Omaha Wholesale Market. OFFICE OF THE OMAHA BRE, Saturday Evening, October 29.

MARKET REVIEW. Business has been moderately brisk in the local money market.

The grain trade has been remarkably slow during the greater part of the week. The dullness was due to the continued bad weather to a great extent. Consider ble 9%c weather to a great extent. Consider the specific of the streets, while the elevators were only pay-streets, while the elevators were only paying about 35@37c for oats and 45@50c for corn. Prices for all sorts fluctuated considerably during the week. Wheat closed about 2c lower than was quoted at the beginning of the week. Barley closed ½c lower. Rye unchanged, Corn about the same at the close as was quoted at the opening of the week. Oats ½c higher at the close.

The provision market was charaterized by uncommonly weak and declining prices.

The Council Bluffs stock yards are doing a fair business, and for want of a reliable Omaha market to give we quote Council Bluffs prices. Staples, both raw and manufactured, that have not been subject to speculative manipulation, held up well in prices and buyers took hold of them with confidence in the future values. This condition was observable in iron, paper stock, wool, metals of all kinds, cotton and woolen fabrics, staple varieties of notions, fancy and staple groceries, hardware, paints, oils, etc.

In the local markets wholesale dealers reported a very active state of things.
