Social Events of Pleasure and Importance

A Mother Hunting After Her Lost Daughter.

We are informed that the Herdics are not dead, but sleep, and as lady and gentleman making an ac der they will run faster than ever be- recognize each other on the street fore. Probably no enterprise was afterwards. We have quite a habit ever undertaken in this city that met times like boys, even after we have at first with such obstacles. The been introduced at a church sociable streets never were in such a condition. Mr. vaughan is determined, the present time is not a thing we can however, that they shall succeed in brag of when girls are allowed to this city, and thinks that with our parade our streets at all times of the night, cursing and slinging words not annual amount of good traveling they found in the dictionary, in the pres-will pay handsomely. There is nothing like having plenty of nerve. FORTUNE TELLING.

For instance, the lady informed her that she was married at the age of 14, which the woman says is correct, Several who have called have come away well satisfied with the price paid. The lady's system of fortune telding is carried on by the manipulation of common playing cards and deft questions by which she gets her data for the fortune telling.

NOT SHELLS FROM THE SEA SHORE. Mention was made in THE BEE a few days since that, while digging a well, Henry De Long struck a strata of what he supposed to be shells about one foot in thickness. One of Council Bluffs' scientists called at this office yesterday and wants to be heard on the subject. He gives it as his opinion that that the shells, supposed to be sea shells, was a collection of what is known as the Helix shells or land snail cil Bluffs. shells, which abound in this vicinity, and can be found in large quantities throughout timbered localities. school rooms during the cold weather they should be excused for being tardy, while the quarentine is on. ANOTHER VICTIM.

A couple appeared before Justice to be married. The ceremony was performed to the satisfaction of all present. The groom handed the court $5, and arm in arm, they, he with his bride, left the court room. They repaired to one of our hotels for the night. The next morning the groom appeared again before the court and wanted to know how much it was he gave him the night before. Why $5. Do you want any of it back. Yes, replied the young man, I think $2 enough for that job, I find I have been terribly taken in. There is a leak somewhere. The court returned the $3 and with sadness depicted upon his countenance he left the room. IN A BAD BOAT.

Poor Swickart has at last come to grief. We understand that for some reason his wife has left him. He has been a man of property, but has been unable to keep it. Property gone, and what is worse, wife, all gone, leaves a man in a pretty critical condition, especially at his time in life.

NEGLECTED DUTY. Judge James, before leaving the city, neglected to put his signature to several ordinances, including the one authorizing the issuing of water bonds, If anything should happen to him, we would be bound to the American conatruction company without any voted
