WASHINGTON, February 8.—Mr. Blair presented a resolution that the constitution be amended prohibiting after A. D. 1900 the manufacture, sale, importation, exportation and transportation of alcoholic liquors, except for scientific and medical purposes.

The secretary of war sent a communication in reply to Mr. Morgan's resolution for information regarding experiments with guns of larger calibre than eight inches, stating that it would take the whole fiscal year to finish the same.

Mr. Morgan moved it be tabled as insulting and said when the secretary got old enough to understand his business he would treat the senate in a less unbecoming way.

Mr. Allison upheld the secretary.

Mr. Harris introduced a resolution directing the secretary of state to institute negotiations for a reciprocity treaty with Guatemala.

Mr. Blair resumed the discussion of the resolution against repeal of the arrears of pensions, upholding the act.

Messrs. Vest, Maxey and Davis (W. Va.), all supported the arrears of pension bill, the latter offering an amendment to protect the government against fraudulent pensions and to protect the lowest pensioners.

The matter then went over until to-morrow on the understanding that there would then be a vote.

Among the number of private bills called up by unanimous consent and passed was one by Mr. Dawes to accept and ratify the agreement with the Crow Indians of Montana.

Mr. Randall introduced a bill providing for surveys and settlement in a portion of the reservation in severalty of Indians now on the reservation, in consideration for the cession of the remainder of the reservation.

The government agrees to pay twenty-five annual installments of $3,000 each. An appropriation is made for the first installment and $15,000 for surveys.

At 4 o'clock the senate went into executive session and adjourned at 4:45 p. m.

PROCEEDINGS IN THE HOUSE.

Mr. Kasson reported a bill appointing a commission on tariff instead of his bill for one on the tariff and internal revenue, and he would ask its consideration at an early day.

Mr. Randall said when the bill came up he would move to amend by making the commission consist of two senators, three representatives and four experts, instead of nine experts, as now.

The bill establishing a central postal savings bank with branches at every money order office providing that sums from $300 to $500 to be received from each depositor but not more than $100 a month from the same person, was reported.

The house resumed consideration of the appropriation bill.

CAPITAL NOTES.

WASHINGTON, February 8.—The house committee on territories will in all probability report favorably on the bill for the admission of Washington territory as a state. The main proposition to admit the state has been agreed upon.

MISCELLANEOUS.—The president has decided to reserve Monday instead of Saturday as the day for exclusive attention to department business, as congressmen and senators have more leisure Saturdays than other days and prefer calling on him on that day. Henceforth on Monday he will receive no visitors.

It is currently reported here that G. W. Findlay, of Indiana, will be appointed first assistant secretary of the treasury vice Upton resigned.

The house committee on the election of president and vice president considered the bill of Mr. Updegraff fixing the time for counting the votes and sending the certificates to the United States court and inviting D. D. Field to give his views before the committee at a special meeting which the committee will hold.

Henry Goldwater, of Arizona, was the only witness before the grand jury in the star route cases to-day.

Patent office receipts for January were $79,000, being $14,000 more than the same month last year.

The president signed the commission to-day to Leopold Markheld to be assistant treasurer at Cincinnati, and Henry Booth to be receiver of public moneys at Larned, Kas.

John C. New declined the assistant secretaryship of the treasury.

The sixteenth installment of the Mexican indemnity will be distributed, commencing on the 13th inst.

The house judiciary committee to-day heard Delegate Cannon, of Utah, who, in arguing the law points in his case, contended that under the constitution the governor had no authority to consider religious belief as a matter affecting his right to a certificate of his election.

The committee on the investigation of the treasury department still continues the examination of witnesses, most of them being former witnesses recalled. Among those thus recalled were Powers, chief clerk to Pitney, and a number of employes under Pitney.

Comment is made on the alleged statement by Pitney that he was frequently requested by the secretary and Mrs. Sherman to send persons to their residence to perform certain work, and it is said he produced notes making such requests signed by both Mrs. Sherman's friends and her own.

It was stated that such services were performed, but say the time was taken out of the pay of the workmen and charged to the secretary's private account, and Mrs. Sherman has vouchers for the same.

There was any work for them that was not charged it was for some matter which she knew nothing of and for which Pitney neglected to take account.

There is good authority for the statements that Sherman's personal character has not been touched by the investigation.

The president has pardoned James Webb, who was convicted of murder and sentenced by the United States consular court at Nagasaki, Japan, to be hanged.

This case gave rise to the paragraph in the president's annual message in which he said: "In Japan and China some changes are desirable in the present system of our consular jurisdiction."

A large delegation from Philadelphia, headed by Gov. Hartranft, to ask an appropriation of $75,000 for the improvement of the Delaware river, will have a hearing before the house committee on commerce to-morrow.

Interesting Details of the Drift in the Ice.

NEW YORK, February 8.—The subjoined dispatch from Lieut. Danenhower dated Iktokak and announcing definite tidings had been received of De Long's missing party are forwarded to the Herald to-night.

De Long's party is between stations Beluro, Bolinar, and Sistroutsk, Telotouisk, in a narrow wilderness sixty miles long, devoid of habitations and game. Jerome J. Collins volunteered to stand by the young seaman Hans Erickson, and lie the others of De Long's party push south. Men in search build huts and go over every inch of the region which is ploughed by heavy drift ice every spring. We visited Nordenskiold's winter quarters and found that he was safe before he entered the ice near Herald island. The general health of the crew during the fifteen months' drift was excellent. No scurvy appeared. We used distilled water, bear and seal meat twice a week; no rum was served. Divine services were held. We took much exercise. Everybody hunted. Game was scarce. Got about 30 bears, 350 seals and 6 walrus. No fish or whales were seen. All possible observations were made, showing a northwest course. The ship keeled over heavily, pressed by ice most of the time. The mental strain of the ship's company was heavy. The result of the drift the first five months was 40 miles. There was a cyclonic movement of the ice. During the last six months he drift was very rapid. Sounding were pretty even, 18 fathoms near Wrangell Land, which was often visible 75 miles distant. The greatest was 80 fathoms, average 18; bottom blue mud. Shrimps and plenty of algaloid specimens were brought up from the bottom. Surface water temperature 20 degrees above zero; extreme temperature of the air were, greatest cold, 38 below; greatest heat, 44 above; first winter, mean temperature 33 below zero; second winter, 39 below; first summer, temperature 100 above. Heaviest gale velocity about 50 miles per hour. Snow was not frequent. Barometer and thermometer fluctuations not great. Disturbances of the needle coincided with auroras. Winter's growth of ice, 8 feet; heaviest seen, 23 feet. Engineer Schreck's heavy truss saved the ship on November 23 from being crushed. Telephones were brought up by movement of the ice. Photographic collections were lost with the ship. Lieut. Chipp's 2000 auroral observations were also lost, but the naturalist's notes were saved. Jeannette island was discovered May 16, 16 degrees and 56 minutes north; was small and rocky and we didn't visit it. Henrietta island was discovered and visited May 24, in latitude 27 degrees and 3 minutes north, longitude 147 degrees and 32 minutes east. It is an extensive island. Animals are scarce and glaciers plenty. Bennett Island lies in latitude 76 degrees 38 minutes north, longitude 148 degrees 48 minutes east. It is very large. On it we found many birds, old houses, drift-wood and coal, but no seal or walrus. Great tidal action was observed. The coast was bold and rocky. A cape on the south coast was named Cape Emma. We drifted during the first week of the retreat 27 miles more than we could advance. Snow was 14 to 15 inches over and over the track, seven times with loads. Lieut. Chipp's boat did better than ours, (Melville) during the afternoon of September 10th, three boats having got clear of the ice of Seminovsk island at noon of that day; about dusk he was a thousand yards off our weather quarter and lowered sail as if rounding to. We lay to for 24 hours under a triangular draz. Nothing was seen of Lieut. Chipp's boat at daylight. He could not get back to the island in the northeast gale. He was unable to carry his share of provisions.

Winning a Bride.

From a Wyoming Letter.—James Dunlap, of New Haven, applied for a position as farm hand at Deacon Eldridge's farm, in Lansdale, Pennsylvania, twelve years ago, and was put at work. Eldridge had a daughter fifteen years old, who became fascinated with Dunlap, and after an acquaintance of 150 years he asked the deacon's consent for the daughter's hand in marriage. The deacon objected because of Dunlap's penniless condition. The girl promised to gain her father's consent or put an end to her unhappy existence. Dunlap left the farm, declaring that he would some day return a man of wealth and in influence. He went to Wyoming Territory, where he obtained a situation as driver on a stage line, and at the end of five years he purchased a half interest in the business. By shrewd financing and successful speculation he cleared $20,000, which, with the profit from his special remarks, amounted to $30,000. He is now a wealthy man, and one of the wealthiest residents of Wyoming. He is also one of the heaviest stockholders in a new railroad enterprise. He returned to Lansdale on Thursday, after an absence of ten years, and was married to Miss Eldridge on Saturday. The wedding was a grand affair. The bride couple go to New Haven and thence to Wyoming. The bride has rejected many offers in the past ten years. She is the belle of Lackawanna valley.
