The Union Pacific Spreads Out.

Sr. Louis, March 9. - The Daily News will contain an interview with a well posted railroad official, giving credence to the rumor that Jay Gould will relinquish his hold on all the lines of the Mississippi, giving control of them to the Union Pacific managers. This virtually makes St. Louis the eastern terminus of the Union Pacific railroad, and business men here are elated. Much of the freight which formerly passed over Union Pacific line now goes over the Southern road, controlled by the Central Pacific, but the arrangement above alluded to will restore the prestige of the Union Pacific.

After Miller had answered the adverse criticism on the bill, Merrill said the question whether it was wise or politic to suddenly prohibit Chinese emigration, was a delicate one.

There were some rigors in the bill which ought to be softened, and he would vote for all pending amendments. Debate on the amendment prohibiting state consuls from naturalizing Mongolians was continued by Edmunds, Ingalls, Brown and Sherman.

The latter said he had made his mind up for just and prudence measures to restrain Chinese immigration. This bill, however, contained harsh provisions, which reversed the whole pelicy of the government from its foundation, and it seemed to him the vils of this immigration could be guarded against without excluding all classes of laborers.

Mr. Scoville will un dertake the stupendous scheme of or-ganizing a new and independent party incidentally with his lectures. His plan is to organize clubs of independent voters everywhere. The principles on which the new organization is to be founded are rather indefinite as laid down in Mr. Scoville's circular.

They are, "We hold it to be the duty of every voter to attend every election and to cast his ballot. We hold that in the election or appointment of every public afficer, the wel-fare of the people is rather to be sought than the benefit of the individual, We believe that the chief reidual, We believe that the chief requirements of every incumbent of office should be honesty, capability and fidelity. We repudiate the doctrine of rotation in office as pernicious. We will not vote for any person who advises or is instrumental in displacing any person from any office, the duties of which have been well and faithfully discharged. We believe that persistent office seeking with its attendant evils to the corruption of public morals and will discriminate against that class of politicians in yoting whenever it is possible.

Heavy Bank Defaleation. NEW YORK, March 9 .- Disclosures made this afternoon reveal the fact that the Fourth National bank has been victimized by a defalcation by R. H. Cornwell, an old and trusted clerk. He had charge of the bonds and se-curities placed with the bank as security for loans. These he hypothecated to the extent of $70,000, using the money for speculation. O. D. Baldwin, the vice president, says the securities have all been recovered, costing the bank $70,000. The loss is a small matter to the bank. The first discovery was made on Monday, when Cornwell went to Plainville, N. J., saying he was ill. When telegraphed to about the matter he replied that he was to ill to come to New York. He is yet to ill to be placed under arrest. He is 65, has been employed in the bank thirteen years and was

General Grant's Poverty.

General Grant is not the wealthy man he has been represented to be. He is very much in need of the pay provided for in Gen. Logan's bill restoring him to the army. At present, according to trustworthy reports, he is without any personal income. The house given to him in New York was deeded to his wife when Gen. Grant thought he had a fortune in the fund collected for him by Mr. Jones, publisher of The New York Times. Mr. Jones collected for him $250,000 and he was made trustee of the fund, with power to invest it, Gen. Grant being given the income arising therefrom. INVESTED IN WABASH RAILROAD STOCK

There is no stock in the market that has gone down in such a remarkable degree as this. It has depreciated in value to such an extent that the investment for General Grant now represents a comparatively small sum, and from it no income is obtained More than this, it is not believed, from the condition of the road, that the stock will be worth very much for a long time to come. Had the money been given outright to General Grant and invested in government bonds, it would have represented something more tangible than it does to-day. Possibly Mr. Jones could be held responsible for the money, but, considering the fact that he is the man who raised it, the matter is altogether too delicate a one for Gen. Grant to press. None of the investments that Gen. Grant has made in New York have been successful. It is felt by capitalists in New York that Gen. Grant has made a great mistake to go there. If he had remained at Galena or at some place in the interior, he would have been more successful in retaining the prestige of his great name. He has been tried as president and director in a great many concerns, but he draws no money. So he is being gradually DEOPPED BY INVESTERS, who were anxious a year or two ago to carry him for the advantages his name might give them. His son, "Buck" Grant, is quite rich, and is making plenty of money. The general's position, however, is full of em-
