LAND GRABBERS.

August Arndt's Statement of His Troubles with the Union Pacific.

He Believes Himself Able at Last to Beat Them.

In the interview with August Arndt yesterday, the Dix reporter asked him for a statement of the relations existing between himself and the Union Pacific Railroad Company, in connection with the present suit out of which it is claimed the arrest came.

"On the 27th day of September, 1878," said the land agent, "I bought of J. B. Davis, the president of the U. P. railroad at Wahoo, the W. of section 27, township 14, range 20, and was advised and proved by the land commissioner, and the contract made out payment to be made in sixty days.

"When I tendered the money and demanded the deed, the agent, after many excuses, told me that the land was delivered to me, and permission given to erect buildings and make desired improvements thereon."

"I took the advice of a lawyer, who advised me to pre-empt the land, so as to secure my buildings, which I did, pre-empting the quarter section. After a letter from the agent at that time was requested by the company to call me to his office at Wahoo and that if I did not comply with his request I would not be very probable to me. I accordingly went to see him and, at his request, to Omaha, where I saw Superintendent Clark."

"Some time after, I received an anonymous letter, reciting that I would be lynched if I did not leave in three days. At that time the suit for 'forcible entry' was begun. On J. B. Davis, an employee of the railroad company, in the name of H. B. Hill, at Wahoo, threatened to raise a mob against me, and to hold me off the place by force."

"To prove the malice of the company's officers, aroused by the prosecution of my claims, and the accusations openly made against them, it will be seen how they have conspired to connect my name with the assassination of Col. Watson B. Smith."

"At a meeting of Omaha council No. 24, of Home Circle, held Tuesday, the 23rd of October, were elected: Leader—A. F. Borden; Vice Leader, F. J. McShane; Secretary, Charles Kuhlman; Treasurer, C. K. Coleman; M. E. and Financier, Dr. L. B. Grady; Instructor, Dr. E. L. Higgins. The installation of officers will take place Tuesday, January 3, 1882."

"Mr. E. B. Fry and Miss Allie Churchill, of this city, won the champion belt and badge at Council Bluffs Tuesday, in the competition waltz for the championship of Iowa. They waltzed two hours and forty-three minutes. They will receive the Iowa state prizes, a silver belt for the gentlemen and a gold medal for the lady, at a party to be given on January 24. Mr. Fry and Miss Churchill carried off the Council Bluffs city honors in a waltz last year."

"Two dozen deer exhibition in the show window of L. B. Williams & Sons are drawing considerable attention. It is their novel idea to make a display of this kind, but the deer are certainly a curiosity, decorated as they are with fine leas, ribbons, etc. A reporter of THE BEE, seeing a crowd thronging in that direction, dropped in to learn the excitement, and found the animals really deserved a mention. The reporter suggested that something cheap in the window might be a still greater attraction, but Mr. Williams assured him that what was dear at other stores were cheap here, and the reporter left, wondering if those deer were cheap."

PREPARING FOR O'CONNOR.

The Land League Will Give Him a Royal Reception.

Largely and Enthusiastic Meeting of Irishmen Last Evening.

The Irish citizens of Omaha are preparing to give the Hon. T. P. O'Connor a rousing welcome to-morrow. A large and enthusiastic meeting was held at Kuony's (formerly Clark's) hall, at which the Land League, Ladies' League and Ancient Order of Hibernians societies were liberally represented.

A PERILOUS CLIMB.

Breasting the Snow Without Food and Among Mountain Lions.

Eating Horse Feed and Fainting by the Wayside.

L. M. Dey, the officer in charge of the Omaha signal office for so long and who was at his own request transferred to Pike's Peak Station some time ago, is in the city having been summoned to appear before the United States Grand jury to testify as to what he may have seen or heard on the night of the murder of Col. Watson B. Smith. Mr. Dey was, it will be remembered the last man who saw the colonel alive, and was asleep in the room overhead at the time of the tragedy.

Sergeant Dey left Omaha for his new field on the 8th of November, going by way of Denver, and directly through from there to Colorado Springs, seventy-five miles, via the Denver & Rio Grande road. Colorado Springs is eighteen miles from the Peak, and he is starting point of the trail by which he reached there. There is also a sign I station here, united with that on the Peak by a telegraph line, and both stations are in charge of Officer L. M. Dey, who has assistants and makes his headquarters at the two alternately.

Mr. Dey arrived at the Springs in the midst of the heaviest snow storm ever known there at that season of the year, and was compelled to wait fifteen days before proceeding to the summit. On the 25th he, with two others, started on the trip, which is usually made in five days. They had along two mules, which they rode by turns and a burro or pack animal. The trail had been partially broken by a longer route than is usually followed, and accordingly took that, starting out after breakfast and expecting to accomplish the thirty miles before evening, and consequently going unprepared for the night. Going through the timber belt they were compelled to wade through snow waist deep, and it was scarcely less after leaving the timber.

At Seven Lakes, five miles from the Peak, they left the mules and burro and proceeded on foot, but with great difficulty. Mr. Dey became very sick, and had to lie down and rest for a few hours. They had along two mules, which they rode by turns and a burro or pack animal. The trail had been partially broken by a longer route than is usually followed, and accordingly took that, starting out after breakfast and expecting to accomplish the thirty miles before evening, and consequently going unprepared for the night.

In the morning they found the tracks of several mountain lions within twenty feet of them. The hardest climbing was yet to come and Mr. Dey, completely exhausted, had to lie down every little while, and could not get up without the aid of his assistants. The house of ice, with its hundred yards of the summit, finally falling from exhaustion and having to be carried to the station. They found the man in charge anxiously awaiting their arrival. He had been alone for three weeks, and the telegraph line being down, he had no news from earth in any form.

PREPARING FOR O'CONNOR.

The Land League Will Give Him a Royal Reception.

Largely and Enthusiastic Meeting of Irishmen Last Evening.

The Irish citizens of Omaha are preparing to give the Hon. T. P. O'Connor a rousing welcome to-morrow. A large and enthusiastic meeting was held at Kuony's (formerly Clark's) hall, at which the Land League, Ladies' League and Ancient Order of Hibernians societies were liberally represented. Reports were presented, which showed that many hundred tickets for O'Connor's lecture, in Boyd's opera house to-morrow evening, had already been sold.

A resolution was unanimously passed, to the effect that all Irishmen in the city who can do so are to meet in the hall at 7 o'clock in the evening, and march thence to the Creighton house, headed by the A. O. of H. and Irish American band, and escort Mr. O'Connor to the opera house. By another resolution it was determined to elect Mr. O'Connor an honorary member, secretary of state, state treasurer, auditor of state and other state officials to attend the lecture. The mayor, city council and clergy most of all attendances in Omaha are also to be tendered complimentary tickets for themselves and families, and are especially invited to be present.

The land league appointed the president F. W. Gray, the ancient order of Hibernians appointed secretary Patrick Ford; and the Emmett Monument Association will appoint today a representative delegation to the committee on reception in conjunction with Mayor Boyd and the council committee, Messrs. Baker and McNamara. These committees will meet the general committee on the night of the reception of Mr. O'Connor, and tender him the freedom of the city.

These efforts on the part of the land league and other societies will, without doubt, ensure an overflowing and enthusiastically received by the eminent patriot, who is to speak on a suffering people's cause. The following address to the Irishmen and other citizens of Omaha is worthy of notice: HON. T. P. O'CONNOR.

The people of this city will have the pleasure of hearing the Irish land question fully explained by one of the most talented and gifted leaders of the Irish people, at a public address on the Friday evening, 23d inst. As already stated the subject of his address will be the land question in Ireland. Therefore the Irish people of this place are respectfully invited to attend. It may also be added that it is not simply a matter concerning the Irish people, but a question which in a minor degree concerns every citizen of this country, and fully shown by the learned gentleman on the coming occasion. It is simply a question of right against might and oppression. There is no other question at all, but all who love justice and humanity, should be present to hear this distinguished gentleman on Friday night.

Mr. O'Connor is one of the ablest representatives of the people of Ireland in the British parliament. It would be a treat to hear him on any question, but particularly so on a question of such importance. He will not only answer all the questions of the disturbance in Ireland; omit, and you will regret it hereafter. It is hoped to see an audience worthy of the speaker.

THE COMING LAND LEAGUE FAIR. Other business of importance was transacted at the land league meeting, which concerned the coming fair, commencing July 9th, about $100 in addition to the land league fund was secured. The readiness of every one present indicated that nothing will be left undone to make the fair a great success. The ladies are making extensive preparations toward the coming fair, and every one is doing handsome works of art is also assured. A vote of thanks was extended to the A. O. of H. band for their courtesy in relinquishing the large room on the night of the 12th of January. The date of the ball has been changed to the 26th.

Evils to be Avoided. Over-eating is in one sense as productive of evil as intemperance in drinking. Avoid eating too much, and the food purified with BRIDGE BROWN BITTERS, and you will be rewarded with robust health and an invigorated system. Price $1.00, trial size 50 cents. dec19-cod5w

OGDEN'S BOOM. What a Former Omaha Man Thinks Regarding That Thriving Western City. A. C. Smith, familiarly known as "Doc" Smith, the enterprising Ogden agent of Tootle, Maul & Co., of this city, arrived in Omaha yesterday. He will remain here for the holidays and visit with his many friends. Mr. Smith speaks of Ogden in the most glowing terms. Among the things he said to a Bee reporter last evening, that the Denver and Rio Grande railroad company are making rapid advances in the projective line to Ogden from Salt Lake City, and have revived an abandoned industry in the former city by introducing a large iron mill there and putting it in running order. The opening of this new road is going to do much, in his opinion, to increase the growth of Ogden, which is already of a very solid and thriving character. The Ogdenites, according to Mr. Smith, brag especially upon the electric light which is already in use, and the effect is to be proved by the majority of the business houses. The first attempts at establishment of the electric light were fairly discouraging, but now it is working most satisfactorily. In the center of the business part a mass of 120 feet high bears four large lamps, and a number of lamps are distributed throughout other portions of the town. The whole is run by the electric light, and continues running at 3 o'clock each afternoon and continues until midnight. As Ogden has no gas, the use of the electric light is necessarily general, and the effect is to make the streets as light as day. The cost is about $100 per annum for each light, one sufficient to light a large store or saloon without the use of a lamp.

California's Prosperity. Ex-Governor Lowe, of California, passed through the city yesterday on his way east, accompanied by his family. Referring to the wine producing interests of California he said that there was no doubt but that it would become in a few years the leading industry.

THE COURTS.

A Quiet Day in the Halls of Justice.

In the District Court, yesterday, the motion for a new trial in the case of Chas. P. DeGroot came up and was submitted to Judge Savage without argument. His decision will not be announced until the last day of court. The grounds for a new trial are founded on the exceptions to ruling and testimony made during the trial. It is expected that court will adjourn on Friday or Saturday at furthest, and Judge Savage has announced his determination to close the term just as soon as business gives out.

The motion to quash the liquor indictments, submitted by Judge Baldwin, was Tuesday overruled in the district court, the court at the same time strongly intimating that the position taken by the counsel in support of the motion would, upon a trial of the case, no doubt be sustained. If the sale of the liquor was actually within the limit of the city of Omaha the indictments should be charge to warrant a conviction. There were other defects, advantage of which could only be taken upon appeal of the case, P. S. COURT.

In the United States court everything was quiet, the utter absence of attorneys from home or abroad indicating a day today. It is expected that court will adjourn on Friday, the January term coming on now so early, January 21. The grand jury is still at work. PALMER COURT. Judge Benke had three victims yesterday, one slouching, one disturber of the peace and one suspicious character. The latter was discharged with a one good advice and the first two fined $10 and $3 respectively.

A Ghastly Floater. The news is just received that a floater was found about ten days ago west of Mead, near Key Creek island, in the Missouri. The body was that of a man, and was entirely divested of clothing. It was also entirely unrecognizable. As no record downing has been reported along the Missouri, it is possible that the floater found is the remains of the same foatlyard individual who attempted to swim the river on the Sunday Card. The body was arrived at Omaha. The man drowned at that time was never identified, it being uncertain which one he was of the two painters who had boarded at Peter Gross' hotel.
