THE MIDDEN HAND.

This sensational comedy from the popular story by Mrs. Southworth, was presented at the Academy of Music last evening to a fair audience. The play was very finely represented and elicited unbounded enthusiasm throughout. Miss Herbert was especially happy in the double role of Archie the news boy" and afterwards | broad scar on the left cheek. 'Capitola the heiress." Her acting last evening was of a very superior sort, and she attracted much favor with the entire house from the start, Ferguson, as Wool, was inimitable as usual and made a big hit in his character songs. August Arndt, the man now in jail on the charge of threatening Judge Dundy, and against whom grave auspicions were entertained in various confirmed a decision of the district court against Mrs. Arndt's claim to the property of Wm. Edwards, her former husband. Edwards lived at Cresco, Iowa, and was separated from his wife by a decree of divorce. During the year following the decree the court house of the county in which Cresco is situated, was burned and all of the court records, among which was the decree, were destroyed Last February, Edwards was found dead in his shop, with a rope around his neck and his hands tied. The at coroner's jury came to a verdict of suicide. Edwards left about $18,000 in real estate and other property. For this Mrs. Edwards put in a claim, suing the administrator, E. Gillette After the suit was begun she married Arndt who had been around there and acquainted with her for some The administrator, in behalf of English heirs, put in a defense and Mrs. Arndt, nee Edwards, was beaten. Since then Arndt has been fighting the case still further in the supreme court, from which the above decision has just been handed down.

BROKE LOOSE.

A Series of Invasions on Private Premises.

Indicating a Renewel of the Kinney Business

About a year ago the city was infested with as bad a gang of burglars as ever picked a lock or blowed a safe. It is now believed that the notorious Luke Kinney was at the head of the nightly outrages and that he has a successor in the business is apparent from the fact that the robberies have recommenced. The best advice doors and windows before the raid reaches them.

Thuriday as Mr. Gus Phlemmer. who resides in North Omaha, was on his way home, he became aware that he was being followed by some one. When near the military bridge he saw that two men were coming up to him from behind and with some apprehension he increased his gate to a lively walk. As he got up near the residence of the deputy clerk, Herbert Leavitt, he was overtaken and one of his pursuers struck him on the head with something, which he thinks was a sand bag. He was stunned but did not fall, and ran from there to his house, about three blocks distant, escaping his assailants, whose object no doubt was robbery. The men were well dressed, and one was quite heavy set, with a long black moustache, and a
