A BULL IN BRICKS.

Ten Tons of Gold Carted to the Door of the Mint. Armed Messengers Escort From New York Five Million Dollars' Worth of Metal that Will Fly Away Again 'as Eagles.

There was an unwonted bustle about the west basement entrance of the United States Mint shortly before 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. One of the Adams Express Company's great wagons, drawn by a pair of magnificent black horses, had just stopped in front, and immediately a dozen hands were transferring its load of flat, curious-looking boxes, tightly bound with hoop-iron, to the gloomy depths of the adjoining basement.

TEN TONS OF GOLD. The $5,000,000 which came yesterday consisted of a thousand and odd "bricks," filling 105 boxes, and weighing in the neighborhood of ten tons. This morning the boxes will be opened each "brick" will be weighed and assayed and the results compared with the record of weight and the fineness contained in the invoice.

It happens that just at this particular time the bullion receipts at the Mint are more than balanced by the daily shipment of coin. For the last eleven days the sum of $1,000,000 in eagles and half-eagles has been daily sent to the sub-treasury in New York, and this outflow will be kept up until the $17,000,000 ordered to that repository has been supplied.
