CAPTURING A CONVICT.

Sheriff Miller Lights on George Davis, the Escaped Penitentiary Bird.

The Prisoner Came Here to See His Girl and Was Taken Into Camp.

An important capture was made by Sheriff Miller Friday evening, the game being none other than George Davis, the notorious crook and highwayman.

Who was sent to the penitentiary last February, and escaped four months ago.

DAVIS' CRIME. Davis is a member of the notorious family who have been a source of trouble for many years to the police in this city, and who, until recently, lived in a tumble down house on Dodge street between Twelfth and Thirteenth streets.

George was the toughest of the gang and had been interested in numerous deteriorations for a considerable length of time before his arrest, about this time last year, on the charge of robbing a woman in the street of a gold chain and other jewelry.

When, therefore, he was convicted the court gave it to him "in the neck" and consigned him to four years at hard labor in the penitentiary. Last June, Davis was sent outside the prison enclosure, with other convicts, to work, and, with two others, he succeeded in making his escape.

A reward of $500 was offered for him, and considerable time was consumed by the authorities in charge of the prison and the police officers of this city to discover his whereabouts.

No trace of him was found, however, and the fact of his being at large gradually escaped attention. Detective Hazen and Deputy Marshal McClure, of this city, thought they had a clue at one time near Kansas City, but they were unsuccessful in their search.

THE CAPTURE. Sheriff Miller was out of the city nearly all day Friday, and when he returned he was considerably fatigued. About this juncture, however, a man called very mysteriously upon the sheriff and informed him that George Davis was in the city and he would give the official "a pointer" for a consideration. The sheriff at once procured the assistance of Sheriff Gray and they proceeded to the house of Dan Stundin, at the lower part of Douglas street, on the bottom, where they had reason to believe that Davis was concealed. He was not found there, however, and a round-up of the city was made, but with no better success.

Stundin's house was again visited by Sheriff Miller and watched. At length he ascertained that Davis was inside, and quickly procured help in Deputy Marshal McClure and Officer O'Grady. The house was surrounded and Sheriff Miller went in. He found Davis seated back of the stove and immediately arrested him. Davis made no resistance and went to jail. On his way up, however, he explained his quiet submission by stating that he was not armed. He said that if he had been he would never have been taken alive. Davis is somewhat given to making threats he having, previously sworn to kill both Judge Savage and Justice of the Peace Stenberg upon the first opportunity.

WHAT BROUGHT HIM HERE. Davis claimed, after he was in jail that he had never gone to Missouri or Kansas after his escape but made his way directly to Leadville where he has since hung out. His object in coming to this city was for the purpose of seeing any of his relatives, but to see Mary Stundin, Dan's daughter, with whom he was a solid man, previous to his imprisonment. He couldn't stand it away from Mary any longer, and consequently he will now be obliged to stay away for several months or years. The Davis family have caused considerable trouble, and they were at one time ordered to get out of the city in 24 hours.

"ROUGH ON RATS." The thing desired found at last. Ask druggist for "Rough on Rats." It clears out rats, mice, roaches, flies, bed bugs, the boxes.

"FUN ON THE BRISTOL." The Party that "Takes the Cake" on Their Way to Omaha.

On Friday and Saturday evenings next, and in matinee Saturday afternoon the famous "Fun on the Bristol" party, which combine more real merit in its entertainments than any other party on the road, will appear at Boyd's opera house.

Mr. Charlie Lord, who has been here making arrangements for their appearance, has perfected all his plans and leaves for Denver to-morrow night on the fast line. When this company appears at the opera house a genuine treat is promised our fun loving citizens. The Boston Post says: "Fun on the Bristol" attracted last evening an immense audience. This being the last week of the engagement, those who have not witnessed this the jolliest of all jolly plays, should not neglect the present opportunity. The company is an unusually excellent one, comprising among its members artists of great musical ability. Miss Agnes Hallcock, besides possessing a remarkably pure soprano voice, is an artist of great versatility, and has met with a decided success in this city.

REformatory Movement. To the Pastors and Christian People of Omaha. DEAR BRETHREN—We are at present holding a series of meetings in the First M. E. church for the purpose of securing a much-needed reformation among the people of this city, based on faith in God as the present and personal saviour, leading to the bearing of the fruits of the spirit, love, joy, long suffering, gentleness, meekness, temperance, and in the sincerity and charity of the gospel we ask you to assist us in this work by your prayers, and as far as possible by your presence and co-operation.

Though our method may not be just such as you might adopt, yet in the spirit of the Master we can no doubt labor harmoniously for a few days in order to reach the desired end. You are hereby most cordially and earnestly invited to come over and help us. Meetings every night in the week except Saturday.

J. W. STEWART, Pastor First M. E. Church.

THE BOSS OF THE GANG.

A Talk with the Last But Not Least of Hazen's Hall.

Jim Stanley, Alias J. B. Sutton, Who Has Made Things Lively Hereabouts for Some Time.

The announcement was made in a recent issue of THE BEE of the capture of Jim Stanley by Detective Hazen in Red Oak, Ia. Stanley's capture was especially important, as he is known to be the "boss" of a hard gang who have been working this city, Council Bluffs and various towns within a radius of about an hundred miles, during the past year.

Among this band of thieves and cracksmen were Joe Wilson, otherwise known as "the kid" and Murray, who were also captured by Hazen last night.

Stanley was seen in the jail yesterday by a reporter of THE BEE, and was found to be exceptionally good looking and well dressed young man. He gave his age as 23, and said that he was born in Chicago, where no one has relatives. His family are respectable people, and it is evident from the prisoner's demeanor and writing that he has had the advantages of a good education. Since Stanley came to the western country he has been engaged in various kinds of business besides his crook work, and has made a good thing out of it. He was the proprietor of a dance house in Gunnison, Col., where he became involved in a melee and received a broken arm, which caused him to return to this part of the country.

When captured at Red Oak Stanley had a kit of burglar's tools in his valise, including the implements for blowing safes. As the "traps" gave him a bad time he has since then made little objects of interest, and has narrated many interesting incidents connected with his recent depredations in this neighborhood. In these exploits "the kid" has surely been his right hand man, and Stanley expresses the greatest admiration for Wilson's coolness and nerve.

Among the visitors at the jail yesterday was a very stylishly dressed girl, who seemed much affected when she met Stanley. She seemed, however, to be resolved to stand by him, and left much comforted.

In conversation yesterday he told about a recent burglary in Council Bluffs in which "the kid" saved his own life by an extraordinary cool and quick move. It appears that "the kid" had a "solid girl" in the Bluffs, on whom a certain sporting man of that city was also considerably "mashed." The sporting man was known to have committed a felony upon one occasion when he induced the "solid girl" to allow him to share her apartments. "The kid" found it out and he and Stanley concluded that they would go through the sport upon this particular night and ticken him of his bargain. So Stanley made the entrance into the house and Wilson crawled in. It was dark in the room and both of the occupants were asleep. "The kid" crawled to the bedside and began reaching under the sporting man's pillow to get hold of a revolver that was there. While he was cautiously doing this the man awoke and reached for a knife which he also had. "The kid" saw the glint in the man's faint light, as the man demanded, "What in h— do you want?" The kid was unarmed and recognized his disadvantage. Quick as lightning he answered, "Your wife is very sick and they want you to come home." The sporting man was married, and the intelligence threw him into a cold sweat. He raised partly in bed to get up, and as he did so he was confronted by his own revolver which "the kid" had in the instant procured and cocked with an ominous click. "Hold up your hands," said "the kid," and it is needless to say the fellow did so. The gambler's pants were then taken possession of, rifled, and the youthful burglar backed out safely, still covering the owner with his revolver. The thieves got away with their swag and had a good shooting iron besides to continue operations.

Stanley tells another story, concerning himself, which is good enough to print. At the time of the dynamite explosion at the Rock Island house in the "Hot water" company jail, on the night of the escape, there were at that time about thirty prisoners in jail on various charges, including several counterfeiters who have since gone over the road with heavy sentences. For the sake of passing away the time the prisoners instituted a mock trial, with a judge, prosecuting attorney and other regular officers. Sheriff Reed was at that moment inside the jail, and he had been subpoenaed as a witness and was just in the act of being sworn. His hand was in the air and the judge was pronouncing the words, "the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, when the explosion occurred. The shock sent the dust flying in at one end of the corridor, blow out the windows and shook the jail violently. Sheriff Reed instantly thought that a job had been put up on him by the prisoners to blow up the jail, and concluded that the inside was an unhealthy place for him. He made a rush for the door. One or two of the prisoners, Stanley at the head, thought they saw a chance to escape, and made a move after Reed. The sheriff got through the first door and closed it. Stanley was the only one who was close enough to get through before the door shut and was waiting for the sheriff to get the outside door open, when he intended, as he states, to "down" the inside as he could. One of the prisoners still behind the gate yelled for

SEED WHEAT.

An Interesting Meeting of the Grain Shippers of Nebraska.

Important Measures Taken to Benefit the Farmers.

A general meeting of the grain shippers of Nebraska, was held at the board of traderooms Saturday morning, pursuant to the call published in the morning papers.

Mr. Thomas Gibson, secretary of the board, in the absence of President Clark, called the meeting to order, stating the object, which was the discussion of the question of the introduction of new seed wheat into the state. Mr. Gibson called upon Land Commissioner Burnham, of the Union Pacific to preside and to speak upon the subject, which he did, proposing that a committee be appointed to take the matter under advisement.

Upon motion of the secretary, Mr. Burnham was called to preside as chairman of the meeting.

The representatives of the various sections of the state being called upon to speak to the meeting, responded. Mr. J. H. Davis, of Gibson spoke from a milling point of view and referred to the time, seven or eight years ago, during the grasshopper raid, when many farmers wanted seed wheat and shipped in some which produced three bushels more than the bushel more than that raised at present. Notwithstanding the improved machinery in use now, he said the quality of the flour was inferior. It should be better, and one cause of the inferior price offered for wheat, Mr. Davis thought, was the low grade of grain.

Mr. Burnham stated, in regard to the yield of the crops raised from imported seed yielded from three to five bushels per acre above the yield of the native wheat; where proper seed was sown and cultivated it yielded twenty bushels per acre, while much of the acreage only brought from ten to twelve bushels. He didn't think Nebraska was exclusively a grain state but it was rather a state in which a variety of crops could be produced.

Mr. Morse said he would like to take a part in the proposed change of seed wheat, and inquired what varieties were the best.

Mr. Burnham replied that from the general indications, the hard or flint wheat was the best. He was of the opinion that the whole matter should be referred to a committee to be discussed and settled.

Mr. McClennan, of Wahoo, who said he came to this state nine years ago, referred to the fact that at that time nearly all the farmers were raising the "Golden Drop," a wheat brought here from Canada. The wheat then raised in Nebraska brought a premium over all others, but the farmers had kept on sowing it over and over until it had depreciated in value. The new seed introduced would be the "Medicine" and "China Pearl" used by someone was an early variety but did not bring good flour. What was wanted was a hard, early wheat. Some Odesa or grass wheat had been raised in Washington county, and made nice flour. He had referred many to it and it was good but not hard. It was very nice to mix with hard wheat, but now about run out. What is wanted now is a variety of seed wheat. He had noticed that every year some enterprising farmer sent off for new seed, and in nine cases out of ten it raises from five to twelve bushels more per acre, when cultivated side by side with the old wheat. It is necessary to change every two or three years to get good wheat. An early variety of hard wheat is what is wanted.

Mr. Clark, of Waterloo, agreed with Mr. McClennan in the main but thought he was mistaken as to hard wheat being an early variety. He thought this climate was not adapted to an early variety of wheat. The "Golden Drop" and "Scotch Flax" once so popular among farmers would now be slow in maturing and what they would try it again.

Mr. Burnham inquired if the farmers would favor the use of a new variety if it was sent for and they were saved all trouble in the matter.

Mr. Clark thought it would be used on a limited scale. Even the Minnesota farmers were slow to try hard wheat. Three or four years ago he had shipped a car load of "Scotch flax" to Bell Creek and it was distributed from thence about the state, but while it was better than the old varieties it did not produce well and he did not know a single farmer who had preserved the seed. As a miller he preferred this wheat. It still does as well as ever in old ground.

Mr. Burnham said it seemed to be agreed that a change of wheat was desirable, and the only question was as to what kind should be adopted.

Mr. Clark referred to the use of "Scotch flax" and "Mammoth" wheat, the latter having been successfully used and distributed among several adjoining counties from Washington. He believed the seed wheat from Wisconsin peculiarly adapted to Nebraska soil.

Mr. Himebaugh asked if hard wheat didn't do better in old ground and soft wheat in new. The answer was that it did.

Capt. S. S. Reynolds moved to refer the whole matter to a committee of five, with Leavitt Burnham as chairman, and the motion prevailed.

Mr. Allen offered the following resolution: Resolved, That the grain shippers of Nebraska do urge upon the farmers of the state the importance of sowing better varieties of seed wheat, and recommend that more attention be given to raising the standard of Nebraska milling grades, by careful selection of seed wheat of the varieties adapted to this purpose. The hard wheat being better for milling, and bringing a higher price in the market, we do recommend the following varieties, as in our judgment and experience they are among the best and most valuable for our soil, and adapted to the diversity of soil found in

SWEDISH SYNOD.

Semi-Annual Conference of the Evangelical Lutheran Mission.

The academy of music was filled to overflowing last evening at the meeting of the Evangelical Lutheran mission, Swedish, which was the principal meeting of the day. Other services were held also at 10 a. m. and 3 p. m. The meeting last evening was one of especial interest. The congregational singing was an especial feature. Revs. H. Bloom, of Enterprise, Kansas; John Peterson, of Oakland, Neb., and Andrew Hallner, secretary of the synod and pastor of the church at Swedberg, Neb., made interesting and eloquent addresses.

In the morning yesterday morning Rev. C. J. Bjork, president of the synod and directing board, preached to a large congregation. At the afternoon meeting G. E. Torquist, of Minneapolis, officiated.

The directing board and executive committee of the Evangelical Lutheran mission are in session in the semi-annual meeting of the synod, at the Omaha mission building on Tenth street, their meetings having commenced on Friday. Nine members of the board and several visiting pastors are present. The sessions continue until Tuesday evening. Considerable business is being transacted, some of which will be of public interest.

Pretty Good.

Water Main Burst.

About 5 o'clock Saturday evening a section of the water main on Cumine street burst and flooded the adjacent lowland before the water was shut off. The break occurred at the foot of the hill, just east of the Lowe works. At the point where the pipe burst the water boiled up through the frozen ground a couple of feet high, while another stream followed the course of the pipe for a block, there coming to the surface. Men were at work all day yesterday and last night repairing the damage. The broken section was replaced with a good one and the hole made by the water in flowing outside the pipe filled with manure, to obtain vacant teams were running to and from all points of the compass yesterday. While the break was being repaired the supply of water from the reservoirs was cut off, and direct pressure used, but by to-day the break will be repaired and water again flowing from the hill.

Answer This.

Did you ever know any person to be ill without inaction of the stomach, liver or kidneys, or did you ever know one was well when either was obstructed or inactive; and did you ever know of any case of the kind that Hop Bitters would not cure? Ask your neighbor this same question.—Times

"The Mean Old Thing."

The Omaha church choirs find it necessary to advertise freely in the daily papers that their singing is first-class in every respect. Probably the hearers wouldn't know the singing was so good if the choir leader didn't tell them. Too much "artistic" singing as a principal attraction will be the death of some of those churches before they know what ails them.

WORTHY OF PRAISE.

As a rule we do not recommend patent medicines, but when we know of one that really is a public benefactor, and does positively cure, then we consider it our duty to impart that information to all. Electric Bitters are truly a most valuable medicine, and will surely cure Biliousness, Fever and Ague, Stomach, Liver and Kidney complaints, even where all other remedies fail. We know whereof we speak, and can freely recommend to all.—Ex. Sold at 50 cents a bottle.

Nebraska, viz: here several varieties were enumerated, and was seconded by Mr. McClennan and, after some discussion, adopted.

Messrs. Morrison, Ashburn, Reynolds and others made remarks in accord with those published above.

Mr. Allen introduced a resolution providing for the organization of a grain shippers organization, with the necessary officers, etc., but it was finally tabled.

Col. Chase, Messrs. Himebaugh and Morrison and others spoke at length on the question at issue, viz: the desirability of a change in seed wheat, and the whole matter was referred to a permanent committee, of: Hon. Leavitt Burnham, chairman, P. C. Himebaugh, John McCormick, W. C. B. Allen and Thomas Gibson.

The latter gentleman offered each and every gentleman present a quantity of the fertilizer manufactured in this city, to test on their farms.

After an extended discussion of the question it was decided: (1) That a desirability of a change of seed wheat exists. (2) That there should be a variety of seeds used. (3) That it was possible to comply with the requirements of all sections of the state.

A circular will be issued shortly by the committee to ascertain the needs of every section of the state.

POLICE COURT.

In which the Color Line Predominates.

In the police court Saturday morning two plain drunks were mulcted in the sum of $10 and costs each. One paid and the other was committed.

Chas. E. Burke had Michael Dance arrested on the charge of assault and battery. It appears that Dance got into a row with another man and Burke happened to be standing near at the time. Dance threw a glass bottle at his antagonist but missed him and hit Burke. The latter later insisted on a remuneration of twenty-five cents to enable him to buy liniment to cure his wounds, and being refused, filed the complaint. Dance protested that the whole thing was a joke, and Burke finally withdrew his charge. All the parties were colored.

Willie Newman, the colored boy accused of stabbing a white boy, was discharged.

Frank Cassidy, accused of stealing silk handkerchiefs from M. Hillman, was granted a new examination, which is set for Saturday next in the mean time he is given his liberty, having furnished a bond in the sum of $100.
