More About the Wrangle Over the Postoffice.

He was searching some telegrams to see if he might not have been mistaken. He could not believe it possible that he would be called to the city. During this time the telephone bell began to ring. "What do you want?" cried the representative from Potawatamie, without looking up. The bell rang again. "Well, what in all do you want? Oh, I am so confused I don't know what I am about!" He dropped the dispatches, ran to the instrument and rang the bell. No answer came. He went back to his desk. Soon the bell rang again. "Oh, thanksgiving!" cried the representative, rang the bell and grabbed the ear plug. "Hallo, who's there?" "Come back!" "ee, what in all do you want?" "Who's so come back?" "Why, organ of the globe. Ont you know my name when you hear it?"

donald, an old Scotch trapper and hunter, who lived for many years among the Dakotas Indians and who became well acquainted with their traditions, stated that among their legends concerning Spirit Mound, was one in which was mentioned the great rock near St. James. It was said that just before a storm a bright light would be seen at night on the summit of Spirit Mound, and that on such occasions a responsive light would appear on the rock. It was supposed that the high, desolate prairie about the rock was a sort of stamping ground for the race of little demons who made their home on Spirit Mound, and that the lights were signals from one to the other. Hence it was, that the great but harmless looking rock which our citizens passed by so fearlessly last week, was such an object of terror fifty years ago to the then residents of this country, that no Indian would visit it under any circumstances.

The above refers to a dispatch sent as purported by the stalwarts of this city, to prevent the confirmation of Mrs. Jane Baldwin, of this city, as postmistress, after her name had been presented to the senate by President Arthur, at the request of Mrs. Baldwin's friends. So far as the democratic finger figured in this matter, we have nothing to say; neither, as to the dispatch signed "Nonpareil," because to that you could attach no special significance. But the last dispatch, worded as it is, officially, would have been well enough, as Mr. Chapman himself is officially connected with the government, and so far as he, can he has a right to select the company he shall keep officially. But why "directly"? That is the word we wish to dwell upon. What reason can the world give for being directly interested in a process that shall take from the widow of Judge Baldwin her only means of sustenance? Has she ever injured him or his? Did her late husband ever do them an injury? From all we can learn we should think that nothing of the kind can be charged. Then where does the direct interest lie? We can account for it only by the same reasons that had for reference by public the object of address delivered by Mrs. Baldwin's son during the funeral obsequies of our late president. Because, somehow Mr. Chapman and Mayor Vaughan dislike John T. Baldwin, and why they dislike him we doubt if they could give a good and sufficient reason. There is no doubt but that improvements could be made in the management of "our postoffice," and of course Mrs. B. will see to this in the future, provided she is confirmed, which we believe will be done. If any individual has a grievance so far as the management of the postoffice is concerned, they have a right to make it known either publicly or privately. If Mr. "Armour" wants an office, he has a right to employ all honorable means to procure one, and if the Nonpareil sees fit to help the democrats in their efforts to procure Mr. Armour the postoffice against Mrs. Baldwin, they have a right to do so. But they have no right to say that several thousand business men of this city are opposed to the confirmation of the widow of Judge Baldwin, or that Mrs. Baldwin's friends have deceived President Arthur in the premises.

Some time ago we were informed by Dr. Poulson that while couple of women were in his office he missed a medicine case. It seems he has found the case, as will appear by the following:
P. WILHELM POULSON.
The Chapman and Vaughan stalwarts will give a social concert very soon. Among other things they will sing the beautiful hymn, "Gode is 'Armour' because, 'nonpareil' we stand." We tried to get the postoffice at the king's command.

A fortune may be spent in using inefficient medicines, when by applying Thomson's Electric Oil a speedy and economical cure can be effected. In cases of rheumatism, lame back, bodily ailments, or pains of every description it affords instant relief.
The White House Being Refurnished.
Everyone who has visited the White House since it was refurnished in 1875 will be glad to know that the steamboat style of furniture in the parlor, which, even when new, has never suited for its original drawing room, is to be replaced by a new set showing handsomely carved wood-work. That which has been there eight years, it will be remembered, showed no wood. The room in which Mrs. Garfield, and afterwards the President, was so long ill is not to be refurnished, as its furniture, which is very handsome, is still in good repair. This furniture is simple and self-contained. The walls have, however, recently been painted over the tinted paper which has been on them so long and which now looks very fresh indeed. The colors are pale blue, paneled with pale pink, divided by gilt moldings. Where the table stood on which the physician and nurses measured out medicines and other liquids used in the sick room the wall had been splashed and was much discolored. These spots are being removed, and the new painting placed in the White House will run up to the attic and can be used either for passengers or household purposes.

Deacon Elder, I want you to tell me how you kept yourself and family well the last season, when all the rest of us have been sick so much, and had the doctors visiting us so often?
"Brother Taylor, the answer is very easy. I used Hop Bitters in time, kept my family well and saved the doctor bills. Three dollars' worth of it kept us well and able to work all the time. I'll warrant it has cost you and the neighbors more than a hundred dollars' apiece to keep sick the same time."
"Deacon, I'll use your medicine hereafter."
FREE OF COST.
DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY FOR Consumption, Coughs and Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, etc., given away in trial bottles free of cost to the afflicted. If you have a bad cough, cold, difficulty of breathing, hoarseness or any affection of the throat or lungs by all means give this wonderful remedy a trial. As you value your existence you cannot afford to let this opportunity pass. We would not afford, and would not let this remedy pass, unless we knew it would accomplish what we claim for it. Thousands of hopeless cases have already been completely cured by it. There is no medicine in the world that will cure one-half the cases that Dr. King's New Discovery will cure. For sale by I. Chief Field, who knows, stated yesterday that the streets of Council Bluffs were somewhat loose, but were dusty when compared with Omaha. If the colonel order the way don't look out he will lose his "Mascotte." Justice John Jay Frinay will run around some time with that chip on his shoulder if he waits for County Attorney Sims to knock it off. This ought to be good weather to run the herds. The people wouldn't walk if they could ride for a while. There was considerable of a commotion the other evening at the Ogden. When the steam was let on a man rushed in and inquired the cause. Colonel Cochran, who sat in the office, remarked that they were trying to get a herd up the front stairs. HEADS OF C. B. LIGHT GEARS. COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia., Oct. 29. All individuals who hereby caused to report their names at 7:30 o'clock (sharp) Saturday, October 29th, in full uniform. B. SIMONSON, Capt. P. Fred Kingle Creston was at the Ogden yesterday. GAMBETTA'S EYE. The story that Gambetta looked out one of his own eyes when a child, because his father would not permit him to do as he pleased, is perfectly true. What is not generally known is that the child, Charles, committed an undisciplined error after this appalling display of wilfulness. The boy was being educated at the Lycee of Cahors, and, conceiving a dislike to the institution, looked to be removed from it. His father, refused again and again. At last Deon said: "I'll put out one of my eyes if you send me back to the Lycee." It was holiday time. "As you please," said the father to whom it seems "not to have occurred" that his boy might have inherited his own strength of purpose. The same day Leon took out a penknife, as the popular tradition has it, but an instant, which he dashed with such violence against the eye as to destroy it. Shocked as was old Gambetta, he would not give in, and Leon returned to the Lycee.

Notwithstanding a drenching rain, Dohann's opera house was filled on Thursday evening to hear and see "Little Boy" in her character in the opera entitled "The Mascotte" as only a madrigal. The opera is simply splendid. The house was kept in an uproar the entire evening. A person feeling downhearted should not fail to attend when this opera company puts "Mascotte" on the boards. The characters were fine and the costumes rich and elegant. John Templeton in the character of Prince Lorenzo XVII is handsome. Seth L. Crane as Pippo cannot be improved upon. Alice Vane and all the girls took their parts charmingly, and the pretty little Mascotte will go hear and see for yourself, and be convinced that she has no peer in that character.
