Plymouth, N. C., Captured by an Armed Mob.

Who Have Already Wounded Four Whites and Will Not Allow Them Medical Help.

Three Companies of Militia Sent by the Governor to Quell the Disturbance

With Orders to Use Grape and Canister if Necessary.

RALPH, December 30.—At Plymouth, N. C., an armed mob of negroes have taken possession of the town and threaten to tear down the jail and rescue Jake Stinger, a colored politician. The sheriff and a posse are guarding the jail and troops have been asked of the governor.

RALPH, N. C., December 30.—The latest information from Plymouth, the scene of the negro riot, indicates that the rioters do not intend to disperse until forced to do so, and they have obtained an old cannon and formed a barricade across one of the streets of the town. The leader of the party is a heavy young negro named Dick Hickens, who has been generally regarded as a lawless and dangerous character. The more peaceful negroes have been intimidated by the actions of the riot and given to understand that they have not to lend their help in the fight, should a conflict be brought on.

The town is one of the oldest in the state. It is on the Plymouth strand, about thirty miles from a telegraph line on the railroad. The fact that it is remotely located gives the negroes, who are largely in the majority, confidence in their ability to cope with the whites. In response to appeals of the mayor and other leading citizens of Plymouth, the governor has ordered three companies of state militia to the scene of the impending riot. These troops will leave here and other portions of the state as soon as they can make arrangements to do so. They will be under command of an old ex-confederate officer, whose experience and courage are relied upon to quell the disorder without bloodshed. If the negroes cannot be dispersed quickly the troops will have no scruple about firing into them. Four white men have already been wounded and the blacks will not permit the physicians to attend them.

Assassination in Arizona

SAN FRANCISCO, December 30.—A determined attempt to assassinate Deputy United States Marshal Barry was made at Tombstone, Arizona, last night. He was fired upon with double-barreled shotguns loaded with buckshot by three men concealed in an unfinished building and was wounded in the elbow and groin. His condition is very critical. Judge Spicer, Marshal Williams, Wyatt Earp, Reebough and others to whom the cow-boys have sent anonymous letters bidding them leave, are in danger of assassination. No attempt to capture the assassins has yet been made.

Robbery of Street Cars

TOLEDO, O., December 30.—An organized gang of bandits seem to have made a plan for a general raid upon the street cars last night. About 7 o'clock the "highwaymen" presented their cocked revolvers before a driver of the Erie street cars and demanded his money box, which he quickly gave up. About 10 o'clock a band, perhaps the same one, carried off the money box of a Summit Hill street car in a similar manner. Later in the evening a like attempt upon the Moropolitan line was frustrated by the presence of a number of men in the car.

Dr. Boynton and Garfield

TOPEKA, December 30.—Replying to the statement of Marshal Henry, as telegraphed from Washington concerning the expenses incident to the illness of the late President Garfield, Dr. S. E. Boynton says he never made any charges during the president's sickness. He had been Garfield's physician in Ohio, and by request, attended Mrs. Garfield at Washington. When he left Garfield gave him a check for $1,000, which he returned, saying that he visited Washington as a friend and desired no remuneration for his services.

Murdered in His Hallway

NEW YORK, December 30.—Lewis Hiner, aged 40, a saloon-keeper at 144 West Twenty-sixth street, was murdered at 2 o'clock this morning in the hallway of his house by some unknown persons, supposed to have been thieves. Hiner, who slept over the saloon, was aroused by hearing a noise in the store and started down stairs to ascertain the cause. In the dark hallway he came upon the intruders, who shot and killed him and escaped before the occupants of the house were aroused. The police are searching for the murderers.

Wife Murderer Hanged

ST. LOUIS, December 30.—Erb, the wife murderer, was hanged here at 8 o'clock this morning. He arose at 4:15 a. m., asked for a drink of whiskey, chatted pleasantly about the approaching holidays, professed almost a willingness to die as a proper expiation of the crime, ascended the scaffold firmly, and died game.

Cooking Main

LANCASTER, Ohio, December 30.—A cooking main lasting all day was fought yesterday for $1,000 a side. Forty birds were left dead in the pit.

HONEY FOR THE LADIES.

Low corsets are pointed. New trains are richly trimmed. Brides wear loose wristed gloves. Stylish blouses are of green cloth. Lace sleeves are going out of style. Silvered tulle is used for ball dresses. Plush sacques are worn at lunch parties. Shrimp pink is much used for evening dresses. Necklaces of gold beads are chosen by young ladies. Crapes puff the neck and wrists of rich dresses. Jetted bonnets reappear as the favorite black bonnets. Ostrich feathers loop the drapery of evening dresses. Small globes and shades are provided for wax candles. Chandron or copper color is the new red-brown shade. New bodices are straight across the front and given to stock boots. Diamonds and beads are worn as bracelets by ladies in mourning. White, and pale pink bonnets are most worn at receptions. Young ladies abroad carry slender ebony canes with beads. Antique heads, with jeweled eyes, are the vogue for bracelets. Ostrich feather bodices are preferred to those of fur or rich cloaks. A Syracuse girl paid a man $25 to learn her how to play draw poker. It is asserted that about 300 Boston ladies operate at stock boards. Diamond collar buttons are preferred to brooches for ladies' linen collars. Tambourines decorated with head painting are used for bon-bon boxes. Ladies' rings have the stones set around the finger, instead of lengthwise. Veil with the flowers sunk in the pile is the favorite material for trains. Low necked dresses are more worn now than they have been for many seasons. Rose blue and green are combined with silver figures on tulle for ball costumes. White dresses are not so popular this winter for children as they were last year. Ladies in mourning wear entire dresses of crape with cut jet beads for garniture. Satin with lace flounces is the fashionable black toilet for dinners and receptions. Sleeves slightly gathered into the arm hole are more stylish than those made with puffs. Black gloves, black stockings and black all-pers are worn with white satin evening dresses. White nun's veiling dresses for New Year receptions are to be worn by ladies in mourning. Slender Venetian chains are the only gold chains now worn around the neck with pendants. A fashionable belle wishing to be very serene on a rival said the only thing that wasn't false about her was the hole in her stocking. A Baltimore physician says that high heels cause the calf of the leg to dwindle away to leanness of decrepit age and become a thin, shapeless shank. A new washing machine advertisement has a cut representing nicely dressed young ladies crowding around the machine, all apparently eager for the privilege of doing the family washing. One of the allegations made in a Louisville wife's bill of divorce is that her husband's cure for jealousy, compelled her to kiss the woman of whom she was jealous, having brought the latter to the house for the purpose. A noted flirt at Akron, O., is said to have all her love letters bound in a volume for her parlor table. It is a Him-book, in both long and short meet her. If this volume were to be produced to prove that she is a less than creature, she would have to plead jilgy. J. Norristown Herald.

CONNUBIALITIES.

A new law in Kansas forbids any person to marry within six months after divorcing a divorce. Judge Pratt of Syracuse, ex-attorney-at-law, is said to have been married on Monday, in 75 years old. Senator Charles W. Jones, of Florida, will soon marry Miss Moseley, of an old family of that name at Newburyport, Mass. At Boston the newest feature is to have the bride and bridegroom stand during the ceremony in a floral grove made of chrysanthemums, asters, lilies, passion flowers and anemones. Mr. George A. Sikes, of New York, who has attained to the ripe age of 81 and the ownership of ten millions, is just married to Mrs. Sawyer, his nurse and housekeeper of the past fifteen or sixteen years. The invitations declared that "no presents are expected, and none will be received." The bridegroom's son, Gen. Daniel E. Sikes, was opposed to the wedding and declined attending it. New York, December 22.—The social event of the week has been the marriage of the young and only unmarried daughter of William H. Vanderbilt to Dr. Seward Webb, son of James Watson Webb. The wedding took Mr. Vanderbilt, in presents and in expenditures, about half a million dollars. Let us who has just turned twenty, has been the cynosure of all the young men in New York society for two seasons, and it is said that her suitors have numbered about three score and ten. The rage for color develops itself in many ways; for instance, at a church wedding lately the eight bridesmaids were dressed in as many different colors. A great deal of careful arrangement was necessary to produce a harmonious grouping; the result, however, was cleverly achieved. In the past, wedding appointments meant many old-time honored rules have ceased to fetter individual choice. Account was given lately of a French bride who was accompanied by twelve bridesmaids, and is as lively as a cricket. I shall certainly be in fact that when the pastor and the deacons saw it they blushed, and declared with emphasis that the screen could not be exhibited, and should not be sold. This shows that virtue has not entirely departed from Indiana. In his last Friday evening lecture Mr. Beecher said that Plymouth church was founded by men who had script issued to them equal to the amount of their contributions, answering into per cent interest, so that the contributors "got a very good sum out of the church," said Mr. Beecher. One of these gentlemen was sent to a front seat in the pulpit, but instead of availing himself of the privilege he sat back in the rear under the gallery. The reason for this was very hard to learn, until in a confidential mood he "gave him self away" to a fellow member by saying: "If I sit away up among those fellows that put bills on the plate I'll have to give the bills; but when I get back here on the day I can give a quarter and nobody will know the difference." The Independent, referring to the fact that "the Episcopal bishop of Canada recently declared that the church in Denver, delivering it over to secular uses," says: "How did it do it? Not said. Perhaps he said the prayer-book consecration of service back in the year 1850, when the congregation of St. James' church, New London, moved into their new church the psalms for the day began: 'O God, the heathen are come into thine inheritance. Thy holy temple also have they defiled, etc. The point of application was that the Unitarians took possession of it the first of the psalms for the day. It was the only de-consecration service on record until now. No offense to our Unitarian friends was intended. It was the Episcopal church, in its own 'undesignated consecration'; but we are making things worse, instead of better, as usual, when one tries to explain it."

To a Skull.

Turn your face this way; I'm not weary of it; Every hour I every day; More and more I love it; (Crying in that jolly way) Of hair and empty eyes. Was this hollow done, When I lay in my bed, Once the spirit's narrow home— Where you loved to linger, Hiding, as I do, are we, From the self-same destiny? O'er and o'er again Has a I put the query: Was existence all vain? That you look so cheery? Death of such a benefit? That you smile to think of it? Did your throbbing brow Of such fancying as now? You, at last, may utter In that grin so grimly bland! Only death can understand! Has the shallow glee Of old dreams of pleasure Left you ever wholly free To float on the sea of life? O'er the shoreless, trackless trance Of an unclouded circumstance? Only this I read In your changeless features: You, at least, have gained a meed Held from living creatures: You have taught to seek, Beside, You do grin to spite of it! Kissing on the Stairs. An hour we'd spent in rambling through The Athenaeum hall; And gazing at the pictures fair That hung upon the walls, Sweet dreams of love and beauty far Away drove all our cares; And then we lithely went our way A down the winding stairs. The echoes from our footsteps rang Through the silence else so chaste; For none in sight or hearing were; And then around us, as we went, I stole my arm and pressed you close, As lover only dares, And, while you marveled at my act, I kissed you on the stairs. How rosy red your sweet face grew I yet recall full well; And how you look to see that none Had spied us, darling Nell; Ah! sweet the memory of that day I took you unawares. Close clasped you to my throbbing breast, And kissed you on the stairs, And well I, too, remember, Nell, How, seeing none were nigh, Again you let me press you close, And smothered half a sigh, Which waked a memory of my heart Of half-remembered airs; And, as my pressure you returned, You kissed me on the stairs. How dear that moment's transport sweet Still is to my memory clings, And to my longing, lone some heart A A song ever sings; Forgotten were the pictures seen, Forgotten all our cares, As I kissed you, my darling, and You kissed me on the stairs. H. SCHONFELD Proprietor of the ANTIQUARIAN Book Store!

The Antiquarian's Warning. Do not trust him, gentle reader, though his shelves look trim and neat. Do not trust him, gentle reader, though his shelves look trim and neat. Do not trust him, gentle reader, though his shelves look trim and neat.

Reader, once there lived a student, Who long sought for learning rare, And he met him on the sidewalk, And he lured him to his store. And he talked to him of TRADE SALES, POTTAGE books and SCHUMUCKER'S lore; And I met him plodding homeward With a bundle in his door.

Gentle reader, I have waited, - Nightly I have walked the street, Lingerer for you on the corner, And this happy hour we meet! Raise your eye to yonder window, Where our student, in the night, With a page of SCHUMUCKER'S history, Rises up his pipe to light.

Reader, turn not from me coldly, The truth only have I told; I warn the 'pious' from the book stores, Where the customers are sold. I would shield thee from all danger, I shield thee from the plate glass snare; - Shame, O, shame the gilder's covetous, I have warned thee—NOW BEWARE!

It is to be regretted that so many booksellers, if it were necessary, fill their shelves with cheap trash, and thus convert their stores into mere charnel houses.

JEWELRY to be MANUFACTURED. While our Work is better, our Prices are Lower than all others.

AT THE LAST STATE FAIR I received all of the SIX FIRST PREMIUMS offered for Competition in our line Over All Competitors.

For the Best Watch Work, For the Best Jewelry, (own make.) For the Best Engraving, For the Best Diamonds (own importation) FOR THE BEST QUALITY GOODS DISPLAYED, ETC.

Having lately enlarged my workshops and putting in new and improved machinery, I hope to still more improve the quality and finish of our work and fill orders with more promptness than is usual.

CAUTION! My Motto has always been and always will be: "First to gain superiority and then advertise the fact—not before—no wild advertisements. Some unprincipled dealers being in the habit of copying my announcements, I would beg you, the reader of this, to draw a line between such copied advertisements and those of Yours very truly,
