WANTED TO SLAP HIM. Quite a disgusting scene was witlessed on Broadway. A man whose business seems to be to carry a banjo around under his arm got into a war of words with a woman, presumed to be his wife. He was threating to strike her and seemed to be trying to get her on some out-of-the way street, where unmolested by a citizen he could carry out his threat. At the corner of Bryant street and Broadway he wanted her to go down the former street. But she was too sharp for He grabbed hold of her arm him. and declared she should go that way or he would give all she wanted. A man by the name of Kenne happened along and remarked to the man that if he dared to strike that woman there on the street he should take a hand in rheumatism, lame back, bodily ailments, husband didn't let her alone she would slap him in the face, big as he was. "Never mind his size, madam,' said Kenne, "slap him a good one; I'll go you halves." Between Kenne and his wife the man became quite reconciled to the fact that he better let her alone, and they walked down quite peaceable to their boarding house.

PRESENTATION. At the Grand Army camp fire on Friday evening, Mayor Vaughan, in behalf of himself and members of the city council, in an appropriate speech presented the boys with a splendid steel engraving of the battle of Gettysburg. The beautiful picture will be formally accepted at the camp fire next Friday evening.

STEAL OR STARVE.

A woman, mother of a lad who was arrested yesterday, appeared at police headquarters yesterday in behalf of her son, to try and get him released. She said that she was out of fuel, and her boy was all she had to depend upon. That she was in destitute circumstances; that all she had had for a month from the county was one sack of flour; that she must have fuel to keep them warm if the police arrested them in the act. She said that the city had only one officer who had a heart in him, and that was Mayor Vaughan, and his wife was just like him.
