movement to defeat national legislation for the regulation of railroad common carriers. There is good reason to believe that congress will avail itself of the thinnest pretext for avoiding its responsibility to the people in this matter. The best evidence of officers retired. In the navy, where this disposition is to be found in the there is a compulsory retirement sys-tem, promotions are much more rapid than in the army and officers after than in the army and officers after were built with public money under the and are operated immediate authority of congress. The acts of congress chartering these companies expressly reserve the right to alter, amend, or repeal, and place the right of congress to regu-late tolls and fares beyond all displace the right of congress to construct the roads, and the stock does not represent the investment of scarcely a dollar. The people have,

consequently, the highest claim to protection.
