TREASURE TROVES OF SILVER

Mingled, Not With The Golden Apples of Hesperides.

But With Golden Emblems of Affection and Esteem For Colonel and Mrs. W. F. Sapp.

On the Occasion of the Twenty-Fifth Anniversary of Their Marriage.

The Ogden House a Blaze of Light and Beauty.

Never, perhaps, in her previous history has society in Council Bluffs been so brilliantly gay and happy as upon last evening, when it really seemed as if all the refined and cultured people in the state...

Mrs. Mary C. Sapp, nee Brown, is the daughter of Capt. R. M. Brown, a gentleman who made an enviable reputation for gallantry during the war of 1812...

Over the hills and far away, Beyond their utmost purple rim, Thro' all the world she followed him.

Colonel William F. Sapp was born in Daville, Knox county, Ohio, son of John and Elizabeth Sapp...

A rich and heavy coin silver, gold lined, soup ladle, from Mrs. Thos. J. Evans.

A lovely berry ladle, daintily engraved, from Judge and Mrs. McCrary.

A silver and gold sugar sieve, from Mr. and Mrs. George Gerner.

A beautiful gold and silver cream ladle from the Misses Nealy and Carrie Stevens, daughters of Mr. S. S. Stevens...

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Smith, a silver and gold wrought creamer.

life has been, as it were, one of mingled joy and bliss, which the Bee hopes will follow on down the other side until they pass at a ripe old age through the shadow into a bright and endless sunshine.

A lack of space forbids a full description of the magnificent array of presents and we shall therefore confine ourselves to a simple enumeration of those most remarkable for their intrinsic and artistic worth and beauty.

First on the list comes a magnificent case of California laurel inlaid with mahogany, containing forty-three pieces of sterling silverware...

Mrs. J. N. Baldwin, a dainty costume of pink broad satin, hand painted, chosen with exquisite taste.

Mrs. George A. Keeline (the belle of the ball), a costume of ruby silk and velvet, harmonizing admirably with the style of the wearer.

Mrs. Wirt, a niece of Senator Blaine, costume of heliotrope silk and velvet.

Mrs. Fisher, a charming robe of brown silk and point lace.

Mrs. J. Y. Fuller, artistic costume of aches of roses silk.

Mrs. Dr. Lyman, lemon colored brocade, (very pretty).

Mrs. Henry Metcalf, rich black satin brocade.

Mrs. Esther Dowling, light blue satin, fine Spanish lace.

Mrs. Nora Leimer, costume of blue merino, trimmed with swans-down, graceful and charming.

Mrs. May Stone, of Chicago, ruby satin and fine Spanish lace overdress, fresh and winsome.

Our short hand notes must suffice to tell the tale already told.

Mrs. Carrie Stevens was fortunate enough to secure the ring in the cake. It could not grace a fairer hand.

Mrs. Phelps deserves the thanks of the entire company for the grace and skill with which she presided over the refreshment room and her endeavors to make everybody happy.

Mrs. Stevens in her arrangement of affairs generally and decorations of the rooms proved herself the queenly artist that she is.

A few of the many present: Mr. and Mrs. John Dohany, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Evans, Mr. W. H. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dowling and Mrs. Dowling, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. NEXT WEEK AT BOYD'S.

Two Great Attractions Booked for the Opera House.

The Troubadours With Their Bolshaking Fun and Ada Gray in Her Strong Dramas.

The coming week at Boyd's opera house will be full of attractions. The jolly, laughing Troubadours will open the week by appearing on Monday afternoon in 'Patchwork'...

Back to a former state. The best salve for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all kinds of skin eruptions. This salve is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction in every case or money refunded. Price, 25c per box. For sale by Tow & McManon, Omaha.

Be sure you go to HUBBARD'S now. Everything in the jewelry line. Not only the largest stock can be found there but the lowest prices also.

BONNERS for Fine Furniture and Stoves. Brompton's the Best Cough Syrup. See card in another column. dec. 2-1f.

The Bath Herald has the following to remark concerning the Troubadours' performance in this city: It is impossible to analyze the elements of success in this entertainment and it is difficult to describe the pleasure it affords.

The principal element of success is the heartiness with which it is presented by Salabury's Troubadours—laughter is never forced and it is never courted by an approach to vulgarity, but is won by appeals to that love of fun which is deeply ingrained in the English character.

The company seem to enter completely into the fun of the thing and to enjoy it as much as the audience. The spirit is unflagging and their perception of the possibilities of every position complete. If it be true that a good hearty laugh saves a man a doctor's bill, the Troubadours will enable every play-goer to add a long list of credits to his medicine account.

ADA GRAY, the famous emotional actress, will open for three nights and matinee on Thursday. This popular artist is supported by a first-class company, and as it is her first visit to Omaha she will doubtless be well received.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat speaks thus favorably of Miss Gray's performance in 'East Lynne,' which she presents on the opening night at Boyd's.

An audience full of sympathy with the actress greeted Miss Gray in her dual role of Lady Isabel and Mme. Vine in 'East Lynne.' Miss Gray last evening drew tears from many eyes by her faithful portrayal of character. In the first act she looked and acted Lady Isabel to the life. The delicate play-actress, full of lights and shades of comedy of the first school; the feeling of jealousy that moved her being and worked her final ruin, was full of delicate handling. Most actresses rush abruptly toward their own ruin, painting the effect without sufficient cause. Miss Gray draws the line with force; not until conviction forces itself home that her husband is unfaithful, does she surrender herself to the storm of jealousy that hurls her into the arms of Leiston.

The interview with Lord Mount Severn was tender and touching, and her grief quiet and natural; the outbursts of feeling were the means of a heart breaking with shame and remorse. In a scene with Leiston, when he stabs her with the truth of his duplicity and teaching, her force and action were truly wonderful in expressing the feelings that moved her. As Madame Vine, she was powerful, intense and soul-harrowing, perfect in distinction, vibrating the character with the delicate tint of sentiment, moving to tears by the power of feeling. The action at the death-bed of her child, for dramatic intensity and tragic power a handsomely and in the entire range of the drama; every nerve seemed unstrung, reason and judgment unsettled, her brain crazed by grief at her great loss, like a reed in a storm her body swayed to and fro, her whole manner wildly distracted, her speech incoherent and so laden with grief that each word seemed wrung from a desolate heart.

No picture of intense suffering lives in our memory; throughout the entire scene the flashes of dramatic fire illuminated the picture. Miss Gray is a great actress, and lights up the character with the fire of genius.

Not For a Fortune. "How I wouldn't marry her if she'd a fortune. Poor girl, she'd be all right if she took Spring Blossom, the best thing in the world for offensive breath. Price 50 cents, trial bottles 10 cents. 25-1w

THE PASS BUSINESS. A Misstatement Regarding a Broker's Office.

The Herald yesterday contained the following: "A young man named Elliott, who was bound for Fort Collins, Col., purchased a pass of Hobbie Bros., the ticket brokers, in this city, on Tuesday, the pass having been issued in favor of one Allyn to Ogden. Hobbie Bros. assured him that the pass (and everybody is supposed to know what passes are not sold) was transferable, but the conductor saw that the pass was being misused, and refused to allow Elliott to travel upon it. Thereupon Elliott was obliged to take the next train back to this city and demand a return of his money from the brokers, which, after making much trouble, they did. Elliott was in delicate health and the inconvenience, delay, and expense of returning, annoyed him greatly and he expressed his mind pretty freely in regard to the brokers' imposition. It was not the first case that had originated from that office, however, and the brokers ought to know better than to be parties to getting travelers in such a fix."

Hobbie Bros., who are reputable ticket brokers, deny in toto every assertion made in the above paragraph except that they sold Elliott the pass when Elliott came to them for a

WORTHY OF PRAISE. As a rule we do not recommend patent medicines, but when we know of one that really is a public benefactor, and does positively cure, then we consider it our duty to impart that information to all. Electric Bitters are truly a most valuable medicine, and will surely cure Biliousness, Fever and Ague, Stomach, Liver and Kidney complaints, even when all other remedies fail. We know whereof we speak, and can freely recommend to all—[Ex. Sold at 50 cents a bottle. Tah & McManon. (7)
