The Alleged Author of "The Mystery of Hamlet" in a New Role.

Which Was Successfully Played at the St. Elmo.

A few days ago THE BEE chronicled the arrest of Paul H. Heppner for attempting to ride on a forged pass from Omaha to Grand Island. The pass was signed "Edw. E. Vining, Genl. T. Agt.," and was written on common note paper. Heppner was brought back from Grand Island, but discharged Wednesday, the grand jury failing to indict him. He holds a paper showing that he paid his fare from Omaha to his destination and his story of the af-fair, which is confirmed by Mr. Ju-lius Festner and Gottlieb Zimmerman goes to show that he was the victim of misplaced confi tence and not a forger. It was also stated that he had disposed of a forged check to Gottlieb Zimmerman for $20 and tried to pass another elsewhere, but without success. It is true that a check signed Paul H. Heppner was pessed on Mr. Zimmerman, but he yesterday, on seeing Mr. Heppner, unhesitatingly said that he was not the man. The yietim of circumstances is in this instance a young fellow, quite genteel and good looking, who came to Omaha a few weeks ago and went to work as pressman for the well known job printing house of F. C. Festner & Son. Business being pretty well up he was one day last week sent out to collect some bills, one of which was at the St Elmo, on Twelfth street. He did not find the proprietor in and was asked to sit glass of beer. At this juncture a very handsome, well dressed stranger, with black hair and black moustache approached him and engaged in friendly -James Davis and Henry Siert gave conversation. The stranger on learning who Heppner was said that his name was Vining and that he was the general freight agent of the Union Pacific road and the author of "The Mystery of Hamlet"

He frequented the St. Elmo for the purpose of making a closer study of the mysteries of the Thespian stage and gaining a general of four baggage cars, three coaches and knowledge of the intricacies of the one Pullman. One baggage car and one drama. A Prominent Grain Man Bank rupted by the Railroad. YORK, Neb., February 12.-The great corn crop of Central Nebraska has been, so far, largely shipped southward to avoid the Omaha bridge, and yet there is plenty of corn here. Aurora, the county seat of Hamilton county, is happy because she has plenty of new brick buildings going up this season and more to start next spring, Prof. S. R. Thompson, of the university farm, has been laboring with the farmers of Hamilton county a part of this week, during the Farmers' institute, and the York Dramatic society gave two entertainments this week to crowded houses, partly for the benefit of the G. A. R. of Hamilton county. This dramatic association has some excellent talent and has already covered itself with glory on many occasions, as might be expected when editors are entrusted B. with the heavy parts. The York band new "travels with the company" when they "travel," and, like most of the institutions and the people of York, they do the "whole thing" and Jackson to Farnam, there being fourteen dwellings and a number of always bring down the house when they play, or get everybody onto the streets when they parade, and when they unchain their "big fiddles" they can out do the tioneer, pronounced the morning work the finest and quickest sale ever string band business with great satisfaction to an audience. We would like to see the home company that can step before the footlights with the onors given this dramatic club where they have played the "Octoroon Girl J. E. Carter, of York, is the "boss" sewing machine man, and McKillip, of the Central House, is "charged in the indictment," with keeping as good a hotel as is found in the state, all of which his much respected and pleasant wife is equally to be blamed for. Everybody in York thinks the seminary is a grand school, and as they told us all about it, and the newspaper men were out of town, and everybody believes in the antimonopoly principles and read THE BEE, we see no reason why we should Seward is determined to be ahead in the matter of hotels and schools. The school board sit down like desperadoes and ballot on the questions of importance and general policy, and when they have a plan, they stand "shoulder to shoulder" like a Spartan band, with they receive, and calls to mind that Lucien said that Casar's successful life was due to the fact that he always "considered carefully, then decided wisely, and then executed with unflinching resolution. The school board of Seward may yet receive some credit for adding to our teaching force in this state such a thorough scholar, competent and efficient teacher, and cultivated gentleman as Prof. Cummings, principal of their schools, whom they imported from

Before the next mor wane, G. McCarty will have opened his mammoth hotel, and will be expeting the "weary and the hungry" to join the commercial men and stop at the Winslow house. "Mac" 'plenty of money and lots of friends," and he is now in the east for his furnitare, and when he gets ready he will entertain like a king in one of the largest, most expensive and best hotels in the state, outside of Omaha and Lincoln. Ulysses is on the boom, and has good schools, a new M. E. church, clean looking houses, great piles of corn, ne dram-shops, no small pox, does more business than plenty of towns two or three times its size, and has one of the best newspapers in the state. The Ulysses Dispatch is credsted with doing the best mechanical work in the county, and the office is a model of cleanliness and order. A year or two ago Mr. Challis "staked his claim" in Ulysses, and without soliciting subscriptions or "asking leave to be," has a circulation beyond many older papers, makes one of the most readable papers in the state, piles up more news, spice, pluck and independence to the square inch than many of the official "fog-horns" and never wears a "brass collar." Mr. Klasterman, who has been connected with the grain business here as well as in several other towns along this road has withdrawn from this firm, and will give more time and money to the grain and stock business at David City and other places where they have elevators and to his large farm, while the firm here will do business under the name of Spelts & Sheets, who read THE BEE. A circumstance or series of events that have transpired here this winter may be worth notice in this paper before the courts have taken action, because these straws show the direction of the wind, and after talking with several parties in this and adjoining towns to find the true inwardness of the matter, we have concluded to give

KNOCKING DOWN HOUSES.

Mr. D. S. M. Fretweil Sells the B. & M. Houses Like Hot Cakes.

Despite the frigid atmosphere and biting wind that made the bluffs along the river front rather trigid this morning, there was a big 'crowd of our best citizens and business men down on the B. & M. property along Eighth street by 10 o'clock to attend the sale of the dwelling houses, barns, etc., on the property recently condemned and purchased by the & M. road for its grounds and tracks. These houses were scattered all along Eighth street, from other buildi gs, besides the fences, shrubbery, sidewalks, etc.

Mr. D. S. M. Fretwell, the auccan step before the footlights with the perfection, and leave them with the moved at once, and grading will then be immediately begun by the company. Several of the houses were sold to single individuals, Mr. G. A. Chapman purchasing six or eight. Dennis Cunningham purchased a splendid large house for $350. The Kountze property sold at a fair price. The ouse brought $700, the iron fencing $180, the barn $105 sidewalks $146 shrubbery $45, coal shed $30. Mr. S. Mortensen, the tailor, bought this house, which is a large, two-story brick. It will not take long to clear off the property for grading.
