Chicago Progues

CHICAGO, February 9. The markets on 'Change suffered further collapse to day. The weakness extended to every leading article. Wheat opened at 1 29 seller for March, but instantly broke to 1 267, and for a while the most intense excitement prevailed. Sellers bawled themselves hoarse in their efforts to undersell each other and prices went.

LONG PINE.

The Terminus of the S., C. & P. Railroad.

The Country Surrounding It Its Advantages, Etc.

Long Pine, the present terminus of the Sioux City and Pacific railroad, is situated in township 30, range 20. 265 miles from Omaha, is the only laid out town in the unorganized territory, and will doubtless be selected as the point at which to locate the county seat, when the county comes to be organized. This place, although in embryo as yet, is without doubt destined to be, in the near future, one of the best towns in Northwestern Nebraska. Here the railroad company propose building their machine shops, erecting a large and commodious hotel and in fact make Long Pine

a summer resort. 6 85; choice, 6 30@6 60; family, 5 90@

SKETCH OF THE COUNTRY. A writer in speaking of the eastern portion of the unorganized territory truly said: "When you arrive at range 10, in Holt county, you are at a point where if you have any of the love for the beautiful in your soul, you cannot but help pausing in your journey to gaze upon the wondrous beauties of the scene which stretches out before you. The line of bluffs which have stood guard upon either side of the river like an armed sentinel for one hundred and fifty miles you have traveled up the valley, have gradually receded in the distance, and are to be seen no more as you approach the source of the Elkhorn. Like the ocean wave that rolls mountains high, they have bowed their heads until they are on a level with the elements around them, and now as far-and much farther-as the eye can reach, stretch out in one level, unbroken expanse of green. Here section after section and township after township, with not one single foot of waste land, awaits the hand of in-dustry. What this country will be ten years hence, people familiar with the rapid settlement of the western prairie countries can alone conceive. This locality is settling up with sturdy sons of all nations, who in years to come will not only build up homes and gain wealth for themselves but will develop this country, and place her where she belongs-in the front rank of Nebraska counties. We venture the assertion, and do it without fear of successful contradiction, that this place has the finest tract of agricultural and grazing lands tribu tary to it, of any town in the northwest This is a broad assertion, but of this section none but a vivid imagination can conceive. With thousands upon thousands of acres of rich lands with timber in sufficient quantities for building purposes and for fuel.

In speaking of the beautiful country in this section, we would say to the thousands of farmers in the crowded east, who did by dint of hard work and close economy can scarce gain a living for their growing families, out of the well nigh worn-out farm they have been so industriously tilling for years, should convert their possessions into cash, come here, accept from a generous government the gift of a home, wider in area and richerfar in resources than the one they leaveor buy a tract of land five times the size of the old farm for one-half the money they receive for it, having the balance with which to erect buildings, provide everything necessary for general farming and stock raising, and attain that independence which al-ways crowns intelligent labor in this favored clime. Let the poortoiler of the east gather his sweat-dewed carnings, seek and find a home in this section of Nebrasks, where lie untouched, thousands of acres that await his coming and his toil to yield him a comfort and independence. The invalid living under these skies, drinking the pure water and breathing this life-inspiring atmosphere, will re gain clasticity of spirit, the physical vigor and inspiration of youth. The well nigh depleted vital forces become renewed when subjected to the tonic and stimulating influencef of a rare pure air, which makes respiration have the freedom of peaceful, refreshing

The young man full of energy and ambition, who can find no place for his energies or venture in the overfilled fields of labor and business in the older states, here is presented an ar na for action, in which he can give full play to his varied powers, develop his every talent and carve out a future filled with wealth and honor.

A settler coming by railroad, if he has enough to fill a car, should bring everything that was needful in his old home, for he will need it in his new. But if he has not a carload, economy would dictate that he should sell what he has and prepare to buy what is necessary when he arrives.
