on the sidewalk. Here Johnson picked up a stove cover and was about to "make Rome howl," when Officer Morse appeared upon the scene and hustled him off to the calaboose.

RETURNED. James A. Bell has returned from Colfax Springs, where he has been recently treated for neuralgia. Mr. B. looks very much better than when he went away and speaks very highly of the general and specific recuperating properties of the water there. He says he feels like a new man. Mr. B. informs us that while there he met Judge James G. Day, of the supreme court, who was there for a short season of rest.
