A RISING STAR.

Already Sparkling on the Horizon of Legitimate Drama.

The Successful Career of Frederick Warde—Supporting Charlotte Cushman, Booth, McCullough and Others.

THE BEE was yesterday honored by a pleasant call from that rising young star of the tragic stage, Mr. Frederick Warde, whose appearance at Boyd's Opera house last evening in his favorite play of "Virginius," demonstrated to the audience the strong claims he holds to future prominence in the ranks heretofore occupied by such men as Booth, McCullough, Barrett and others.

In conversation with Mr. Warde THE BEE reporter learned some facts concerning his career which will prove extremely interesting to those who now see him for the first time as well as those who have become familiar with his name for years past in connection with those of some of the best actors on the American stage.

FROM MERRIE ENGLAND.

Mr. Warde is an Englishman by birth and played through all the principal cities of the United Kingdom before he came to the United States, which was in 1874, seven years after his adoption of his profession. He opened at Booth's Theatre, New York, August 10th, 1874, as leading man and remained there three years. He supported Charlotte Cushman on her farewell engagement in the metropolis. Mr. Warde's success was assured from the first and he went through all the routine work of such a position, being prominently connected with the revival of Henry V, afterward supporting Booth for twenty weeks; and next playing Marc Anthony with Davenport and Barrett.

AN INDEPENDENT TOUR.

The actor's next move was in the direction of a start for himself purchasing, in connection with Morris Barry-more the play "Diplomacy." This was an unfortunate move however, and ended, after the disastrous business at Marshall, Texas, where Porter was killed, in the loss of $7,000 accumulated by years of hard work. Warde was now compelled to start again where he had left off and accordingly joined John McCullough, with whom he made his

FIRST VISIT TO OMAHA.

This was about two years ago and the company appeared in the old Academy of Music but without Mr. Warde, who was sick with a severe cold. In that season he was appearing as "Icilius" to McCullough's "Virginius" and was considered almost if not quite as great an attraction as the star himself, with whom he took the juvenile leading part in all their plays. The two were together for two years and only parted in April last, at the end of the season, when Mr. Warde determined to make another start for himself, which he did on the 5th of September last, appearing at St Louis in Hamlet, Iago, Richard III, Shylock, etc. He played there one week and won the encomiums of the press and public from the first, and from that time to the present has received the most flattering expressions of approval on all sides. He has traveled through the west, Texas and up the Atlantic coast, and will finish his first season in about four weeks, after completing this western circuit

AS A STAR

THE LONE STAR STATE.

In response to a question as to the character of the theaters and audiences in the south, Mr. Warde said: "I am very fond of Texas. The business there is very large, the theaters fine, and the audiences as cultivated and appreciative as would be found in Boston, New York or any of the larger cities. In this connection Mr. Warde said he must express his admiration for Boyd's Opera house, which considered, candidly, without a superior in the east. He was delighted with it.

NEXT SEASON

will be opened early in September, when Mr. Warde will visit the larger cities of the east and south, adhering strictly to the legitimate drama. His principal roles are: Virginius, Richelieu, Richard III, Damon and Pythias, Othello and Shylock, the two first being his favorites, and apparently most appreciated by the public.

The first season has been a most satisfactory one both to the actor and his manager, Mr. John J. Collins, with whom he is under engagement for four years. The public have recognized Mr. Warde's right to the position which he aspires to, and which he has thoroughly demonstrated his ability to fill. He will in all probability return to Omaha in the fall and will be assured of a hearty reception when he does come.

Mexican bonds were quoted at the unprecedented high price of 49 cents on the dollar by the Chicago Times of March 4th. As these securities draw 7 per cent, this will bring them more into public favor than they were during the recent strife in Mexico

THE GRAND CONCERT.

Lizzie Calderwood at Boyd's This Evening.

While a large number of people gave up a whole round American dollar last Tuesday evening to hear the long-haired disciple of Ruskin tell them a few things they had read, and other things their common sense teaches them almost every day—the concert on this evening next was awaiting them full of promise of an evening of rare enjoyment, and costing only half the amount. Now, it may be that many people prefer hearing an evening's talk from a stranger of ethereal ideas; but it strikes us there is no comparison between it and the excellent programme given below—participated in by some of our best home artists, whose interests, tastes, labors and sympathies are in common with our own. Much heartier would we commend to your attention the merits of the promising young vocalist in whose personal interest and pecuniary benefit this programme has been carefully prepared

She has grown up among us, generously given her assistance to churches and entertainments without number during these years of girlhood, in which her talents and ambition have been forming. Now that she sees her way clear to the preparation for a higher degree of excellence in her chosen art, we can consistently do little less than join those who bid her God speed by their presence at Boyd's opera house this evening.

PROMPT PAYMENT.

How a Member of the Royal Arcanum Provided for His Mother.

Among the various secret organizations of this city is the Royal Arcanum, represented by Omaha council No. 118. This council was organized some years ago, and has flourished from the start, including among its members some of our best and most substantial citizens.

In August last a young man named Wm. H. Potter, a headquarters clerk joined the lodge and subsequently removed to Denver, where he died January 8th, 1882. The Arcanum provides for the payment of a certain sum upon the death of its members, and the deceased, after a membership of five months and a payment in all of $6 72 in dues, left a policy worth $3,000, which was payable to his aged mother, Mrs. Mary M. Potter, who resides in Newport, New Jersey.

Mr. A. H. Sanders, the treasurer of Omaha council No. 118, and through whom the negotiations for the settlement of the claim were carried on, yesterday exhibited to a BEE reporter Mrs. Potter's receipt for amount of the policy in full. The papers to substantiate the death of W. H. Potter were received from Denver by Mr. Sanders, February 2d, the check for the amount was received by the same officer February 16th, and the receipt of the money from the supreme treasurer is dated March 2d, which is pretty quick time, and speaks volumes for the reliability of the order.

LOOKING FOR DAN.

Four Porkers Carried Away to Their Death by Dan Stundon and "Whisky Jack."

Four pigs of considerable size were stolen the other day from certain parties in the northern part of the city. It was discovered that they had been driven to slaughter, and sold by Dan Stundon, and Jack Connolly, familiarly known as "Whisky Jack." Connolly was arrested on Monday, but he asserts that he didn't know that they were stolen; that Stundon met him on the road and hired him to help drive them to the slaughter house; that when they arrived there Stundon sold them and gave him $2, which was pay for driving them; but that Stundon represented that they were his and that he (Connolly) thought that was the case. Stundon has not been caught yet, although the officers here have been looking for him diligently.

MARY STEALS A WATCH.

The tendency to borrow the property of others without returning it seems to run in the Stundon blood. Mary, old Dan's daughter, was arrested yesterday on the charge of stealing a gold watch and chain from Mrs. Hill, the boarding house keeper on Sixteenth street. Mary had been washing there, and went around to get another job. Mrs. Hill stepped out of the room to see whether more washing was needed to be done, and while she was gone Mary corraled a gold watch and chain which lay on the table and lit out. Yesterday morning the girl returned the stolen property, and the complaint against her was withdrawn.

The Union Spy.

Preparations for the production of "The Union Spy," under the auspices of the G. A. R. of this city, at Boyd's Opera house continue to be pushed. The dates fixed are March 27th, 28th and 29th. The boys are determined to do everything in their power to give their friends from other posts an opportunity to come and see the grand spectacular military drama, and have accordingly secured special rates on the Union Pacific, giving all visitors on the dates named a rate of one and one-fourth fare for the round trip from the following points:

Papillion, Fremont, Schuyler, Columbus, Grand Island, Central City, Wahoo, David City, Lincoln.

It is expected that that the B. & M. will do equally well by them. Other negotiations are in progress which will secure a very large attendance if successful.

WOMAN'S TRUE FRIEND.

A friend in need is a friend indeed. This none can deny, especially when assistance is rendered when one is sorely afflicted with disease, more particularly those complaints and weaknesses so common to our female population. Every woman should know that Electric Bitters are woman's true friend, and will positively restore her to health, even when all other remedies fail. A single trial always proves our assertion. They are pleasant to the taste, and only cost fifty cents per bottle.

SMITH DONT SMILE.

At Least, Not So Much as He Used To.

Arrest of Sydney Smith, Former Wheeler & Wilson Agent in This City, on the Charge of Embezzlement.

The name of Sidney Smith, which became known to the people of Omaha through certain curious business transactions while he was in Omaha as agent of the Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine company, has been again brought to public attention. At the time when Smith left this city he did it surrepticiously and it was then discovered that he was about $500 behind in his accounts. He disappeared "between two days" and probably on Saturday night, as that was the last any one saw of him. He had promised to be at the office on Monday morning to give some information to his successor in the agency here and his absence was not noticed until that time. Inquiry failed to disclose any track of his whereabouts, and after some vigilant watching by the police, it was determined that Smith had "folded his tent like the Arab and silently stolen away."

NABBED.

But he was not forgotten. Although lost to sight, in the minds of the Wheeler & Wilson men he was to memory dear, and they have laid for him. About a week ago it was discovered that he was in Little Rock, Arkansas, and the business he was in fairly took away the breath of the officers, when they were informed of it. Smith has been living there under the alias of Ludlow, and for some weeks has been engaged as an agent for the self-same company which he is charged with beating in this city. As an instance of sublime and chilled steel cheek this is doubtless the champion case on record. Whether there there was something about the so-called "Ludlow's" peculiar habits as an agent at Little Rock, or whether he gave himself away, is not definite, but it is certain that his identity was discovered, as he was arrested in that city yesterday afternoon on a dispatch to the chief of police there, sent from Omaha.

COMING HOME.

Smith will be detained in Little Rock until an officer from this city can go there and bring him home. Smith's disappearance and the matters connected therewith did much to strengthen the belief of many of P. E. Garrigan's friends that the latter is now serving a three years' sentence in the penitentiary because of perjury on Smith's part. It will be remembered that Garrigan was arrested on charge of embezzlement, and finally sent over the road for alleged forgery, which indictment was found against him after his arrest.

GARRIGAN'S CONVICTION.

At the time of Garrigan's arrest he claimed that he had not embezzled anything, but intimated that there were some other crooked transactions which he might give away, in which Smith was interested, but it is supposed that the manipulations referred to were of such a nature that by their revealment Garrigan would criminate himself. He alleged that his arrest and prosecution were instigated by Smith for the purpose of getting him out of the way, and not because the agent had any special desire to protect the company's interests. The embezzlement charge didn't pan out sufficiently to send Garrigan over the road, but a forgery indictment was sprung on him and he was convicted.

SMITH RELIEVED.

Whether Smith breathed easier after his assistant in the agency business was behind the bars is not known, but he seemed to swing out a little more, and presently moved the office of the company to its present location in the Opera house block. His accounts were quite frequently several days behind hand, and one day a loss of $300 was announced, of which Smith claimed to be robbed. At this, the present agent was sent on and Smith relieved. He was expected to remain about a month, but he disappeared, as stated, and the deficiencies in his accounts were discovered, upon which the present charge is based.

KEENE'S COMING.

The Reappearance of the Distinguished Tragedian---What He Will Play.

In a few days one of the most important dramatic events of the season will occur in the reappearance of Thomas W. Keene. Mr. Keene's performances in this city a year ago are remembered vividly by the play-goers of Omaha, and undoubtedly the enormous business done here then by him will be repeated. Mr. Keene's position among the great tragedy stars of his time is no longer a doubtful one, for since his appearance in this city he has filled engagements in every important American city, and he has received the unqualified endorsement of the leading critics of the country. Recently he played a three weeks' engagement in Boston, where his artistic as well as financial success was of the most unqualified kind. From that point through the New England states and the west he has, as he did last year, packed the theaters wherever he played. Mr. Keene, of course, has added to his repertoire Macbeth, in the interpretation of which he is said to be quite as great as he is in Richurd III. The company, with the exception of a few slight changes in the leading parts, is substantially the same as last year. Mr. Keene will be seen here in Richelieu, Macbeth and Bertuccio, in "A Fool's Revenge."

There will be a meeting of the Danish Lutheran church on St. Mary's avenue, Wednesday, April 5, 1882, to consider the question of raising the sum of $1,000 by mortgaging the church property for the purpose of building a parsonage. Th&sat4t*

TEAMSTERS' UNION.

An Enthusiastic Meeting at Kessler's Hall Last Evening.

The teamsters held a large and enthusiastic meeting at Kessler's Hall last evening. About one hundred teamsters were present, besides a large attendance of friends and sympathizers in the labor cause.

The president of the Teamsters' Union, Mr. Melio, occupied the chair and briefly stated the object of the meeting.

James Knight, of the Iron Molders' Union was the first speaker called on. He stated that he was glad to address the Teamsters' Union or any other new organization in the interest of labor. He thought the teamsters had the best show for winning a contest for higher wages, as they had the means and material to hold out. He appealed to them to stand by their resolutions and to keep their organization intact, and also to stand by the workingmen's ticket this spring.

At the mention of the ticket three cheers were heartily given.

Speeches were then made by John Carroll, of the Iron Molders' union, who read lengthy resolutions from the Trades' assembly of San Francisco, in which they encouraged the workingmen of Omaha to stand out for their rights. He told them to stand firm and organize.

President Walsh, of the Labor Protective union, spoke at some length, and advised them to perpetuate their union and they were bound to win.

A mention was made of the mass meeting to morrow night, which is to be held in Central Hall, at which all workingmen are expected to attend.

Saratoga.

J. J. Points, superintendent of public instruction, delivered his eloquent and scholary address on education before the Lyceum last evening to a large and appreciative audience.

The following was adopted unanimously:

Resolved, That a vote of thanks be tendered Superintendent Points for the able and cultured lecture he has had the kindness to deliver this evening.

The usual programme was somewhat shortened to allow time for the lecture. There will be no meeting next week. The final meeting will be on Wednesday, April 5, which it is expected will be unusually interesting.

A special committee have it in charge, J. D. Rustin being chairman, which guarantees success.

The Union Sunday school have an anniversary concert Sunday, April 2, for which extensive preparations are being made.

Our school, which has been successfully conducted by Mr. A. W. McPherson, closes Friday for the spring vacation, after a continuous session of six months. CUCKOO.

—Patrick Connelly, residing at No. 705 North Seventeenth street, died Tuesday at 8 a. m., of Bright's disease, aged sixty-six years. The deceased was an old resident of Omaha, having came hither from the east in 1855. He leaves four sons and a daughter, two of the children, Lewis and Mary J. Connelly, still residing here. The others are now living farther west, and the remains will be held until their arrival, the time of the funeral to be announced hereafter. At the time of his death Mr. Connelly was an inmate of St. Joseph's hospital.

Important Notice---Words of Warning.

We desire to give this friendly word of warning to whom it may concern, that all persons who have been, or are now dealing in a preparation called "Clayton & Russell's Celebrated Stomach Bitters," put upon the market by Adams & Co., of New York, render themselves liable to prosecution and damages, as said article has been pronounced by the U. S. Circuit Court, Southern District, New York, in a decision rendered by his Honor, Judge Blatchford, February, 1882, as being an imitation of Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters, and who granted a decree of perpetual injunction with damages, against the said Adams & Co for violation of our Trade Mark in the premises. The principle of this important decision applies with equal force to any article of Bitters, the labels of which bear a general resemblance to our Trade Mark, as well as to the re-filling of our old bottles with spurious stuff, or selling in bulk any article purporting to be our preparation, and hence this friendly word of caution. We never fail to convict, as the Court Records of New Orleans, St. Louis, New York and other points fully affirm. HOSTETTER & SMITH,
