A FRAUD'S FATE.

The Report That the Notorious Dr. Aldrich Was Lynched in New Mexico.

Where He Practiced Under the Name of Dr. Washington.

The Romantic and Curious Way in Which His Death Warrant Was Served.

A well known former citizen o Omaha, who for the past year has resided in New Mexico, arrived in the city secently and brings a bit of information which, although not of recent date, is certainly news in these parts. There is scarcely a person in Omaha who does not recollect the name of the notorious Dr. E. W. Aldrich, who for a long time occupied the top round of the ladder as a successful quack doctor, and who was finally exposed and compelled to leave for parts unknown by THE BEE, which published the full details of his rascally doings. While here he was prominent in the social circles of a certain church, and was lavish in his contributions to the fifteen cars of grain for Kansas City by support of every religious and charita-the K. It appears that after leaving Omaha the doctor went to Trinidad, Col., the Missouri Pacific at this end of the line Dr. Washington, which name, by the way, cannot be found in the directory of physicians who have graduated and received diplomas. Here he was the same oily and devout man that he had always been, and played a successful game until he became involved in a shooting affair arising from some scan. mag., in which one of the sisters of the church was involved. This necessitated the doctor's de parture, and he removed his headquarters to Raton, on the line of the A. T. & S. F. R. R., where he hung out his shingle under the same his torio non de plume. Here he again assumed prominence in church circles, and ingratiated himself into the confidence of some of the best people there. Among others who boarded at the same hotel was a young and beautiful girl, a model of womanly grace and virtues, who was destined the doctor's last victim and his fate at the same time. She, it appears, felt an aversion for him from the first, which she could not overcome, and when at length she fell sick from a cold which brought on one of the troubles common to her sex, she utterly refused to consent to being attended by Dr. Washington. Her friends ridiculed her prejudices, as they considered it, and insisted, until at length she was forced into compliance, and became a

Acting upon her fears and Pacific left here at 5:30 a. m. yesterday, the case might be, the false consisting of an engine, coach and caboose, the physician persuaded her there was but one way to insure her recovery and that he was the man who could cure

her. At first he met with a repulse representations he made that she at ength in the hope of becoming a fit bride for her lover became the victim of the doctor's lust. In a short time it became evident that unfortunate girl was in seducer thought to cover his crime by another, still more heinous. In an she would die. He had in the mean time gained such ascendency over her that by threats or some other means he had shut her mouth and effectually frightened her out of revealing her degradation to her friends. She indeed asked that the case be dismissed without derer no doubt rejoiced at so easy an prejudice, which was done. In the meantime, however, fate had ordered otherwise. The girl's affec-tion for her betrothed never left her nor wavered in its constancy, and while she lay on her death bed she wrote, when alone, a note to the man who was to have been her husband and explained all; The note she wrapped up tight ly and concealed in the mass of thick hair, which was one of nature's gifts to her. After her death, when loving hands were preparing her for the grave the note was found and delivered to the one to whom it was addressed. The shock and indignation it produce may be imagined.

The doctor soon learned learned the of the discovery, and a ing that affairs had reached a crisis sent, word to the sheriff at Oterro, the next station south of Raton, to come up, and on his arrival voluntarily surdered himself as a prisoner, and was taken to Oterro. The same night the young man whom he had so wronged, with a number of friends. took an engine and cars at Raton and went down to the next station, where Residents of Omaha.

Programme of Exercises and List of Officers.

About a month ago the English residents of Omaha formed an organization which they named St. George's society, which has already grown to a membership of seventy-five, the society being officered as follows for its first year:

President-Miles H. Carlton. Vice Presidents-Henry J. Darrell,

Henry Jackson. Secretary—W. C. Taylor. Assistant Secretary-James Roth-

Stewards-Robert Martin, Wm Guards—Chas, Gardiner, Chandler.

Treasurer—Henry Livesey. Physician—W. H. Lanyon. Auditors-W. C. Taylor,

Board of Directors-Richard Stephens, William Stribbling, John Rob-ins, Wm. Bonner, Chas. Marley, Wm. Carnaby, James Stockdale, Chas. Unit, John Trenery, Wm. Balinger. "The object of the organization is for the intellectual and social condition of Englismen, and the relief of distressed members and their families (provided such distress is not occasioned by drunkenness or crime), the visitation of the sick, the burial of the dead, and the assistance of the widows and orphans of deceased members: and in the discretion of the society to relieve and advise distressed members and others from England and their sons and grandsons. Any person who was born in England, and their sons and grandsons, wherever born, can become members of the society provided they are in good standing and over eight years of age."

Sunday was the 1,579th anniversary of St. George, England's patron saint, and in accordance with an obligation imposed by their constitution the day was recognized in a suitable manner but falling on Sunday, Saturday night was chosen for the exercises in honor of the occasion. A large number of invitations had been issued and notwithstanding the extreme inclemency of the weather and the attractions else where there were about one hundred and fifty couples present at Kuoney's hall when, at 8 o'clock, the president called the audience to order, and after an overture by the band delivered an address on the subject of "St. George and England," in the course of which he made the following eloquent apology for the formation of this youngest of Omaha societies: "If there is a bond that cements the family in its sacred unity, there is one which helds with almost as strong a tie and as firm a grasp brethren of the same nationality, citizens of the same land. No matter how remote the present dwelling place, or how humble the station, the same language, the same native draw us with fraternal love each to the other. For our second showing of low and unequal assessments we will take property within a certain radius from the county court house, or the main business portion of the city, and we believe that our readers will be coneither in the assessment laws or in the persons we elect assessors. We will commence at Dodge and Twentieth streets, and we find three acres of lot 1, Capitol addition, with the residence of the late P. W. Hitchcock, assessed at $5,000, and we will venture the assertion that said property could not be purchased to-day for ten times that amount. By going a little south to Farnam street and the same distance from business, we find a lot 87 by 284 feet sold the present month by Hanscom for $6,-000 which was assessed at $1,000, but this is no lower in proportion than the property first above de-located at Farnam and Twentythird street, are selling from $800 to $1,500 each and lots on Douglas and Twenty-third streets are selling at from seven hun-

They are neary all 60 teet front and from one hundred and thirty-five to one hundred and ninety-eight feet deep. In Preston & Williams' addition we find unimproved lots assessed at $150. Rogers two and sixty onehundredth acres at $5,000, and Hamilton's two and sixty-six one-hundredth acres at $5,000. ## BURNING BOX CARS.

Small Fire in the River Botton Yesterday.

About 12:30 o'clock p. m. to-day an alarm of fire was sent in by tele phone from the Lininger-Metcalf Agricultural Implements Company's of fice, followed by an alarm from Her's distillery. The hooks and two of the hose carts responded and went down toward the scene of fire on the dead It was found, however, that the blaze had broken out in a box car belonging to the B. & M , and side-tracked with another box and the stone train on a siding right along the foot of the U. P. bridge embankment on the north. It was wholly inaccessible to the department, but a Union Pacific engine with fire attachments ran out to the bridge, sent down a line of hose and was soon playing on the flames. A big crowd ran as usual toward the direction from which the alarm came and collected on dump," from which the fire was in full view. The effort to save the other cars was successful but the one in which the fire had broken out was burned so badly that except the run

HIGH-TONED TRAVEL

The Number of Specials That Are Hauled Over the Union Pacific.

The aristocratic tendency of the people high up in the railway world has become one of the peculiar features of railway travel.

Once a special car, and that a coach, was good enough to haul any dignitary day coaches hauled Abe Lincoln to Washington in 1861, and a railway president or superintendent who had business along the line simply had the vinced that a radical change is needed train held a few minutes at a station, or, if his business was prolonged, was switched off to wait for the next train, At length the special car, arranged came into vogue, and now every official, from the division superintendent up, almost, has his "special," and frequently rides on a special train as well. No well regulated railroad is without its complement of "specials" and on some roads they are numerous enough to equip lines less pretentious. The magnificent train which hauled General Grant east from Omaha was perhaps the most regal ever seen in this city and the special train occupied by Jay Gould on his recent visit was probably next in value and importance. Not only do the officers themselves ride in these cars but their families, friends or whomsoever they delight to by 132 feet was sold out of this in honor are drawn over the lines in them March, 1882, for $1,700, which would until they have become a regular nurhonor are drawn over the lines in them sance to the railroad men who have them to handle. It is a cold day that some special does not not pass over the Union Pacific and its precious burden varies from the great Gould to the wife of the president of a Central American republic or of a Mormon magnate who holds a directorship in a small feeder of the great transcontinental railway. The train from the west last night, in addition to its load of baggage mail and express cars, dragged behind it three of these rolling palaces. The first was the Pullman hotel car, 'Metropolitan, an elegant and immense car, which had on this occasion among its passengers Mrs. Senator Fair, of Nevads, and children, Mrs. G. A. Roberts, wife of a San Francisco mining expert, and Mrs. O'Reilly, of British Columbia.

Following this was the equally costly and commodious "Directors' Car" No. 03, of the Union Pacific, with one of the directors and officers of that road and party on board.

In the wake of these was the directors' car of the Utah Central road. lot on St. Marys avenue is assessed at much smaller type of the cars ahead of $600 and Jacobs' 140 by 127 feet at it. # CITY COURT.

Judge Beneke's | Monday Morning Docket.

In the police court yesterday there were three cases of disturbance of the peace, two of whom paid and one was discharged.

Four victims of the flowing bow answered to their respective names. Two of the unfortunates were given a continuance, one was committed in default of funds to liquidate his bill and one was fired out of town. A solitary tramp was also "fired."

A complaint has been filed against James Burke by G. Zimmermann. It is claimed that the accused went to Zimmermann's place under the influence of liquor and being refused any more of the ardent and ordered out of the place, smashed in one of the big glass window panes. The Waterworks Company complain against John Doe for wilful and malicious destruction of their property. The man it appears was walking down 10th street, and at the culvert near the Slaven house, where the walk is quite narrow, found a couple of sections of pipe, lying across the walk so as to obstruct it. He removed them with his foot but unfortunately started them down an incline so that they fell into the trench and were broken all to pieces. The damage is assessed at $150.
