The stock market to day opened rather firm, and prices advanced fractionally for the active stocks at the outset. The failure of the Newark bank, however, had the effect of checking any upward movement, and a falling movement set in, which resulted in a decline that rather more than offset the increase of early morning. When the actual facts became known, regarding the Newark bank failure, the market ran along more steadily for general stocks, although there were some feverishness in speculative dealings, and a general desire to sell. This latter tendency became more marked as the day advanced, and it was announced that there had been several commercial failures consequent on the enormous extent of the speculations in the bank. This bank has been regarded as one of the best in the country, and the dullness of the market was because of an unsettled feeling as to whom might be involved in the smash-up. The lowest prices of the day were current during the later hours.

CHICAGO MONEY MARKET.

CHICAGO, October 31.

This week opened with sharp demand for money, and rates ruled firm at 6@7 per cent. All A 1 paper offered was taken. Eeastern exchange between the city banks is firmer at par, and 25c premium per $1,000. The clearings of the associated banks were $7,400,000. The movement of money to and from the city was about evenly balanced.

COMMERCIAL.

Omaha Wholesale Market.

OFFICE OF THE OMAHA BEE, Monday Evening, October 31.

Grain market quiet and no change noted. Provisions steady. Butter scarce and tendency upwards. The demand for creamery exceeds the supply. In previous years the amount of creamery butter used by local retailers was small, but this season the demand compels all retailers to keep it on hand. Nothing new that was especially important occurred among local traders to-day. Merchandising continues as active as ever; the weather was delighful and everything moving smoothly. In drugs we note a decline of 3c for acid tartaric. In oils we note an advance of ½c for carbon and headlight.

At the opening the market was weak under free speculative offerings, prices declining quickly about ¾c per bushel. At the decline a sharp reaction occurred, buyers commenced to purchase more freely and prices were advanced 1½ per bushel, then commenced to recede gradually at first, but were influenced by rumors of the failure of a bank in New York Sunday, and fell off, and a decline of 2c per bushel occurred, fluctuated, and finally closed about 1⅞@1¾c per bushel lower on regular board, and on call at 1 33½ for November, 1 32¾@1 33 for December, 1 30½ for the year; 1 33¾ for January; No 3, quiet at 1 18; rejected, nominal.

Corn—Demand was quite active and the market ruled firmer and higher, prices advancing 1@1⅛c. Toward the close the feeling was not so strong and prices settled back ¼@5c, and ruled comparatively steady to the close. Shipping demand fair. New York Dry Goods

NEW YORK, October 31.

The dry goods jobbing trade has been very quiet in all departments owing to the unfavorable condition of the weather which continues too warm for the distribution of fall and winter goods. It is probable, however, that the business done by jobbers during the month now closed has been larger than any previous October, and there is very hopeful feeling in this branch of trade although irregular and upon the whole sluggish.

FALL SONG

BY BYRON.

Ladies give us your attention
While those attractions few we mention,
Beauties piled up by the score,
At Atkinson's famed First Prize store.
Hats and bonnets every style,
Plush and ribbons by the mile,
Imported straight from foreign coasts,
In every hue the rainbow boasts;
Fancy feathers, tuss and flowers,
Birds and ornaments in showers;
First-class hands to trim 'em o'er,
In Atkinson's famad Leading store.
Ladies' hand-bags, latest shape,
From which no money can escape;
Laced kid gloves in all variety,
Corsets varied to satiety;
Children's dainty hand-knit goods,
Capes and jackets, cloaks and hoods,
For which our patrons daily pour
To Atkinson's famed First Prize store.
Dress goods in every style and shade,
And choicest fancy goods just made,
With charms and beauties hard to tell,
That please the ladies mighty well,
The latest fans and richest jewels;
Zephyrs, cardboard, canvass, crewels,
And a hundred fine and fancy things,
That in vast crowds the people brings
To Atkinson's famed Leading store,
Where bargains loom ne'er seen before.
Here dolls on dolls—you never saw
So large a stock in Omaha—
From tiny dollie, small and shady,
To the stylish got up little lady;
Attentions, numerous and rare,
With which no house can now compare,
So come to Atkinson's Leading store,
And we will show you, tell you more.
