

THE DAILY BEE

OMAHA, Saturday Morning April 8.

Weather Report. (The following observations are taken at the same moment of time at all the stations named.)

Table with columns: STATIONS, Barometer, Thermometer, Direction of Wind, Force of Wind, State of Weather.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

The district court has adjourned sine die. The Pleasant Hours club will give a reception to its treasurer on next Friday evening. The funeral of Mr. Julius Treitschke's little daughter will take place at 2 p. m. on Sunday.

CANING WALSH.

The President of the Labor Union Surprised by His Friends.

Pleasant Event at the Ratification Meeting Last Night.

Interesting Speeches by Various Parties. Pursuant to a call published in THE BEE last evening there was a mass meeting of workmen at Turner Hall to ratify the election of Tuesday.

MR. C. C. THRANE

the councilman-elect from the First ward. Mr. Thrane made a short but earnest speech, thanking the people not only for what they had done for him, but for what they had done for themselves. He congratulated them upon having won a victory over the enemy, not by force but by the ballot.

MR. ED LEEDEE

councilman elect from the Fifth ward. Mr. Leeder said whether it rains or storms it seems that the hoodlums will turn out. [Laughter.] He had not much to say, but he had understood that this meeting was held to ratify the election of councilmen.

MR. JOHN QUINN

was called upon. He said he was glad of an opportunity to stand before them and this red-handed mob after a bloodless victory. The political conflict was not of their own seeking. The challenge was thrown down to them when the leaders of the two parties feigned to abandon their principles only to prevent the people from exercising their rights as American citizens.

They had the right to hold public officers responsible for public acts but there were closets in every household and in many of these closets were skeletons, and he held that it was no business of the public to pry into private affairs. He said the workmen appreciated the fact that there were other interests besides their own and were willing to recognize this in a proper way.

MR. R. ROSEWATER

was next called upon and came forward amidst considerable cheering. Mr. Rosewater said that his budget should not be serious, but a funny one. The only serious one they had was at Hascall's ratification at the Academy of Music. He was willing to adopt the motto of the performers that were left at the Academy to play to an audience of twenty-five. They had put out a ticket with the motto "In unity there is strength," and this was his motto.

He had taught one lesson to the people. The only corporation attorneys cannot bulldoze business people into arraying themselves against other citizens whose interests are identical. They had shown forbearance at the points of the bayonets, and had subsequently asserted their rights in a manly way at the polls.

The gorge which formed above Blamack and outwaded the water to fall so rapidly as to catch on the boats at the Blamack levee on the bank, let so, raising the river six feet in within a couple of hours and floating the boats again. The river at Stenson fell five feet Wednesday, and two feet at Buford. A party of men were caught in a flatboat by the sudden rise at the fourth pier of the bridge. They ascended to the top of the pier, where they remained all day in the rain and cold wind. Not a dollar's worth of damage had been sustained by the boats at Blamack during the smash-up in the river this spring.

which are that all men are born equal. Some of the greatest men this country has ever produced were born in the cottage and on the farm. Andrew Johnson was a tailor, who did not know how to write until his wife taught him, and still his name will compare favorably with those of any of the most learned statesmen of this country!

Stephen Douglas was a cabinet maker, who worked at his trade, and made his way into the highest councils of the nation. Henry Wilson died vice president of the United States, but he started as a cobbler, and while working at his trade was acquiring an education. He ranked among the ablest statesmen that this country ever produced.

If any evidence was wanting that workmen are capable of expressing themselves as intelligently and to the point as any lawyer, Mr. Quinn's speech that preceded him afforded ample proof.

It would not be necessary for the workmen to organize any separate parties if the lessons taught this spring will be carried out by the existing parties and men are nominated who represent the people instead of corporations. They will be able to divide as usual, according to their own political inclination. If the corporations are going to pack the conventions and put up their own tools the workmen will be compelled to resort to independent action and there is no doubt they will be successful.

In conclusion, he expressed the wish that when they met again the united mechanics would be united with all the other elements of labor. [Loud and prolonged cheering.]

A PRESENTATION.

President Walsh was about to adjourn the meeting, when he was interrupted by Mr. Conway, who stepped in from the wings carrying in his hand a massive and beautiful gold-headed cane. Addressing Mr. Walsh he said:

Worthy president: "I am commissioned by the Omaha Laborers' Protective Union to express to you the sentiment of profound esteem and confidence, which they hold toward you, and have the honor in their name to ask that you will accept this slight, but enduring testimonial, of the affection and respect of your comrades in labor. [Applause.]

We have passed honorably and triumphantly through no ordinary crisis and ordeal.

You have borne the colors of the Labor Union to complete victory and there they remain as long as the workingman has the intelligence to understand his rights, and the spirit to maintain them.

Your shield, sir, is without stain or reproach. Your honor and integrity is unimpaired, and the laboring men of Omaha, upon whose broad shoulders the peace and honor of our city repose, bid you God speed, for you have been weighed in the balance and been faithful over these things. [Applause.]

May your path in life be as smooth and straight as the polished cane, and your character keep as bright and clear as the burnished gold which surmounts it.

May it support you when your declining years, full of honor and reward, will have filled the measure of a long and noble public and private career.

Whenever you look upon it, it will remind you of the stormy days, in which you bore yourself so gallantly and taught our people that the poet spoke the truth when he said that:

"A man's man for a' that,
The honest man, though e'er so poor,
Is king o' men for a' that."

[Loud and continued applause.] Mr. Walsh endeavored to reply, but was so overcome with surprise and emotion that he had to excuse himself, and sat down amid the enthusiastic cheers of the audience.

Short speeches were made by Mr. Quinn and Mr. Rosewater, who both expressed their gratification at this handsome recognition of the president's services, and took occasion to say some very flattering truths about him.

The regular meeting on Monday evening was announced to take place at Bohemian hall, and the meeting there adjourned.

THE BEE reporter had an opportunity after adjournment to look at the cane presented to President Walsh and it was one of the handsomest in the city, being of ebony, with a massive gold head beautifully chased and engraved, and bearing the inscription, "Presented to Edward Walsh by the Omaha L. P. U. April 7th, 1882."

Mr. Walsh will no doubt value it beyond price as his friends value the services he has rendered them at such a sacrifice to himself.

Official Notice.

Col. A. C. Dawes, Superintendent Holdrege, Division Superintendent Winton, G. T. A. Eustis and other officials, after consultation yesterday made the following official announcement:

On and after Monday, April 10th, all trains over the M. C. & St. Joe & B. R. R. for St. Joseph, Atchison, Leavenworth, Kansas City and all points south, east and west via Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe and South Pacific railroads, will arrive at and leave from Omaha direct, without transfer.

They will arrive at and leave from the B. & M. passenger depot, running via Plattsmouth through without change, by this means making an hour's better time to all points on their road than heretofore. Trains will leave the B. & M. passenger depot, Omaha, at 8:30 a. m. and 7:45 p. m., and arrive at 7:35 a. m. and 6:45 p. m.

Tickets on sale at company's office, 1020 Farnam street, and at B. & M. depot. Baggage will be checked through to all points.

DON'T DIE IN THE HOUSE.

"Kough on Kats" clears out rats, mice, roaches, bedbugs, flies, ants, moles, chipmunks, gophers, 15c.

Seymour, first base; Funkhouser, second base; Bant, third base; Nash, short stop; Ross, left field; Smith, center field; Lyndon, right field. The services of Mr. Charles Griswold, one of New York's finest amateur ball players, have been secured as umpire, which alone would insure an interesting game. Game to be called by Mr. Griswold, who is promptness personified, at half past two precisely.

"THE UNION SPY."

The Public Clamor For Another Sight of the Great Drama. It Will be Repeated.

"The Union Spy," which was produced at the opera house three nights of last week, will be repeated this afternoon in matinee and this evening. This will be gratifying news to the public who are anxious to see the Grand Army receive an ovation on this occasion. The following correspondence will explain itself:

OMAHA, April 5, 1881.

To Frank M. Moore, Commander Geo. A. Caster Post G. A. R., and Col. Temple.

GENTLEMEN—We, the undersigned, most respectfully request that you reproduce the "Union Spy" once more before Col. Temple leaves the city, as we can bespeak for you a full house, as many of our people have not had the opportunity to see the beautiful military drama. (Signed)

Judge Jas. W. Savage, E. F. Smythe, W. H. Adams, Geo. E. Lake, Henry Grebe, Edwin H. Crowell, Judge Beneke, F. J. McShane, J. E. Blake, Wm. Hains, W. Bennett, C. B. Maxwell, J. C. Cowin, Ed. Gorman, C. S. Chase, N. J. Burnham, N. N. Ferguson, Wm. Coburn, J. H. Butler, A. H. Bradford, H. B. Nicodemus, F. P. Gridley, D. N. Miller, J. P. Ewing, J. J. Galligan, J. Tenthon, L. Drake, O. H. Ballou.

OMAHA, April 6, 1882.

Hon. Judge Savage, Col. Smythe, Gen. J. C. Cowin and others:

GENTLEMEN—Having received your communication in regard to the reproduction of the "Union Spy" at Boyd's opera house at an early date, I am pleased to announce that I have consulted with Col. Temple and the "Union Spy" cast, and they have consented to put it on the stage Saturday afternoon and evening, April 8th. Thanking you for your appreciation of our own feeble efforts, I subscribe myself,

FRANK M. MOORE, Com. Geo. A. Caster, Post No. 1, G. A. R.

POISONED.

Willie Kingsley's Experience With Wild Ivy.

On Saturday last Willie Kingsley, son of Mrs. Ellen Kingsley, who resides on Thirteenth and Jones, went down the river about six miles and crossed over to the Iowa side to see an elder brother who is engaged at the saw mill at that point getting out timber trees.

Willie is about thirteen years old and is a printer by trade, having worked of late for Mr. Mortimer.

On Monday morning he got up to go to work but found one of his eyes swollen shut and his face in bad shape and crossed over to the Iowa side to see an elder brother who is engaged at the saw mill at that point getting out timber trees.

POPULAR PIONEERS.

Remarkable Success of an Omaha Business Firm.

A Splendid Showing at Their Thirty-sixth Opening.

If any firm in Omaha can justly claim a title to the name of "pioneer" it is that of H. and C. F. Hickman, who have recently removed their famous milinery headquarters to No. 1307 Farnam street, in Central block.

Starting in the year 1844, they have just held their thirty-sixth opening, and it met with a reception and appreciation that amounted to an ovation. For several nights the store, which occupies the whole three stories of the block, has been crowded with visitors for the magic name is in itself sufficient to draw a crowd at any time, more especially when it is known that a full stock has been opened up for the inspection of their patrons.

THE CENTER OF ATTRACTION.

Of course the store was put in unusually fine trim to satisfy the taste of the proprietors and the admiration of the ladies who flock to Hickman's in a body on occasions of this kind. A BEE reporter followed the crowd as it wended its way in and about the commodious premises, and it may be said in general that it was a very beautiful sight, and that the most artistic taste and conscientious system was displayed in the arrangement of everything from the richly dressed and attractive windows which caught the eyes of all who passed that way, down, everything complete.

There were no elaborate and perfect that no one would interpose an objection if they should receive attention prior to the stock.

THE WEST WINDOW

It is trimmed with a mammoth horse shoe, formed of butter cups and diamonds and fashioned with amethysts, lilies of the valley and artificial plants and flowers of various kinds, the most conspicuous object being an enormous sunflower. The window is filled with untrimmed Tuscan hats and bonnets of fancy braids.

THE EAST WINDOW

is decorated with a design of hand-sox dress buttons, forming the letter "V," with a back ground of wide fancy ribbons of the most stylish and popular shades of the day. The base of the window is filled with buttons, mitts, gloves, hosiery, fans, and parasols. One has hardly time to recover from the effect of these handsome windows when he or she is ushered into the store, which is laid off in departments, localized by circular arms trimmed with lace, in which is displayed the goods pertaining to each department, with an embroidered satin banner attached to each of the arms.

THE VARIOUS DEPARTMENTS

comprise the display of ribbons, lace mitts, silk handkerchiefs, fancy linen and thread goods. Another section is devoted exclusively to hosiery, a fourth to lace goods, consisting of neckwear; the next to buttons, and trimming-gimps, with lace edgings and veilings, corsets and hoopskirts; parasols, hand-baskets, pocket-books and fancy hand-bags.

In still another department are children's goods in lace caps, knit socks and under-ward, neck-ruchings, hair goods and perfumeries, domestic patterns, zephyrs, danvases and material pertaining to fancy work. On the west side of this room are milinery goods, untrimmed and trimmed hats and bonnets, plumes and feathers. On the long counters in the center of the room are displayed, jewelry and fancy novelties in ornaments and Easter cards, the latter very novel and unique.

ON THE SECOND FLOOR.

Passing up a broad, carpeted stairway, the ample rooms above are found devoted to flowers, ribbons, trimming, silks, laces, neckwear and novelties intended for the wholesale trade. The only exception is the front part of the room which is set apart for Mrs. Hickman's specialty in fine milinery. In her room the reporter found such an abundance of fine goods that it is impossible to particularize as the display must be seen to be appreciated.

This department was crowded with ladies having their measures taken and being fitted. In fact in several visits to this house of late Mrs. Hickman has always been found busy and the number of ladies in her rooms, settles the question of transacting business in the second story, which many insist cannot be made successful.

THE THIRD FLOOR

is devoted exclusively to untrimmed hats and bonnets in the case, and here we might say that, although their room has been so much increased of late, it is already insufficient to accommodate the large stock. There is a power of business transacted in these upper stories, showing that people will find out and go to any part of a building, if there is something there to go for. This is the last evening of

and as the members of the firm are already busy taking orders, it will be the last chance for persons to get a good look at the goods under the particular guidance of the Hickmans, who will still, however, stand ready to welcome all, at all times. None should fail to attend this evening.

Grateful Women.

None receive so much benefit, and none are so profoundly grateful and show such an interest in recommending Hop Bitters as women. It is the only remedy peculiarly adapted to the many ills the sex is almost universally subject to. Chills and fever, indigestion or deranged liver, constant or periodical sick headaches, weakness in the back or kidneys, pain in the shoulders and different parts of the body, a feeling of lassitude or despondency, are all readily removed by these Bitters.
