DYNAMITE'S DISCIPLES.

A Preliminary "Feeler" Thrown Out in the Metropolis.

A Message of Love, Enclosed in Gun Cotton, to Field and Vanderbilt.

A Bungling Job Which Destroys a Mail Pouch.

The Socialists Refuse Permission to Parade.

New York, April 29.—Two infernal machines were discovered in United States mail bag late Saturday evening, addressed Cyrus W. Field and W. Vanderbilt. One exploded in the bag on the elevated railroad. The explosion discolored the mail matter and scorched the letter pouch. The pouchboard boxes contained canisters of powder with electric attachment. No clue to the perpetrators.

The contents and mode of construction of the two infernal machines put in the mail Saturday afternoon, addressed respectively to Wm. H. Vanderbilt and Cyrus W. Field, were more definitely ascertained to-day, when the unexploded box was opened and the chemical part of its contents analyzed. It was found that the explosive used was gun cotton, which is seven times as destructive in proportion to its weight as gunpowder, and this fact accounts for the lightness of the packages, which only weighed eleven ounces.

Bureau of Harbors. National Associated Press. BELVIDERE, Ill., April 30.—Ten thousand people gathered from Chicago and the northern portion of Illinois to-day to participate in the observance of the late Gen. Stephen A. They consisted of a dirge by the band, the hymn "America" by a select choir, prayer by Rev. L. W. Lawrence, presentation and adoption of resolutions eulogistic of the deceased, oration by Rev. Dr. Kerr of Rockford, remarks by A. E. Smith of The Rockford Gazette and Gen. Smith D. Atkins of Freeport.

After the close of the memorial services, the religious services were held at the late residence of the deceased, where the body lay in state. Sermons were preached by Rev. W. P. Elston and Rev. C. W. Lawrence. The procession then moved to the cemetery, where the body was interred with the rites of the Knights Templar. A Blow at the Baptists. National Associated Press. MANCHESTER, N. H., April 30.—In his farewell sermon to the First Baptist church to-night, Rev. Wm. Hayne Lovell announced that in bidding farewell to the church he left both Baptist ministry and Baptist church, since the Baptist faith, as at present defined, is unfavorable to increased usefulness of preaching in its ministry as the church has no liberal wing. Mr. Lovell is a relative of Senator Hayne, of South Carolina, Webster's old antagonist, and was ambitious to become minister to Austria. During his five years' pastorate he raised a church debt of $30,000 and increased the membership 140.

Pennsylvania Politics. National Associated Press. PHILADELPHIA, April 25.—A conference between the committees of stalwarts and independents, with a view of an adjustment of political differences, was held at the Continental hotel Saturday night, and after three hours session adjourned without coming to a conclusion. They met again to-morrow. The general impression prevailed at adjournment that the independents will be unable to gain their demands. Secretary of the Commonwealth Quay and Representative Wolfe had a conference this afternoon, relative to the basis of the agreement to submit, on the reassembling of the stalwart-independent conference to-morrow. Nothing definite was decided upon. There are indications of a split in the independent ranks. Wolfe, with Senators Lee and Wharton Baker are prepared to surrender to the stalwarts if the latter will concede to them the lieutenant governorship and congressman-at-large. Wolfe wants the former and Barker the latter position. The balance of the independent committee say they are fighting for principles, not positions, and that if Wolfe, et al., propose to masquerade as place-hunters they will encounter the same opposition as they have given the stalwarts. Prominent members of the latter party are in high glee to-night over the outlook.

THE WEEK'S WORK.

IMPORTANT MEASURES TO BE CONSIDERED.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—The house, it is expected, will take up the tariff commission bill this week and probably spend the whole of it, before adjourning on other postponed election cases. This arrangement was fully agreed on early last week as a compromise between the friends of the bill and southern republicans, who were clamoring for action on contested cases. Friends of the tariff bill felt that the bill, if it is to pass, ought to become a law at once, in order that the president may have some time to appoint a commission so it can get to work soon. It is not impossible that the bill extending national bank charters may be taken up before election day is again resumed. The opposition on the republican side of going opportunities to amend has been in a measure withdrawn, and it is quite probable that a date may to-morrow be fixed for consideration of this important bill. It is also expected that an effort will be made to suspend the rules to-morrow and concur in the senate amendments to the Chinese bill, on which little debate is expected.

CONGRESS.

PROCEEDINGS IN THE HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—The house refused unanimously to assent to the senate amendment to the Chinese bill and non-concurred in the senate amendments to the fortification bill. Arguments in the Lynch-Chalmers case closed at 1.40 p. m. The motion to seat Chalmers and unseat Lynch was lost—125 yeas, 104 yeas. The vote by which Lynch was seated in place of Chalmers was a strict party vote, except that Greenbackers voted with the Republicans for Lynch.

The house then considered the conference committee report on the post office appropriation bill, agreeing to the senate amendments for increased mail facilities.

A communication was received from the house resolution of inquiry in regard to reorganization of the Second National bank of Cincinnati. It covers the letter of Comptroller Knox to the bank in question, sent in reply to a letter of inquiry from the cashier of the bank. He says that under the decision of the attorney general nothing in the law prevents stockholders of a bank, where charters expire, going into liquidation and organizing another bank with the same name, to avoid difficulties which might ensue if they should wait until the franchise expires. He suggests that before the time the charter expires the bank go into voluntary liquidation by a vote of two-thirds of the stockholders and immediately proceed to organize the same as if no Second National bank had existed, paying in fifty per cent of the capital as required by law. Any number of stockholders above five can enter upon the articles of agreement to form a new organization after the bank is in liquidation. Depositors should be requested to check their accounts by check and immediately deposit with the new bank. Those who do not do this should be paid in full. The assets of the old bank can then, with the assent of the stockholders, be transferred to the old board of directors to the new. The comptroller says in the letter accompanying this, that the plan, while satisfactory in this case, by reason of the willingness of all the old stockholders to reorganize, should be recognized as sufficient for all cases, as complications are likely to arise under other circumstances, which make necessary a different plan by act of congress for the reorganization of bank. He says the charters of eleven banks expired in April, and sixteen will expire in June and July. Adjourned.

CAPITAL NOTES.

THE KILBOURNE VERDICT SET ASIDE.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—In setting aside the $100,000 award in the Kilbourne-Thompson case Saturday for false imprisonment during the real estate trial, Judge McArthur said seemed the jury did not find the facts. They were told that the case was for exemplary damages and that public consideration should not enter into the verdict. He thought the jury was sympathetic and could not be expected to act in a very powerful and unimpaired manner. Kilbourne had violated a great principle and he thought that no congress knows it and keep itself within proper limits. He thought the highest possible appreciation of the plaintiff he thought that he was doing far beyond what he was called to do and therefore the verdict is set aside.

Great alarm is felt at Atlantic, N. J., because of the mortality caused by scarlet fever and diphtheria. Old and young have been attacked by the latter malady and the public schools have been closed in consequence. Fear are entertained that the disease may spread to Long Branch, which is in the same school district.
