COUNCIL BLUFFS.
Office: Corner of Fifth Street and Broadway.
H. W. TILTON, City Editor.

THE BEE.
The past efforts of THE BEE to promptly chronicle all events occurring in this city, and to fairly deal with all questions affecting the peace and prosperity of the people of Council Bluffs and vicinity, have met with such ready expressions of approval, and such practical support, that it has been decided by its management to make the change which to-day speaks for itself. As will be seen from the advertisement columns, THE BEE is warranted in feeling that it has many friends here who gladly welcome a change by which this city and state are given space of their own.

THE BEE has established itself not only in the hearts and homes of many here, but has also established itself in a home of its own. An office has been fitted up in Room No. 5, Everett's block, Broadway, where all friends and patrons of THE BEE will find a hearty welcome, and where all the conveniences for the transaction of business, and the gathering and giving of news have been provided.

MINOR MENTIONS.

Only eleven persons in jail.
Adjusted meeting of the board of trade this evening.
There were six funerals in the city yesterday, mostly children.
The managers of the public library are providing for printed catalogues.
There is a good foot crossing now over the river north of the smelting works.
The Episcopalians socialize at Mrs. Aylesworth's residence to-morrow evening.
The funeral services of Theodore Brown were held Saturday afternoon at his residence.
A delegation of Odd Fellows from this city attended the installation at Neola on Saturday evening.
The Council Bluffs Light Guards will at their annual to-morrow evening to consider important questions.
General Bluffs is soon to have another hotel making establishment. A new building 25x50 will be the start off for the work.
"Divorce" to-night. Remarks about "all-of-a-kind" being given as barred as to worn and other puns on the name savor of ancient history.
General G. is the only one thus far reported who has begun cutting hair. He has been at it several days. Others will probably follow suit now.
A four-year-old boy passed through the Saturday evening on route from Colorado to Missouri. He was alone, but had a card about his neck giving directions to his father.

Charles Elmer died yesterday morning at his residence on North Hamilton street, after an illness lasting but a week, the disease being typhoid pneumonia. He leaves a wife and five children.
The officers and committee of the Southwestern Iowa and Northwestern Missouri Veterans association are to be welcomed here on Wednesday evening, and given a chance to win a camp that were cold, and had no such warmth of heart as was needed and could be given by those who had a belief that the life beyond was more than a blank.
Rev. Mr. Affleck went to Omaha to preach there last evening, and after lecturing there will return here to give an address on "Lost for the Want of a Word," at the Broadway Methodist church, Wednesday evening.

Rev. P. F. Bresse discoursed to his people last night on "The One Trip." He has decided to change the hour of his evening services to 7:30 o'clock, to conform with the other churches.
For two weeks past union services have been held with fair success. The last was in the Baptist church Friday evening. It was led by Rev. O. Hamlin and was attended by about 150 persons.
Special religious services have been arranged to be held at the Congregational church Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings of this week.

The Pacific Junction B. & M. Depot. Plattsburgh Enterprise.
The depot is a large Gothic building, two stories high and 30x100 feet in dimensions. On the south runs the B. & M. tracks, coming on an air line from the bridge. On the north runs the C. B. & Q. Council Bluffs branch comes in, and about 500 feet west of the depot the K. C. St. J. & C. B. road passes by. A 14-foot walk leads from the depot down to the track and large platform. The grounds in and around the building have been filled in and raised some five feet, and the work in this line, still incomplete, is being pushed rapidly. The west end of the building on the ground floor, is the telegraph office, lighted with a corner bay window, and side windows furnished inside with all improvements necessary for rapid work. Next to the telegraph office is the baggage room, furnished with large hove floor scales, for weighing truck loads of baggage at one time. The immense waiting rooms occupy the entire remainder of the ground floor, excepting the ticket office, and lunch counters opposite. Up stairs, two rooms are across the west end, one, Chief Clerk Hunter's office, and the other, a store room for the freight office. Next comes the large office, in which work some fifteen freight clerks; and opening from this, is Agent Marsland's private office. Two sleeping rooms and a battery come next, and the large east room is being finished up as a reading room for the employees, where all the latest papers, magazines, etc., will be kept. All

FOOTLIGHT FLASHES.
Black-Eyed Susan Meets With Foul Play at the Opera House—Olivette To-Night and True Devotion to Follow.

Edward Clifford's company closed their week's season here Saturday evening. In the afternoon as a matinee, Hazel Kirke was given, the audience being of goodly size and quite enthusiastic. In the evening a grand finale was presented a double bill, including Foul Play and Black-Eyed Susan. Both plays were given well, and in some parts the company showed unusual strength. The audience was very large and bubbled over with enthusiasm. The evening's entertainment was necessarily long—too long, and it seems that a manager would soon catch the hint that it is possible to have too much, even of a good thing. The week, as a whole, has been a successful one, and Clifford has gained a strong hold here, which will cause him to ever have a welcome on any return.

DESS' COME OPERA COMPANY
appears at Dohany's this evening. The company numbers fifty, and embraces excellent talent. Olivette is well described as a musical comedy of errors. It is full of catching airs, much mirth and melody, and as presented by this troupe forms a charming entertainment.

FORBES DRAMATIC COMPANY
always draws crowded houses. Next Wednesday evening, at Dohany's, True Devotion will be given by them. It is a highly sensational drama throughout, which runs in a vein of wit and humor, and the startling climaxes are offset by farcical situations, giving a happy relief, and making the play full of life and varied emotions.

SUNDAY SUNDRIES.
Rev. W. B. Affleck Talks About Old Age and Delights a Large Audience—The Union Services.

Yesterday morning there was a large congregation at the Broadway Methodist church, drawn thither by the announcement that Rev. W. B. Affleck, of York, England, was to preach. Those who knew or had heard of this gentleman's wonderful and peculiar powers, expected much of him. He overtook and fairly distanced all these expectations. He chose as his text, II Samuel, 19th chapter, verses 34-37 inclusive, and made the incidents there narrated the theme for touching upon old age and the various helps in life to reach a grand old age. His talk was in some respects rambling, his manner was conversational, and in appearance, mien and language he was refreshingly original. He has been rightly termed the churchy "Mark Twain." Full of quaint humor he kept the audience in a state of morri-tude, which at times almost broke into gasps. There was a touch of tenderness too, which several times during the discourse caused the tear to follow so quickly upon the smile that the average auditor was kept on a ledge between the two extremes of emotion.

He took occasion to compliment Ingersoll on his late address at the grave of a little child, and pronounced the rhetoric there displayed as sparkling like crystal, but like crystal that were cold, and had no such warmth of heart as was needed and could be given by those who had a belief that the life beyond was more than a blank.

work at the Junction is under charge of T. Marsland, who is general agent for the C. B. & Q. B. & M., and K. C. roads. J. H. Hunter is chief clerk of the freight department, George Galde is cashier, and M. Way-bright in charge of freight transfer. Some thirty men altogether are employed in the work at the offices, and freight platform.

POLICE PICKINGS.
The Stars of the Evening Shine on Little Wickedness.
Homer Caughey, of the Coy house, who had his watch together with some cash, stolen from the hotel the other night, now rejoices in having regained his ticker, it being among the plunder found upon the man Wilson, arrested in Omaha. The authorities here are itching to get hold of Wilson as soon as the Nebraska authorities are through with him, but the prospect of his getting a long stretch there gives little hope of his being punished for his deviltries here.

Four soiled doves were cooped at the police station Saturday. Two of them were made to pull $13.85 each out of their stockings and the others are still on the mourners' bench.
There was almost a Quaker service in police circles Saturday night, and only one arrest was made, the victim being only on a wild drunk and simply cracking the peace.

P. H. Sage, who was charged with being the one who snatched a gold chain from the neck of a colored woman named Mollie Smith as the latter was walking along the street, was discharged Saturday afternoon, the case being dismissed on motion of the county attorney.
Jack Shields, charged with a grievous assault upon J. J. Jennings, waived examination and was bound over in $1,000 to appear before the grand jury.

PERSONAL.
J. P. Filbert, of this city, has just received the sad news of the death of his aged father at Palestine, Ill.
C. B. Hinkley, of Boston, train dispatcher of the Chicago & Northwestern railway, made a flying visit here Saturday.
R. H. Day, of Quincy, Ill., who can talk and sell corn planted alongside of any one on the road, called at THE BEE office Saturday.
This city has gained a new resident in the person of Mr. Hatfield, who has left his Missouri Valley home to engage in the livery business here.
W. S. Rickett, of Chicago, one of the best known dealers in agricultural implements in the west, spent Sunday in this city, and is looking after the trade.
County Treasurer Bennett says he feels like a stranger behind the desk. Illinois has laid him off duty for a week past, but he has got back to the vault again, though not rugged.

R. W. Wood and A. S. Orison, of Kansas City, spent Sunday at the Pacific house. Their mission to this city is to confer with the men here with a view of securing a supply of water cakes to fight next summer's heat in Kansas City.
Rev. Mr. Payne, who has lately resigned a pastorate in New York state, has been spending a few days in this city, the guest of Mr. F. F. Ford. He expresses himself as greatly pleased with the west and is thinking of settling somewhere in this part of the country.
Charles F. Resignie, who was for three years a telegraph operator in this city, has been rewarded by several promotions during the years which have passed since he left here. The latest step upward in his appointment as chief clerk in the office of General Superintendent H. B. Stone, of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railway at Chicago, with a salary of $1,800.

IN HOT WATER.
A Child sits Down in a Kettle, and is Painfully Parboiled.
A little three year old colored child, the personal property of Chas. Grumy, living at No. 1115 Sixth avenue, met with a serious accident last Saturday afternoon. The child's mother had carelessly left a kettle of hot water standing on the floor beside the kitchen stove, and the child, in playing about, managed most successfully to sit down in this kettle. The experiment was a painful one to the child, and as a result a goodly portion of its skin was badly blistered, but it is not thought that any permanent injury or fatal consequences will follow.

IOWA BOILED DOWN.
Iowa City has a new city hall which cost $13,300.
Dubuque was never in a healthier condition than now.
The state university starts out with 150 students this year.
Mont cello just nearly $80,000 into new buildings last year.
A coal prospecting company has been formed at Holt, Union county.
A woman in Floyd county, 46 years old, is the mother of nineteen children.
O'ama's Methodists have just dedicated a new church which cost $12,500.
The Davenport woolen mill company has just declared a 6 per cent. dividend.
Dubuque expends $30,000 a year on her streets, and she has the best in the state.
Traveling troupes hereafter must pay $17 a night for the court house hall at Al-gona.
Judge Strubbe, speaker of the house of representatives, was a shoemaker in his early years.
The Burlington public library last year rec'd. $257 from taxes and $209.50 from subscriptions.
The Cedar Rapids pump company in the eight months of its existence has made and sold 2,000 pumps.
Burlington's handsome new opera house has a seating capacity of 1,300, which can be increased to 1,500.
Des Moines is indulging in a good deal of earnest talk about street paving, and evidently means business.

D. Witt: people are making a strong movement to secure the return of the county seat of Clinton county to DeWitt. The monument recently erected to Judge Green at Cedar Rapids weighs over thirty tons. The base alone weighs over ten tons.
The track of the Des Moines Northern narrow gauge is laid to the Des Moines river, about twenty miles south of Boone.
The Keokuk canning company has increased its capital stock to $20,000, and will operate on a large scale the coming season.
Spirit Lake improved last year to the amount of $24,690, and during the present year expects to put $50,000 into new buildings.
The officers of the Burlington & South-western railroad have been removed from Burlington to Keokuk, to the great regret of the former.
Davenport proposes to expend $4,720 for the necessary equipment of a paid fire department maintained at a cost of $7,200 per annum.
Osga's return over the purchase of a steam fire engine by the city council, against the advice and consent of a majority of the business men of the place.
Prisoners in the Des Moines jail made a saw out of a steel foot shank and had filed a hole in the cage over a foot square before the jailer discovered the game and locked it.

Waterloo shipped 10,829 hogs during 1881. Their total weight was 3,322,536 pounds, and the amount paid out by buyers for hogs purchased there during the season will reach $3,900,000.
Now that they can be reached by railroad the Dickinson county lakes will come to the front as popular summer resorts. Already steps have been taken to secure pleasure steamers for these charming waters.
The Burlington board of trade has appointed a committee to secure control of available lands, that manufacturing enterprises seeking a location in that city may be offered building sites at reasonable figures.
Iowa City has three banks, fourteen churches, twenty-nine benevolent institutions, twenty manufacturers, three hundred and twenty business establishments, ten wholesale establishments, and thirty-four licensed saloons.

The farm belonging to the state agricultural college embraces 679 acres, divided into 40 acres of land under plow, 104 acres of upland pasture, 105 acres of bottom land pasture, 140 acres, and wood and timber lands, 250 acres.
The income from the Marshalltown waterworks for the year 1881 was $4,830. This year the company hopes for a revenue of $5,000, which will be sufficient to pay the interest on the bonds and the annual cost of the maintenance of the works.
The shock of the powder explosion at Okaloosa last week was felt at Keota, 30 miles distant, at Monroe, 28 miles distant, at Keosauqua and several other adjacent points. It was felt at Des Moines, 60 miles distant, and at Knoxville, six miles distant.
A Turbine wind mill company is talked of at Marshalltown. The project embraces the formation of a stock company with $25,000 capital, and the erection of a foundry, machine shops and all things necessary for the manufacture of the mills upon a large scale.

The Chicago newspaper representatives who were sent to Burlington to do the new opera house for the papers, at the expense of the contractors, had a varied experience. One of them was rescued from the catacombs by his friend, and another was unexpectedly bound and carried to the opera house for attempting to escort two noted cyrians into it.
Contracts have been let by the Chicago & North-western railway company for grading the Chicago branch to the Yarnall river, to be finished August 1; to the Algonk branch, to be finished to Swan Lake by August 1; to Spirit Lake, by October 1; Tracy by November 1, and on the Maple River branch, to be finished to Sioux City by September 1.

The quarterly statement of the Roman Catholic Mutual Protective society of Iowa shows that the organization numbers 911, and there was a balance of cash on hand on the 1st inst. of $884.96. There was received during the quarter to pay two deaths, $1,801; from the beneficiary fund, $30.63, and from initiation fees, $47. The money in the hands of local branches for the twelfth death amounts to $911.
