- He Pleads "Not Guilty" Both the Indictments.
- Refuses Counsel and Wants Judge Dundy to Try Him.
- He Protests Against His Quarters in the County
- And Tells All He Knows About His Connection With the Smith Murder.
- At the hour for the morning session of the United States court yesterday, August Arndt, the man accused of making threats against Judge Dundy, for which two indictments have been found against him by the grand jury, and who is suspected of the murder of the late Watson | self B. Smith, was brought into the U. S the bond in your injunction suit, which you building by the jailor and deputy you thought had not been filed by Col. marshal. It was the intention to arraign | Smith?" him on the indictments and pending the writing a statement of his case for THE and that the injunction was estopped by the filing of the two affidavits of Messrs.
- A BEE reporter being present obtained permission of the marshal and district atpermission of the marshal and district ac-torney to converse with him, a privilege which has been steadily denied since his arrest until now. While the reporter was preparing to take down the prisoner's statement, Judge Dundy entered the room, and, advancing to the desk, spoke to Arndt, who had asked to see him. A PROTEST.
- Mr. Arndt arose and protested in the name of justice and humanity against further confin-ment, in such quarters as those to which he had been assigned. He asserted that it was worse than the punishment of the old Inquisition; that he was put in with a man who was literally alive with vermin, which crawled over his person so thickly that they could be combed off with a currycomb. He said he h d eaten nothing whatever since last Thursday, except on Sunday, when he ate a little to sustain life and that he had said to the jailors that he would not eat another bite until he had a tria', if he ded for it. He also complained that he had feen ordered to scrub out the cell, and that he and his cellmate had been refused a rag to wipe up the floor, being told that if they did not do as they were ordered the hose would be turned on them.

 Judge Dandy interrupted the prisoner and told him that if he had any complaints to make of his treatment in confinement, they shall be made to the marshal, and the marshal coming in, Judge stairs by some friends and slept all night.
- prisoner went down stairs, where court was duly opened, there being pre-sent, beside the prisoner and BEE reporter, the district attorney, several dep- uty marshals, d tectives, etc.
 "What lawyer have you, Mr. Arudt? a-ked the judge.
 "I have none," was the reply. "I should consider it as an insult to ask any memory of this bar to defend me in this proceeding and an insult to the fairness of the court. If I had any lawyer I would want one trom Courtil Bluffs or
- I would want one from Council Bluffs, or elsewhere, who is entirely unacquainted with the case. Otherwise I will defend "I think I can prove that this is a malicious prosecution on the part of those with whom I am contending at law. I would like to m ke a statement in writing and I think I know of witnesses by whom I can prove that the whole thing is a trumped up affai
- that the whole thing is a trumped up affair between the efficers and employes of the railroad company. I have always been a law-abiding man, and I never so much as sus ected your honor of any inclination to decide otherwise than right. If I had, I should have had my suit brought in Iowa, of which state I am a citizen. Railroad men in town, where I board d, have told me that it was useless the railroad company: that I was fight the vailroad company; that I was bucking against fifty million dollars and I said I was glad if they had that much, I was a poor man and wasn't afraid that they could buy up the court or jury."
 "I may have said things which were too
- strong, but I understand the language imperfectly, and if my words have been subject to misconstruction, it is because I did not fully understand their meaning. Judge Dundy advise the prisoner not
- to say too much at present, as it might prejudice his case. "I am not afraid of that," said Arndt "I heard my lawyer say, in regard to making certain points in my case, "We will make the court do it," meaning that the papers and proofs were sufficient to do so. I said in the same way about getting my suit rein tated, "I will compel the court to reinstate me," and I meant it in the same way." Arndt then proceeded with a brief statement of his trials and wrongs
- which was paid.

 - Mr. Arndt refused again to ask for counsel, and Judge Dundy said if he didn't do so, he should appoint counsel anyway. Arndt said "I shall refuse it if
 - you do. '
 Judge Dundy said, "I do not feel that I can try this case.
 "I insist upon your doing so," said
 - Lambertson, however on the part of jected, on the part of the government, and suggested that the dis-trict judge or some one e'se could be in-duced to serve for the occasion, and asked that the court appoint counsel for Arndt, the latter then insi-ting that if he did the attorney so appointed should not be one of the local bar.

 Mr. Arndt was then taken to the marshal's office on the same floor, and the reporters given time for a conversation with

 - Mr. Arndt said:

 "From all the circumstances which occurred at the time of my trouble with the company and during the whole four years of litigation and trouble, taking into consideration the threats made against me, I claim that it was one great conspiracy to make me powerless and that my arrest and the rumors circulated about my supposed connection with the murder of Mr. Smith, were the crowning acts of the malicious persecution by the Union Pacific railroad company and their employes."
 - "LIKE A SWARM OF BEES,"

- were suspected in this connection?" asked the reporter.
 "I soon knew of the suspicious because I was followed by so many, who surrounded me like a swarm of rece, a ked my opinion about it, expressed their own to draw me out." Mr. Arndt then detailed some of his theories which have already been published, concerning the possibility of the shooting being actidental and also what he had said about the possibility of suicide, if Col. Smith was, as was recorded, an embergier to the office." "Did you ever assert that Col. Smith was an embezzler to the office."
 - "I never made any such a charge Well, now, just what was the nature of y ar misuaderstanding, if any, with were suspected in this connection?" asked

- "I will tell you," was the answer. "I went to Mr. Webster at one time to employ him to get my case reinstated. He said he must see the records before he could undertake it. He went and examined the records and afterwards told me that Mr. Smith had told him that about a dozen lawyers had been employed in my case, and that the last one to whom I applied refused because of its being im-
- possible to get any pay out of me. I told him that if Col. Smith had told him this it was a lie, and was for the purpose of preventing from securing a lawyer. I referre Webster to Captain Richards him
- "Yes, my Lincoln attorney arrival of Judge Dundy he was given a not recorded, but on examination into dent. seat in the clerk's office, where he began the case, I found that the bond was filed
 - Poppleton and Burnham."
 "Dien't you threaten to sue Co', Smith "I did say once in Redick & Redick's office that I would sue Col Smith for receiving fees and not filing the papers, but the amount in question was only about $1. Redick said I had enough suits now on hands and had better not begin any more. I had Mr. Smith's letter notifying me of the receipt of the bond and the fee for filing the same."
- and told him that if he man plaints to make of his treatment in confinement, they she uld be made to the marshal, and the marshal coming in, Judge Dundy left for the rooms below, where he was hearing an argument in an important case.

The Influence of the Railroad Enter-

- Last evening's train on the Wabash, St. Louis & Pacific railway brought to this city Mr. Ed. L. Edholm, the whilom "immigration boomster" of Nebraska, who comes direct from Texas, the theater of Mr. G uld's recent great railway enter-
- Mr. Edholm has been absent from Oma ha more than t elve months, and he has in the meanwhile made a tour of the states of Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, Kansas and Missouri, and his views on the situation
- a e given below.

 In reply to the question, "How do you find affairs in the south?" Mr. Edholm said: "I find everything in a flourishing and prosperous c ndition, while the catton crop was somewhat short, yet they make
- up in staple what is lacking in quality.
 This applies to the other southens ates as well as Texas,"
 "What do the southern people think of
- the Gould system of railways in the south-"They generally regard Mr. Gould as the greatest benefactor of the south since
- the war, as his enterprises are bringing more capital, energy and lie into the country than any other agency ever did since the war."
 "Loes the south generally look with favor on northern and European immigra-
- "The southern people are not fools. Knowing their capital was all wiped out by the emancipation, they now most heartily encou age the influx of men of means sand energy from the northern and eastern states, and guarantee all who may settle in their midst not only perfect immunity, but also every inducement in the way of property and rights in reason."

 "What about the new Southern Pacific railways"
- "It is completed. Shipments of freight and passengers are now being made via the Missouri Pacific, Texas Pacific and Southern Pacific railways, and
- and Southern Facine railways, and already the travel via the new road line is very heavy. When the Texas & Pacific railroad completes its line into New Orleans, it will undoubtedly increase "What do you think of Texas as a country calculated to induce immigra-
- "I look upon Texas as one of the great est, the grandest, and most inviting field for immigrants both from Europe and the United States, in our country, from the fact that all may be suited and made satis-fied within its borders. Containing an area equal to five other states combined, it offers every vari ty of soil, climate and production, and is capable of supporting no less than 50,000,000 of people in ease and affluence, and then it would not be as thickly settled as Vermont or Massachusetts."
- "Are there many people going into the outhwest?
- "Every train over the St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern and Misseuri Pacific railways carries hundreds of peo-ple who are going into that country to engage in agricultural or stock raising pur-uits. All these will do well; they must do we'l from an analogous mode of rea-soning, as all who have gone into that country have done well, where common prudence and an ordinary amount of com-mon sense has been displayed."

 Mr. Edholm is well known to almost every proposent cityen of Nelvaka and
- every prominent citizen of Nebraska and his words must carry some weight with them. For more than two years he faithfully labored for the interests of this state, and when the legislature of 1881 restate, and when the legislature of 1881 refnsed to aid the matter of immigration he went south, into the country thought worthy of attention by Mr. Gould, and the above are his ideas and opinions, formed after mature deliberation and thought.

 Madame Charlton Edholm, well known
- in Omaha and Nebraska, has accompanied her husband through the great southwest and she also expresses herself as highly pleased with the people, the condition and outlook of that wonderful country.

CURRIES' QUARRY

- An Important Industry For Omaha
- Builders and Contractors
- Mr. John Currie, of Lincoln, has lessed the stone quarries formerly belonging to D. Swee y, two miles southwest of South
- It may be proper to state that Mr. Currie is a practical stonecutter, and has handled almost every kind of stone in the sountry, including granite and marble, being the successful bidder on the first insane asylum in the state and later in a sub-contract of the penitentiary completion. He was foreman on the Grand Central hotel of this city, under J. Green, the contractor, and is considered authority for saying that the stone he has in this new quarry is as fine as any sandstone known and a beautiful white in color. From the hest rources it is known to be a good we therer and will not wash live most
- lin estone, or run rust as some sandstone. It will make very fine white lime a d Mr. Currie will start two kilns burning immediately. It is well known that large amounts of money are sent sbroad for dimensions and paving stone when we have as good if not a better quality of stone in our own state for all purposes Mr. Currie is p cpared to furnish such stone on a living margin, and
- lime at less than it can be laid down for from foreign kilns. He is here now ar-ranging for rates and seeing the contrac-tors of our town, and states that the B. & M, general officers are willing to do the nice thing, as they always do, and agree to haul the stone and lime to Omaho as
- cheap as po sible.

 We understand that the Dakota penitentiary commissioners will see Mr. Currie's quarry and are to decide soon a hat stone they will take for that job. We are gled to learn of this new quarry as it will enable our people to build cheater than when stone has to be imported from other
