LOCAL BREVITIES.

La Mascotte and the "Gobbler" duet at Boyd's Opera House to-night. The Odd Fellows' excursion to Blair to-night will be a delightful affair. Fresh vaccine virus with full directions for using, just received at Kennard Brothers. Haverly's Mastodons on Monday night at Boyd's. The sale of seats begins Friday morning. The second sociable of the Presbyterian church will be held in the church parlors this evening. The county commissioners at their meeting Tuesday appointed Capt. J. J. Neligh constable for the Third ward. There were three plain drunks before Judge Benke yesterday. All were fined and no paid, while the other two gave good security for the amount. The Walsh company has unloaded a large quantity of the material at the Transfer to be used in the construction of the iron sheds for that company. The Omaha Barbed Wire Co., have just purchased fifty carloads of wire and have orders enough ahead to consume the entire amount. A shopman, who was crazy drunk, roused the whole lower part of town Tuesday by his denunciations yells on the river front. He was run down and captured by Officer McCune. Information has been received in this city of the death of Mrs. J. R. Gaine, wife of the Grand Master of Masons of Nebraska. She died at Falls City last Monday afternoon. Dr. Ayres accomplished yesterday the greatest feat of vaccination on record, inoculating 389 persons with the virus. Small pox will have little chance in Omaha if this style of vaccination is kept up. The jury in the case of Steele, Johnson & Co. vs. Honan, Tuesday gave the plaintiffs a judgment for the amount claimed, $200. A suit for $250 has been commenced by the same parties against J. S. McCormick. The rehearsal of the Philomathean club at Julius Meyer's rooms Tuesday gave promise for some charming music at the grand concert and ball of the Hebrew Benevolent society at Standard hall, Tuesday evening next. During the month of December there passed both ways over the Union Pacific bridge at this point just 7,801 loaded cars of freight. At the rate of $10 per car, this shows a revenue of $78,010. This is outside of the passenger business. The rule now is for every lady to have her age indicated on her hat brim. Every inch of width represents three years. A ten inch brim means that the lady is thirty years old; a twenty inch brim shows that she is sixty, and so on. The third party of the Terpsichorean Club was held at Standard hall Tuesday. About 40 couples were present. The programme embraced a charming order of dances and with the ample refreshments and music the occasion was a most delightful one. The report of the killing of John Bull by Jim Bush, in Denver, proves not to be entirely correct. There was a difficulty between them on Friday morning, in which Bull was shot in the foot, accidentally. It is claimed. Bush "can tell B. Bull's foot" now, sure. At a meeting of the Menoraher society Tuesday Herman Rosenkrantz was elected president. Ed. Wirth secretary and John Bummer treasurer. Six committees were appointed to arrange for and superintend the grand music ball to be given by the society next week. Mrs. Barney Shannon, who was arrested on the charge of selling liquor on Sunday was released on her own recognizance in the sum of $200. The case will be heard Jan. 15th. Barney claims that eighteen other saloons were open on Sunday and that he is being persecuted. P. E. Floden, one of Max Meyer & Bro's workmen was stopped Tuesday while going to his home near the end of the red street car line. Two men jumped over a fence and accosted him, but he thinks that the presence of a neighbor's large dog dissuaded them from their purpose. U. S. Marshal Chase, of Idaho, who is now in Omaha on a few days visit, wears an unique scarf pin which he says contains the coat of arms of his territory. It is the picture of a solitary jack rabbit gazing in meek stupidity at a disc of about one inch away which is supposed to represent the moon. The explanation of the device is, according to the marshal, that there is nothing else for the jack rabbit to look at except the moon. No More Hard Times. If you will stop depending so much on fine clothes; rich food and stylish, but good, healthy food, cheaper and better clothing; get more real and substantial things of life every way, and especially stop the foolish habit of employing expensive, quack doctors or using so much of the vile lumbago medicine that does you only harm, but put your trust in that simple, pure remedy, Hop Bitters; that cures always at a trifling cost, and you will see good times and have good health. A DETECTIVE'S OPINION.

He Declares that Col. Watson B. Smith was Brutally Murdered.

And that Arndt is Perfectly Innocent of the Crime.

The Latter Allowed to go to the Depot Alone.

He is Not Only Willing But Anxious for His Trial.

Tuesday morning, as was previously announced, August Arndt, the much-persecuted farmer, and the almost inopotent victim of prejudice on the part of the U. P. railroad, was taken to Lincoln to be tried on indictment for having threatened the life of Judge Dundy. The train upon which the unfortunate man was taken to the place of trial, left over the B. & M. at 8:40 o'clock, in the morning. It had been expected by those who had given the matter any attention, that in view of the barbarous instincts of the man, and the enmity (?) of his past life, and the diabolical (?) nature of a certain crime which it is sought to lay at his door, as tried to be proved by the mercenary scribblers of the U. P. road; that the prisoner, Arndt, would be conveyed to the depot, with the closest watch and the strongest guard which it is possible for the government to exercise and give under those circumstances. THE BEE, however, is informed that nothing of the kind was done, and that, in fact, Arndt, without manacles, without any person to conduct him, walked to the depot to take the train to the place where he is to account for the charges alleged against him. It is true, however, that another prisoner was taken to the same train, and was conveyed to Lincoln also, and this prisoner was in the custody of Mr. J. J. Neligh, superintendent of the Western Detective Agency, and with whom he walked nearly a block behind Arndt. As there was something mysterious in all this, THE BEE reporter determined to investigate. On Tuesday afternoon he ferreted out Mr. Neligh and asked for an explanation. Reporter. I understand you took Arndt to the train yesterday. Mr. Neligh. Yes. Rep. How came you to do so? Mr. N. I was requested last night by Deputy Marshal Stevenson, owing to the sickness of Mr. Bierbrocker, as also to the absence of the deputies, to take him to the train, and to delegate somebody to take charge of him and another prisoner, while on the road to Lincoln. Rep. Why did you allow him to walk alone, and unguarded to the depot? Mr. N. Mr. Sanders, who was appointed to watch them to Lincoln, and myself, were rather late in getting to the jail. There was barely time then to make the train, and Sanders having left his baggage on Farnam street, started to get it, leaving me to escort the prisoners, Garey and Arndt, down Harney and Tenth streets to the depot. I walked beside Garey, who was carrying some heavy baggage, while Arndt walked some distance ahead. Rep. Were you not afraid of his escaping? Mr. N. No, I would have trusted him to go alone. Rep. Doesn't that show too much carelessness and confidence in a man suspected of the murder of Col. Smith? Mr. N. Why, my dear friend that poor old "crank," although possibly guilty of threatening the life of Judge Dundy and that of other U. S. officers, and although cranky on many other matters, had no more to do with the murder of Col. Smith than you or me. Rep. Then you attach no importance to the case made out against him by the Republic? Mr. N. No, I do not. He has made contradictory statements, it is true, both before and after his arrest as to his whereabouts on the night of the murder of Smith. But it is easy to account for his contradictions. They do not, however, incriminate him in my mind, nor do they in the minds of District Attorney Lamberton and Mr. Cowley, with both of whom I have been associated in the matter. In fact, any statement he might make, even though he were to confess the murder, would not alter the facts as to his whereabouts that night. And, inasmuch as, a short time after the murder, I knew of his whereabouts on the night of his whereabouts between the hours of 8 and 11 o'clock, I did not see fit to look into the matter in connection with the assassination of Colonel Smith. Rep. Do you believe Colonel Smith was murdered? Mr. N. I do. There is abundance of proof to show that it was a brutal and diabolical murder. Rep. Is there anything being done to secure the guilty parties? Mr. N. There has been considerable money expended by the committee, taken from the fund raised by the citizens, but the amount subscribed, I understand, will not reach the sum of $5,000, of which $5,000 are held intact for the reward offered, leaving not enough to follow up clues in the systematic manner in which it should be done. The probabilities are that the murder will always remain a mystery unless its perpetrator is discovered by accident, or if the committee is provided with a largely increased working fund. No detective of ability will work for reward without having the expenses incidental to his labor provided for. I believe that large rewards in cases of this kind are really dangerous. It is well known that many people have been already suspected and accused of this murder without any well-grounded cause whatever. Rep. Have you any opinion as regards the party who committed the crime? Mr. N. In that regard I desire to say nothing in one way or the other, believing it to be as much the duty of a

COMING TO OMAHA.

The Treasures of Idaho to be Poured Into Our Lap.

What the Oregon Short Line Will Accomplish for the Territory and this City.

United States Marshal E. S. Chase, of Idaho, arrived in the city Tuesday, and was corraled at the Withnell House by a BEE reporter.

The marshal is looking hearty and robust, and announced that he was on a few days trip to see his friends in Omaha.

"Of course," said he, upon being asked how business was in Idaho and especially in the Wood River country, "everything at present is dull in that region. When winter approaches nearly all work in the mines shuts down and consequently there is but little life in the camps. But that country is opening up wonderfully and it gives the greatest promise for the future. During the past year, 1881, over eighteen hundred locations have been staked, which make the total number of locations about 4,300. Many of these locations have been sold almost as soon as made. Last week three mines were sold by the prospectors for the aggregate sum of $680,000, that being the price obtained by the prospectors and not including what the 'middle men' must have made.

"This seems a great deal of money to pay for mines that have simply been opened, but in each case the purchases were made by parties in the business who know what they are about, and don't make foolish bargains. One thing can be said also for the Wood River mines which cannot be spoken for by any other mining country in the world, and that is that no mine has been worked to the expense of a thousand dollars that has not paid. There are already over one hundred and fifty paying mines, and prospectors have almost a certainty of success when they commence a hole.

"The reason is that the district embraced within what is known properly as the Wood River country is as full of mineral as it is possible to be. The class of ore is galena and copper basis, next to the lava formation. As you go further up it becomes galena and quartz ledges, while in the Sawtooth the quartz ledges abound and are very rich. There are now two smelters there with two more going.

"The thing, however, which will interest Omaha people, is that the mineral productions of this whole country are bound to come to you, as soon as the Oregon short line is completed, and in my opinion Omaha in another year will supply all of that country with merchandise. The short line is now completed nearly to Snake River. An iron bridge is being hauled to the River and by spring will be in place. When this road is completed the Wood River country will ship from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000 in bullion annually to your smelting works, if the owners of the works will buy it, and I have but little doubt concerning that. All of the residents of Idaho, and especially those of Haley, Boulder, Boise City and other towns are anxious for completion of the line from Grammer and will gladly avail themselves of its advantages.

WILD RUSAWAY. A Driver Badly Bruised and a Wagon Broken.

An exciting runaway occurred on North Eleventh street yesterday. The team belonging to C. F. Goodman, wholesale druggist, was being driven out of the gate leading to the Union Pacific shop yards when they became frightened, and made a desperate run for about two blocks. Running toward a corner post, the wagon struck and the terrified animals tore themselves loose.

The driver, Ingald Smith, held manfully on to the reins until the shock came, when he was hurled headlong into the middle of the road. He was soon picked up and was carried into the shop yards, where he lay for a few minutes unconscious. A physician arrived quickly, and restoratives were applied. It was then discovered that the man was badly bruised and jarred, and his head was slightly cut, but strange to say he had not suffered a fracture of any sort. When he struck the ground it was upon his shoulders, and in such a way that he bounded like a ball. It was surely a miraculous escape for him.

The wagon, of the heavy carting style, was badly demolished, and it will probably cost a round sum to repair it. It is not known whether the horses are injured or not.
