Miss Kellogg Receives an Ovation. Which is Shared by Her Company.

The grand concert presented in the opera house last evening is undoubtedly the musical event of the season in Omaha. The fame of Clara Louise Kellogg, heralded through both continents; of itself would have been enough to attract a large and musically enthusiastic audience had she never before visited the Gate city. But when the melody of magnificent voice had once before electrified and charmed the most critical residents of our city, and where it was known that she was to appear with a support equal, and The internal rev nue receipts at the perhaps superior to any in the world, it was not so surprising that the most the boy preacher, of Massachusetts, passed fashionable, critical and largest audience that ever greeted a prima donna here should have been drawn together. Frank Reed was taken before County Judge Chadwick Wednesday on a writ of habeas corpus, on which his release from the county jail was asked. Yesterday Judge Chadwick rendered a decision sustaining the

Reed has been fined, altogether, for being a "suspicious character" $85 and costs of three examinations. He was sentenced to ten days in jail and obliged to serve a part of his sentence for the same offense. All the evidence produced in court against Reed was, that he was unknown, and that he had at the different times he was arrested various sums of money, ranging from $200 to $500. Upon the examination he refused to disclose his business, or his residence—which he had a perfect right to refuse. Upon the outside and in the hearing of the city police court the statements have been made that Reed was believed to be a "crook" and banker or "fence," for the thieves and crooks which are claimed to be operating in this city and Council Bluffs. Not a word of e idence to that effect has been produced upon ham street, and wil soon build a spacious any or either of the examinations. The question then arises, very pertinently, why was not such evidence produced if it exists? The decision of Judge Chadwick is manifestly just. In what degree Judge Beneke has conformed to his prerogatives is a legal question. One thing, however, seems patent. If Reed has been around he been made a prisoner three times, and fined nearly one hundred dollars, simply because he had money and kept his mouth shut? There is an in-

An Attempt by the B. & M. Company to Close Ninth Street.

The Marshal Orders the Workmen to Quit Operations

Early yesterday a citizen of the Miss cific and B. & M. depots, called upon Councilman McGavock, chairman of the committee on streets and grades, and informed him that the B. & M. company had men at work fencing in, or rather, fencing out, that portion of Ninth street, between the alley-way south of the B. & M. depot and the

The property on both sides of this street up to the alley way was pur chased some time ago by the B. & M. Company, and will eventually be entirely utilized for depot purposes. A huge steam shovel has been at work for a number of days cutting away dirt from the embankment south of the depot. A gravel train and about one hundred laborers have also been employed in loading and carrying off the earth thus obtained.

The usual habit of residents in this vicinity has been to go to the depots by Ninth street, and to also take the same way across the tracks to the U. P. depot platform and thence to Tenth street. For this purpose a broad flight of steps has facilitated the descent of the embankment. During the recent work of excavating, the location of these stairs has been dug away and the steps removed. Wednesday, as above stated, the company's workmen dug post holes across Ninth street in the line of the alley and yesterday planted several posts. The residents around there consequently made the protest to Council-Hon. H. M. Atkinson, surveyor man McGavock, and the latter gentlegeneral of New Mexico, and Miss Ida | man called upon the Marshal to stop proceedings. When the Marshal appeared upon the scene, the foreman of the fence gang stated that he their return will visit two days in had received his orders to go ahead and fence the street out, and didn't know anything else about it. He thought, however, that it was the intention of the company to simply fence across the street to prevent people from falling down the bank while the excavating was going on and the steps were away.

Councilman McGavock informed the Marshal that the city was responsible for all danger to pedestrians and would protect the bank. The Marshal therefore ordered the foreman to move the posts, fill up the holes, and leave the street open for travel. This is doubtless a sensible move, as, the street once fenced in. the railroad company would be in a position to enjoin the city authorities from removing the obstruction, and las county, Nebraska. "The Omaha delay proceedings by vexatious legal proceedings.
