Smith had his life insured for $1,000 in favor of the church of which he was a member. The life of the late Col. Watson B. Smith was insured for $20,000. Of this amount $10,000 was in favor of his wife, $9,000 of his mother and $1,000 of the First Baptist Church. The excursion from Montana eastward over the Union Pacific led Dillon and Silver Bow Junction, Montana, Monday evening, and will reach Omaha Saturday afternoon. A number of witnesses subpoenaed to appear before the U. S. grand jury in the Corbin and Iddings "stare route" cases, came in from the west Monday. They are E. E. Clary, Jas DeVeaux, C. W. Fox and Mr. Lacy. It is claimed that the pistol found at Col. Smith's feet on the night of the murder was one purchased for him during that fair week by Col. D. B. Hall, deputy U. S. marshal. While this may be true enough it doesn't prove anything. Batteries H. F. and L., of the First U. S. Artillery, thirty-five men each, went west at 1:30 p. m. yesterday, on a special train over the U. Beach the handsome and popular book-keeper in the Auditor's office of the B. & M., was passing Boyd's Opera House, one of the pieces of scaffolding fell and hit him on the head, falling him to the ground. A passenger on the C., B. & C. road was boldly attacked by three robbers on the passenger train which left Ottumwa at midnight Monday. The car was full of passengers but no one aided him and the train men were not in sight. After a prolonged struggle the men fled to the approach of the conductor, leaped from the car and left the big and plucky passenger with ably torn suit and clothes and all his money. Maj. Whittle, the evangelist, is accredited with the statement Monday, upon his preparing to leave for the Mormon metropolis, that Omaha was the most difficult city in which he ever attempted to conduct revival work; that, measured by the standard of enthusiasm in the meetings, his success here had been very small; and that he never before met people of the church, pretending and professing Christians, who were so lukewarm in their interest, attendance and assistance. The chief cause of this condition of affairs Maj. Whittle thought was the haste to make money, which swallowed up every other idea. A Talented Lady's Views. Mrs. C. F. Fleming, state lecturer of Missouri, and also an artist of rare merit, whose picture of Adelaide Neilson is pronounced by the press to be the most beautiful portrait in the United States, in a recent letter said: "I have been troubled with kidney disease since my childhood, and it finally culminated in chronic catarrh of the bladder. It would be impossible for me to describe how much I have suffered, and I had abandoned all hope of ever being cured. I was, however, recommended to try Warner's Safe Liver and Kidney Cure, and it has done me more good than the combined skill of all the physicians I have ever tried during my entire life." Such testimony is beyond question, and proves the value to all ladies of the remedy it advocates. Heavy, strong beers were in use formerly, now the exhilarating "Conrad's Budweiser" has taken their place. Ask your grocer for it.

MAXWELL THE MURDERER.

He is Fully Identified and Started for Wisconsin.

Last Night Spent in a Cell in Douglas County Jail.

Sheriff Kilian's Capture Proves to be Big Game Indeed.

Among the passengers on the Union Pacific train from the west yesterday afternoon was a man shackled, handcuffed and closely guarded. It was Edward Maxwell, alias Williams, one of the Wisconsin and Illinois desperadoes, who was captured near Grand Island, Neb., by Sheriff Kilian last Tuesday morning. The men accompanying and guarding him were Joseph Kilian, sheriff of Hall county, Milota Knight, sheriff of Pepin county, Wis.; Henry N. Coleman, of Menominee, Wis., and Ed. C. Coleman, of Knapp, Wis. The four were armed with two Winchester rifles and eight revolvers, and closely watched the handcuffed man; and they had good cause, for they were guarding one of the two men whose names have been the terror of both southern Wisconsin and Northern Illinois for the past year, the notorious WILLIAMS BROTHERS, so-called, whose proper name is Maxwell. These men have been known criminals for several years. In 1876 Edward, the elder, was convicted of horse stealing in Illinois and was sentenced to six years imprisonment in Joliet penitentiary, from which he was released last January. During the time he was behind the bars Alonzo, the younger brother, was also convicted of a like offense, and was imprisoned there for two years. [The latter one of this brace of scoundrels, who have their origin only in the James Brothers' train robbery notoriety, read out his name first and came to Kearney county, Nebraska, where he remained for a short period and succeeded in being arrested two or three times for petit larceny. His experiences in the line of evil doing, however, was not pleasant, evidently, for just previous to Edward's release from Joliet, he wrote him that NEBRASKA WASN'T HEALTHY enough for them and that the imprisoned brother, upon his release, had better join him in Wisconsin, where he was going. An event has proved Nebraska isn't a very "healthy place" for these desperate cut-throats. Accordingly the brothers met in Wisconsin and soon made Durand county the field of various thieving operations, varying their performances now and then with a safe cracking operation. They were very cunning in eluding detection, however, and it was some time before the officers got after them in earnest. They then fled to northern Illinois, where they stole two or three horses and were in turn chased back into Wisconsin. Early in July last they stole two horses from a farmer in Durand county. Charles Coleman, sheriff of the county, and Milton Coleman, his brother and under-sheriff, pursued the Maxwells and attempted to arrest them, when the horse thieves NOT BOTH OFFICERS DEAD. This appalling and cold-blooded murder aroused the whole country, and the Maxwells fled again to Illinois. Their pictures were extensively circulated about Illinois, and Sheriff Lammy, of Calhoun county in that state, got on their track. He pursued them into a forest and brought them to bay, when the desperadoes shot and killed the sheriff and dangerously wounded two men who were with him. The Maxwells then cut the throat of one of the horses ridden by the pursuing party and rode away astride the other two horses. They crossed into Missouri, and from that point all track of them was lost until last Tuesday morning, when Sheriff Kilian surprised them at a farm house about five miles northwest of Grand Island. The particulars of this capture, though imperfectly given before in this Box at the time, were in the main correct, but will bear re-publication. On Monday evening a man told Sheriff Kilian in Grand Island that two desperate looking and suspicious characters were stopping at a farm house, where a German resided, about five miles from town. Kilian concluded to look them up, and during the night went out there, accompanied by one man. Just at daylight on Tuesday morning he knocked at the farmer's door, stating that he and his companions were duck hunters, asked for a cup of coffee. Upon entering the house he observed two men lying on the floor, on a made-up bed, and covered with horse blankets. They immediately arose and commenced dressing. While the farmer's wife was preparing the coffee the sheriff was looking the strangers over. His chief cause of this condition of affairs Maj. Whittle thought was the haste to make money, which swallowed up every other idea. Maxwell, alias "Williams," brothers and stepped into an adjoining room where he consulted pictures of the outlaws he had in his pocket and which had been sent him after their escape. When he came back into the main room he again looked at them carefully and became satisfied that he had the right men. He observed, however, that the two were heavily armed, both having Winchester rifles and revolvers. While he was endeavoring to devise some way in which to bag his game one of the men, who turns out to be the younger brother, went out doors, leaving his brother sitting on a trunk and holding a rifle in one hand. Acting on the advantage, Sheriff Kilian stepped up to the remaining man and said: "I WANT YOU." Maxwell made a quick move to raise his rifle, but the officer was too "handy" for him and grasped hold of the piece, at the same time shouting to his deputy to watch the doors and windows. After a brief struggle Maxwell was overpowered and shackled, but not before he had raised a war-whoop which brought the other brother on the run to the scene. Snapping the handcuffs on

THE CITY COUNCIL.

Invited to Call and See the Completed Waterworks.

Miscellaneous Business Transactions.

The regular meeting of the city council last evening was called to order a little late, owing to the slow work of collecting a quorum. At roll-call there were present Messrs. Baker, Dellone, Dunham, Herman, Hornberger, Kaufmann, O'Keefe, Stull and President Dailey. Mr. Dailey being called to the chair, stated that Mr. N. Shelton, of the waterworks company, was present and desired to say something to the council before proceeding to business. Mr. Shelton said: "The time for the completion of the waterworks is nearly at hand and the waterworks are nearly done. They would have been completed ere this time but for the bad weather, and will be finished by Saturday night. There have been many experiments in the construction of the works, and some of these had to be discarded as useless. There are some things called for in the contract that will not be found and that we do not think will be needed. I want to invite the mayor and council to set a time, one day this week, when they will go with me to inspect the works and decide for themselves what they want done. It is for them to decide." Mr. Kaufmann moved that the time be fixed for 2 p. m. of Friday, which was done. The journal was then read by the clerk and approved. Baker, Dunham and Herman. From the city engineer giving list of sidewalks ordered and not constructed. From property owners on south Tenth street, between Castellar and Dorcas, asking that the order to lay sidewalks in that locality be rescinded. Mr. Bothwell, by permission addressed the council in regard to this petition asking that no discrimination be used in the laying of sidewalks, which seems to have caused considerable agitation in South Omaha. On motion the petition was referred to the committee on sidewalks and bridges with instructions to report at next meeting. The report of the city engineer on sidewalks not constructed was referred to same committee. From L. B. Williams and fifty-two others calling attention to the scandalous condition of the gutter on 15th and Douglas and asking that the nuisance be abated. Referred to committee on streets and grades.
