The Coming Holiday Week and What it Will Bring.

Social Notes and Polite Personalities

Like the lull which precedes the storm, the present week has been one of unusual quiet in social circles. Next week will be without exception the most brilliant in the annals of Omaha, and every one who expects to participate in the dozen or more parties, for which invitations are issued, is on the tip-toe of pleasurable expectation for what the coming evenings will bring forth. The HUNDREDTH PARTY. of the "Pleasant Hours" club takes place on Friday evening, December 20th, and will consist of a reunion and a banquet to the club members and their lady friends. The invitations Thea Madsen, aged 25, which appeared on Thursday are exquisite specimens of the engravers art printed on the heaviest card board twice folded, each fold opening outward with the invitation graved on the interior. Upon the outside folds are the letters "P. H." and "Organized 1868-9," "Reunion

On account of the great pressure on the executive committee for invitations to outside parties, they have been compelled to announce that no Omaha Augusta Proplesch, aged 20. gentlemen not a member of the club will be invited.

MILLARD PARTY.

On Thursday evening Miss Carrie Millard entertained a large number of her friends at her residence on Capitol avenue and Nineteenth streets, the party being given in honor of Miss Lucy Jenness, of Detroit, who is spending the holidays in the city. Nearly ninety invi-tations were issued exclusively to unmarried people, and the spacious par-lors of the Millard residence were filled to overflowing with the constantly arriving guests. The entire first floor was devoted to the dancers, who, from shortly after 8 until long after midnight, made merry to the strains of Hoffman's orchestra. In the intermission an elegant supper was served, after which dancing was resumed, and kept up till a late hour, when the guests dispersed, hav ing passed a most thoroughly delightful evening.

Among those present were the Misses Jenness of Detroit, Hoyt of Utica, Wood, Chambers, Balcombe, Wakely, Etta Wells, Ringwalt, Lottie and Carrie Congdon, Dora and Nelia Lehmer, Wilbur, Shears, Rem Ross and Mrs. Watson, Messrs.
