

The Daily Bee. COUNCIL BLUFFS.

Friday Morning May 12.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES: By Carrier, 30 cents per week. By Mail, $16.00 per Year.

Office: No. 7 Pearl Street, Near Broadway. C. E. MAYNE, Manager City Circulation. H. W. TILTON, City Editor.

MINOR MENTIONS.

Joseph Reiter makes suits in the latest styles at 310 Broadway. April 14-17. The halls of the court house and walls of the jail are being calcimined, giving a cleaner look to the place.

Jim Snoderly, who was arrested twice in one day for being drunk, is out on bail, with orders to appear in court for adjustment this morning.

Leaves to wed yesterday granted to H. C. Cahon and Miss Lena Kuhl, both of Avoca; also to Pat Coakley and Elva G. Newton, of Oakland.

Take your ice from the Blue Warons Orders taken at J. T. Oliver's and at Jones Bros' Grocery. Mullholland & Co., Successors to D. F. Eicher. April 24-27.

Dennis Gilmore was yesterday afternoon arrested by Officer Morse for being too drunk to take care of himself and a big roll of greenbacks which he had in his pocket.

The board of trade has taken initiative action to secure, if possible, improvements on the Missouri river to prevent damage from floods, and the council supports the movement.

Despite the ordinance providing that saloons shall be kept closed on Sunday, one beer garden has the cheek to openly advertise that there will be a Sunday afternoon concert, which, translated, means "music and beer."

It must be galling to John Chapman, who has bitterly opposed the proposed wagon bridge across the river, to learn that a bill to have such a bridge built has been introduced in congress by Mr. McDill, whom he ranks among his near and dear friends. It is extremely gratifying to the citizens however.

CITY CONCERNS.

The Aldermen Meet By Daylight to Attend to Them.

A Rule Established Concerning Equalization Complaints.

The city council met yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and took up the matter of final action on equalization. A number of affidavits were presented by property owners who deemed the figures in their cases too high. The council adopted a resolution to the effect that no application for a change would be considered unless the applicant presented an affidavit setting forth that the assessment on his property was higher than 50 per cent of its value, such affidavits to be filed on or before tomorrow evening, at which time the council will meet to take final action.

The bond of David Motley, in the sum of $1,000, as collector of poll tax, was approved and filed. A petition was presented with ten signers, asking that all meat markets be kept closed on Sundays, and that an ordinance to that effect be passed. The petition was rejected, thus leaving the matter unchanged, the ordinance now allowing meat markets to keep open on Sundays during the summer months when meat spoils too readily to be kept long in the house.

The resolution heretofore passed ordering an Egyptian paving on upper Madison street was rescinded. The fire committee reported in favor of the removal of the Bluff City hose cart to the north room of the Bluff City engine house; also in favor of rescue hand engine in the building now occupied by the Bluff City hose cart; also in favor of the removal of the lamp-post now on the corner of Glenn avenue on Pierce street to the southeast corner of same street; also in favor of putting on a new roof to the city building now occupied by the Bluff City hose cart, the same to be used as a storage room for extra apparatus.

A number of bills were presented and allowed. Attention was called to the fact that expressmen were charging fifty cents for hauling drunken men to the police station, and the mayor announced that he would see that but half that amount was allowed hereafter.

The thanks of the council were returned to W. H. Foster for furnishing plants and flowers for Baylis park. Secretary Odell, of the board of trade, and Engineer Pease appeared and presented the plans for having the Missouri river so improved at this point as to prevent damages from floods.

CRUSHED BY THE CARS.

A Laboring Man Killed While Walking on the Track.

The Attempts to Establish His Identity.

Yesterday afternoon about half past one o'clock, as the construction train on the Chicago and Rock Island road was going out to work, a man was seen walking on the track ahead of it. The train was backing out, and had reached a spot about half a mile west of Park's mills when the man was seen, and almost instantly the train was upon him, and ran over him, mangleing him so terribly that death at once ensued. The remains showed that the wheels passed directly over his body, and the mangled mass was placed upon a car door, and left to await the arrival of Coroner Fawl, who in company with Constable Rosecrans, soon reached the spot. The body was taken in charge of by them, brought to this city on the construction train, and placed in the undertaker's room.

The man was evidently a laborer, but did not belong to the gang at work on the road, and none seemed to know him except one man who thought he recognized in him a man named John Costello, with whom he worked on the St. Paul road about two years ago.

Chief Fields and others thought he was the same man whom he had in custody yesterday evening, and whom he had released. This man had given his name as Downs, and was first seen at the station Tuesday night. He went up the stairway leading to the superior court room, off of which Sam Morrison the fireman sleeps. He entered Morrison's room apparently drunk at the latter promptly caused him to go down stairs again, and in a hurry. The police, hearing the noise, arrested the man at the bottom of the stairs and locked him up, booking him by the name of Downs, and charging him with being drunk. The next morning he was released, and on Wednesday was again put in. Yesterday morning he acted so strangely that Chief Field thought he must be out of his head, but he soon straightened up and talked rationally. He said he had worked on the railroads, and could get a chance to work on the St. Paul road. He was allowed to go, and nothing has been seen of him since, until the remains which the chief thinks are those of the man Downs were found on the track.

There was nothing found on the body by which it could be identified, and it was so badly mangled that a mistake in recognition could easily be made. It was deemed best to postpone the inquest until this afternoon at 1 o'clock. The jury has been impaneled, consisting of H. N. McGrew, W. C. Bryan and Samuel Warwick.

WANDERING WEST.

A Boy Who Has Tired of It and Will Now Go to His Father's House.

His Prodigality Leads to Repentance and Yearning For the Sea Shore.

About a year ago a young fellow aged about sixteen left his home and friends for a trip westward. He left under rather unfavorable circumstances, so far as his good name was concerned. His friends were wealthy and his home a luxurious one, but the boy was dissatisfied, and had an itching to see the west. He managed to get his hands on about $1300 cash and started unbeknown to his parents, who for a long time heard nothing of his whereabouts. He landed in Omaha, and proceeded to occupy his time mainly in spending money, and succeeded in this business so well that in a few months he had not enough left to keep his pocket book from caving in. He then came to this city, and being inexperienced in any sort of business, and being unused to manual labor it was with difficulty that he secured any employment to even keep himself in food. He finally got a place where he could earn small wages, and was managing thus to keep from starving when he was led into dishonest treatment by his employer.

It is needless to say he had become infatuated with a woman older than himself, and she had prevailed upon him to go west with her and be her "solid man," and bedazzled by the glittering side of a sporting life, in contrast with the tedious work of every day clerkship at a meager salary, he decided to do so. He arranged to meet her in Sioux City, but found himself not in possession of even funds enough to get there. Thus led on he was tempted to help himself to sufficient cash from his employer's drawer to pay the necessary expenses. He was detected and thrust into jail in disgrace.

Then for the first time he wrote to his eastern home, breaking the silence of months by the sad news of his downfall. He hoped that his parents would help him out of his disgrace and trouble, and waited anxiously for the relief from home. The parents, wealthy as they are, and abundantly able to have furnished him with all that money could provide, concluded that it was better for the boy's own good that he should be humiliated and punished as to make him thoroughly disgusted with the life he had been living, and to tame him down, and give him a more practical and sensible determination as to his future conduct. The months have rolled by and still he lays in jail here. His friends, however, did not forget or neglect him. They wrote week after week to friends here, and to the officials, and gleaned all possible particulars as to how he was getting along physically, mentally and morally, and have become satisfied that the desired change has been wrought in his character. Yesterday he was released from jail. He has become thoroughly satisfied that he has made a fool of himself, and looks now upon the facts of his past life in the true light, and regrets bitterly. He has formed new resolutions, forged from his bitter experiences, and the disgrace he has brought upon himself. The lesson has been a hard one, but it will doubtless be a lasting one, and he will now enter upon a better career, with the prospect of making for himself such a name and position as are within the possibilities of a young man with friends and wealth to help him.

He will now return to his friends, who live in a luxurious home on the eastern seashore in the summer, and spend the winter in the heart of our eastern metropolis. He has seen all of the west that he desires, and will be as anxious to reach his eastern home as his friends there are anxious to welcome him back from his wild wanderings.

A BUTTON OFF.

The Foot Race at Avoca Has an Inside History.

Failure of a Council Bluffs John to Get Avoca's Wealth.

A short time ago a young man giving his name as Ingraham, and employed on the Dunlap Reporter, issued a challenge to join in a five-mile foot race with any one for $100. Avoca, which has taken much interest in foot-racing and is a young man in which it takes great pride, Button by name, who is employed in the Avoca Delta. Button is an excellent runner, and has been so far able to get away from those with whom he has competed, and has shown such speed that the Avoca people have gained great faith in his fleetness of foot. After the challenge from Ingraham, it was suggested that he be pitted against him. Some Council Bluffs parties who are interested in foot racing urged the Avoca folk to set up Button to beat Ingraham, and chipped in $25 of the remaining $75. The Council Bluffs backers of Button seemed as enthusiastic over the probability of his success as did his Avoca. The match was made, and the race took place Wednesday last. Button was beaten easily and badly.

Now comes the more interesting part of the story. It is claimed that Ingraham, instead of being the printer and amateur runner which the Avoca folks supposed he was, is really one of the fleetest professional runners in the land, and that he is a Canadian named Ram, hailing from Montreal, and that hence the victory was so easy a one that it was like betting on a dead sure thing to back him as against Button. It is further stated that some of the Council Bluffs fellows, who pretended to be so sure of Button winning, were onto the whole scheme and thought that the Avoca sportsmen would bet big money on Button, while they would be able to rake it in on the side. Instead of getting the pile of wealth from Avoca which they expected, there was little betting on Button, and when the balance was struck, it is said that the Council Bluffs jokers had only secured about enough to pay expenses. The Avoca folks may feel a little bad about Button being beaten so easily, and may regret the loss of what little money they placed upon him, but they can congratulate themselves that they did not get more enthusiastic and bet livelier, for in that case there would have been a nice little sum gone into Council Bluffs pocketbooks, for Ingraham, alias Ram, is a fast skipper and not the ordinary printer which Avoca thought he was.

A Deserved Correction.

VILLIENA, Iowa, May 10, 1882. To the Editor of THE BEE.

Sir—Numerous of your subscribers and other merchants of Villiena have deputed me to enter their protest at the unpleasant prominence you gave our city in your yesterday's issue in regard to smallpox, being at the head of your column of Iowa news. Business being naturally dull at this time we don't need any smallpox scare to help us along. The item in question states we have nine cases of smallpox in the city. The truth is that we have one case of mild varioloid on the outskirts of the city and she is convalescent and will be out in a few days. For the truth of this statement I refer you to our health physician, Dr. McNaughton.

These items in a prominent paper like yours are only too eagerly copied by papers in rival towns east and west to try and scare the farmers away from our town so as to get their trade. Hoping to see as prominent a correction in an early issue,

I am sir, your respectfully,

R. SIMMONS.

THE KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

Preparations begun for receiving the Grand Lodge in October.

As has already been stated the Grand Lodge of Knights of Pythias, of Iowa, is to hold its thirteenth annual session in this city on the fourth Wednesday in October. An executive committee has been appointed, made up of two from each of the four lodges in the city, one from Missouri Valley and one from Glenwood to take steps for having a reception mete for such an event. The committee held a meeting on Wednesday evening at which were present, Knights Abbott and Wesley, of No. 17; Vaughan and Washburn, of No. 40; Rosecrans and Meyer, of No. 51; and Barghauser and Reiter, of No. 52.

An organization was perfected by the election of the following officers: President—W. R. Vaughan. Vice President—C. Barghauser. Secretary—E. J. Abbott. Treasurer—F. L. Meyer.

The following were chosen as chairmen of the several committees of arrangements: Banquet and Ball—Knight Rosecrans. Reception—Knight Washburn. Printing and Supplies—Knight Reiter. Hall and Music—Knight Barghauser.

Decorations—Knight Meyer. Correspondence—Knight Abbott.

Full and complete arrangements will be made so that the visitors will be received in royal style, and cared for hospitably, and the occasion will be one of importance and interest.

A Losing Joke.

A prominent physician of Pittsburg said jokingly to a lady patient who was complaining of her continued ill health, and of his inability to cure her, "try Hop Bitters!" The lady took it in earnest and used the Bitters, from which she obtained permanent health. She now laughs at the doctor for his joke, but he is not so well pleased with it, as it cost him a good patient.—Harrisburg Patriot.
