STOCKS

The stock market to-day was very active. In early dealings the market was weak and declined ¼@1¼ per cent, but a firm feeling set in toward midday, and the decline was fully recovered. During the afternoon the market was strong and buoyant, on rumors that the trunk lines' representatives held a conference at a hotel in this city and settled the railroad war by all having the whole matter to arbitration. These reports caused active buying of all trunk line stocks and of the whole list, with the result of an advance in prices to the highest figures for many days. In the final dealings there was some reaction.
