A ROBBER'S CAVE
An Alleged Discovery of Diamonds, Watches, and Jewelry by the Peck Measure.

Col. James A. Alexander, the Gallatin banker and capitalist, resided at the cave near that place five years ago," says a correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer, "to a fine looking farmer who gave him the name of J. Howard. The rents have always been paid promptly, and Mr. Alexander always considered him a good tenant. Howard was away from home a great deal, and the management of the place was left to an old negro and his wife. A month ago all three disappeared, and nothing more was heard of them until Col. Alexander received the following letter, postmarked Sedalia, Mo.:

Sedalia, Mo., April 22, 1882.—Col.
JAMES ALEXANDER, Gallatin—Dear Sir, I have vacated your premises forever. I thank you for your many courtesies extended to my mysterious tenant known as Howard. Visit the cave on your farm, and you will find something to interest you. I shall avenge the death of my brother or die in the attempt. I am, sir, yours with respect,
FRANK JAMES, alias F. J. Howard.

The colonel was astonished to find that he had been on terms of intimacy with so noted an outlaw as the great train-robbler, and more so from the fact that Howard appeared to be a respectable gentleman and a man of business. Half a dozen of his intimate friends and employes were called together, and it was decided to make a visit to the cave, they left the town that evening for the farm. Torches were procured, and the party set out, armed with revolvers and knives, the mysterious nature of the letter and their visit making them feel a little fearful that all might not prove as pleasant as they expected.

On entering the cave, a place that does not seem to have been known to any one in the vicinity except the proprietary, and which had been used during the war as a hiding-place for contraband goods, a strange sight met their eyes. Lying on the floor close to each other were the skeletons of four horses from which the flesh had fallen away, and around them were blankets, saddles, brushes, and a mattress. Near by was a collection of pots and kettles that had been left with the soot and grease on them, just as they had been taken from the fire.
The ceiling and walls were dry, and there were evidences on all sides that it had been used as a hiding place for men and horses. A measure, such as is used by farmers to lead out food to their cattle, sat on a ledge rock beyond the skeletons, and was found to contain a collection of jewelry and articles of value that looked as if they had been captured by the robbers in a raid on some large jewelry store.

There were twelve open and hunting case silver watches, sixteen plain gold rings, twenty-nine gold watches, nine solitaire studs, two diamond necklaces, and four diamond rings among their plunder, which is estimated to be worth over $5,000. These were taken back to Gallatin and placed in the vault of the Summit Deposit bank to await claimants, a photograph of a woman, bearing the imprint of a Barnsdon photographer, was picked up on the floor by one of the party.

Five or six of the watches are old ones that have been used, and bear the monograms of their owners. One of them has the words, "From Hughes to Toney," engraved on the inner case. The discovery, which was reported by messenger, seems to have caused a great deal of excitement in the place, and a party containing Judge Vetsels, Col. Tyree Bell, Gen. Guthrie, Capt. Witherspoon, and other gentlemen, have visited the spot. The story, which there is no reason to doubt except that Frank James does not write such letters, has not been confirmed, but is generally believed.

Mr. Reuben Turner, No. 1230 Carleton street, Philadelphia, Pa., writes that his wife had been a terrible sufferer with inflammatory rheumatism.
A physician whose skill stands unquestioned by any one had been attending her, but only did her a little good, and experienced relief at the first application, and before she had used half a bottle she was able to come down stairs. Mrs. Turner attributes her remarkable recovery entirely to St. Jacob's Oil.

The Boss Milkmaid from Coulson Bottom.
Helena (Mont.) Herald.
A Yellowstone dairy hand struck on his employer and quit work on the difference of $10 a month wages.
Yesterday he rolled in through the bottomless mud on the westward coming coach, and to-day was looking about town inquiring the nearest cut to the Prickly Pear milk ranch.
"I'm the boss milkmaid of Coulson Bottom, I am!" he exclaimed to a crowd gathered about the foot of Broadway enjoying an after April shower sunbath.

"What's that I hear?" put in a corner listener, whose curiosity was touched by the rather queer remark.
"It's just what I claim to be, you bet your squeseers," replied the stranger, putting his muscular paw through what was taken for an exercise motion; "I can strip more milk out of a cow in less time than any 'udder' man in these or any other parts, and don't any of you make the mistake to say I can't."

An idler suggested that he had milked cows to some extent himself when a youngster.
"Likely enough, but you don't 'pear to me to be a man much in practise now. Down at Coulson I handled fifty cows a day which went eight quarts to the head to the milking, and sold to customers 1,200 quarts every night and morning."

Twelve hundred quarts of milk out of fifty cows! That strikes me as about twenty-four quarts to the cow!" remarked one of the crowd.
"O, I'm no liar," retorted the stranger; "milk from the cow and milk in the can ain't always the same article, if you hear me talk. Down along the railroad grade it's one part of one thing and two parts of another, and the boss and the Scandanav and the Yellowstone river all know it."
"That's a pretty thin story, stranger."
"Think so, do you? Well it isn't near as thin as the milk that old reprobate I worked for at Coulson furnished the railroaders. He gets 20 cents for water for every 10 cents he gets for milk. And the old fraud wanted me to work for $30 and I am up here for a new engagement."

The stranger stepped out toward the valley, repeating over to him his boast of being "the boss milkmaid of Coulson Bottom."

Woman's True Friend.
A friend in need is a friend indeed. This none can deny, especially when assistance is rendered when one is sorely afflicted with disease, more particularly those complaints and weaknesses so common to our female population. Every woman should know that Electric Bitters are woman's true friend, and will positively restore her to health, even when all other remedies fail. A single trial always proves the assertion. They are pleasant to the taste, and only cost fifty cents a bottle. Sold by C. F. Goodman.

A Good Find.
About a year ago a young man named Conover had a dream that a large lump of gold could be found in a certain place on a farm then occupied by his father in Lima township, but took no notice of the circumstance further than to tell his father of it; but about a week ago the young man again had the same dream, and in the morning again told his father. The young man remembered the exact location which he saw when dreaming, and the father proposed to the son that they investigate. They proceeded to the spot, and after sticking the pick into the ground several times, struck what they supposed to be a rock. They dug it out, and sure enough it looked like a huge lump of gold, and when examined by those who professed to know, was declared to be solid gold. The find weighed nine pounds, and contains $1,928 worth of the precious metal. It is probably some Indian relic, as the shape of it is similar to the stone hatchets found in the mounds in this vicinity. The lump has been seen by a number of people living in Lima township, and this find is particularly acceptable to Mr. Conover's family, as they are said to be poor people.—

Why "Baby Mine" Fainted.
Once, when Mme. Reutz and her female minstrels were performing in San Francisco, a well known Front street merchant—one of the front orchestra seat brigade, whose head was more clear than level—raised around the stage entrance to the Standard theatre after the performance trying to conceal a handsome bouquet under his ulster.

For a long time he kept peering at the different specimens of Mme.
Reutz's sirens, as they put up their umbrellas and trotted away in the rain. After waiting patiently for about an hour, he approached an individual with a scarf and a slouched hat, who stood smoking a cigar at the entrance, and said:
"Can you tell me, sir, if Miss Chlorine has gone home yet?"
"Oh, yes, been gone half an hour," replied the slouch hat party cheerfully.
"Those flowers for her?"
"Well—er—um—yes."
"I'll give 'em to her—see her later," said the obliging man.
"Will you? That's very kind, surely."
"Oh, not at all," said the man, smelling the bouquet with the air of a connoisseur. "Anything else?"
"Well—ahem!—yes. Just give her this pair of earrings."
"Certainly. What name shall I say?"
"Just say that 'Baby Mine'—she'll understand—sends love, and says 2:30, at the same place to-morrow."
"I'll just make a mem. of that," said the red-tie man, writing on his shirt-cuff, "2:30 same place to-morrow. All right. Anything else?"
"No, that's all. Sure you'll see her this evening?"
"Oh, certainly."
"And you'll get a chance to speak to her when there is no one around?"
"Oh, dead sure. You see, I'm her husband!"
"Baby Mine" fainted, and was sent to his home in a hack.

A Modern Baby Moses.
From the Augusta (Ga.) News.
A few days ago the ferryman at Neal's ferry, on the Chattahoochee river, while putting some passengers over in his flat discovered a box floating down the river. The ferryman seized a bateau and made way to the box, which he soon overhauled. On reaching out his hand to grasp it he was astonished to find that it contained a sweet little babe, which raised his head and smiled at its rescuer. It was a white child, well clothed, with plenty of good clothing besides. Some old people who live in the neighborhood have taken the little Moses.

Mysterious.
Laramie Boomerang.
The following from this morning's Sentinel is one of the spiciest things ever written by the pure-minded, Christian and chaste humorist of that family paper:
"Peck's Sun states that 'plump women are coming into fashion again and slim ones are to be discarded,' and asks 'if a fellow is to change his girl and a man his wife every time the fashion changes.' We can't answer about the girl," but we know a wife who don't need changing. She can change her figure from slim to plump as often as the fashion changes, and don't you forget it."
As no names are given, of course it is impossible to state who the doctor suspects.

A Vexed Clergyman.
Even the patience of Job would become exhausted were he a preacher and endeavoring to interest his audience while they were keeping up an incessant coughing making it impossible for him to be heard.
Yet, how very easy can all this be avoided by simply using Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds.
