 The Sunday School convention meets to-morrow morning at the Baptist church in this city, and will continue until Thursday evening.
 Herzman is surprising everybody.
 Permits to wed were yesterday granted to Michael Finklin and Susan Kohl, of Mills county; and to C. R. Burhop and Mary Siga, of Harri Dall.
 Thomas Marshall, of Omaha, was in the city yesterday, looking after his property on Broadway nearly opposite the City house. He is figuring on erecting a brick block upon the lots.
 Goods fresh at low prices, Herzman.
 In the district court yesterday the case of Augusta Kuitwick vs. Dr. R. Rice, took all the day, it being a claim on the part of the plaintiff for damages, alleging malpractice on the part of the doctor.
 Last evening Mr. George Burnley, of this city, was united in marriage to Miss Sarah Bether, the ceremony being performed at the residence of the bride's father, Rev. Mr. Lemes officiating.
 The frame building at the corner of Pearl and First avenue, has been sold by Mr. Shugart to Wells Cook, and is to be moved down on Broadway, opposite the Coy house, and used as a warehouse, the sale and move being necessary to make room for Shugart's new block.

 The fourth annual tournament of the Iowa State Association for the Protection of Game and Fish is to be held at Cedar Rapids June 6th to 9th inclusive. J. C. Hoffmayer, of this city, is one of the board of directors, and those interested can gain needed information either of him or at the BEE office.
 Next Sunday evening Rev. J. G. Lemen will preach on prohibition at the Baptist church, of which he is pastor. He extends a cordial invitation to saloon men and others who are against prohibition, and promises to reason the matter with them fairly and squarely, and with due courtesy.
 If Major Anderson is afraid to let those of his own political faith have more than a month in which to discuss his fitness for congress, what sort of hope can he have that his record will stand the scrutiny of his political enemies, who will have from now until next November to scan it and show it up?
 W. W. Wallace's new residence is being fitted up very elegantly and attractively. One of the finest three-light Nowell lights for his hall arrived yesterday at Bixby & Wood's, and will soon be put in place. It is certainly a beauty, and the other fixtures are in keeping.
 Missouri must be emptying itself. The other day about forty wagons passed through here loaded with folks bound for Idaho. Yesterday tea more, all from Schuyler county, passed through the city on route for Montana.
 It is natural for a man who is a rank monopolist in feeling and sympathy to ignore the rights of the people in political as well as commercial matters. It is natural for such a man to try to stifle the expression of public opinion, to even throttle and misuse his own party by forcing a convention with the claim that might makes right.
 There was a pleasant little wedding party Friday morning at the residence of Mr. Williams on Myaster street, the bride being his daughter, Miss Henrietta Williams, who was wedded to Henry Brown. Rev. S. G. Lemen tied the knot, and congratulations and well wishes were beautifully bestowed on the young couple.
 The talk concerning a city hall and market house combined is again being revived. It is proposed that the city condemn and purchase the needed land and let it rest free for a term of years to a stock company, provided the company will erect a city building and market house to cost $40,000, the company to furnish the city with what room it needs and take the market rent for profit, the building to revert to the city after a term of years.
 The colored nine and a picked-up team of whites had a base ball contest Sunday afternoon in which the latter won. Some complaints have been lodged at the police headquarters by residents who are annoyed at Sunday base ball games. The complaint is based not so much on the fact of its being a cracking of the commandment for the observance of the sabbath, as because ball players get so excited in their fun that they occasionally shout out curse words and other language which grates on the ears of families living in the vicinity of grounds where games are played.
 The electric light company which lately made an exhibition at Burlington, and which was so eager to come here also, has apparently been swallowed up in the consolidation. It was to organize a local company at once in Burlington, but the plan seems to have fallen suddenly through and the press of that city has gone from the extreme of printing columns after columns in its praise, to a complete silence on the subject. Some other electric light company will now probably push into this field, so that citizens of Omaha need not think all hope is gone.

 While The Nonpareil is shouting that Anderson will be nominated by acclamation, and whooping as though there was no other candidate, one who hovers about the editorial room quite freely, and who is in condition to know what Anderson and his man Friday are figuring on, says that if all vote for Anderson who are expected to, that he has only three more than Mr. Sapp. Publicly proclaiming that Anderson is the only lightning rod, and privately acknowledging that at the very best he has not any margin on which to win. Such is the difference of standing in front of "the boom" and standing behind it.
 A girl of this city purchased some meat at a market, and in payment presented a $3 "Omaha bill," one of those bills issued by that city years ago, but now scarce. The proprietor, not noticing that it was one of Uncle Sam's own, changed it, but on discovering the mistake, the girl was brought to an explanation. She became frightened, and as she had spent the money she made restitution as far as possible by telling how she got it. It appears that two young men gave it to her, and an interesting chapter of social life was here opened up, which has made the young men tremble lest it should be made public. Young men who prefer darkness rather than light should be careful about passing old bills.

DIETING THE DISORDERLIES.
 Another Chance to Save a Few Nickels for the City.
 The prisoners at the city calaboose are now being fed at an expense of twenty cents a meal, or sixty cents a day, or $4 20 a week. Those confined there are generally in for a short season, and to many it is a fine chance to get filled up. The fees of twenty cents a meal are reported to be above what other cities are paying. At the county jail the limit for board is 3.50 a week. Reports from other places, as if, for instance, Atchison, Kan., show that they pay less. There the meals average ten or eleven cents each. In view of these facts and the fact that there is little work given the prisoners, a scheme is favored to have the council fix up a bill of fare and cut down the expense to a keeping with the board paid for the prisoners at jail and in other cities. The amount to be saved is not enough to do any great amount of road making here or to erect a city building, but in the long run it will be something saved.

PREPARING TO DECORATE.

A Partial List of the Fallen Heroes Who Are to be Remembered.
 Wall McFadden, who has for a long time had charge of the annual decorations of the soldiers' graves, is again planning to have such duties as fall to his lot carefully performed. He is anxious to procure a full list of the soldiers who are buried here, so that their graves may be properly marked by memorial flags, thus preventing as far as possible the overlooking or omission of any. The following list has already been secured, and it is desired that those who know of others, whose names do not here appear, should communicate the wanted information promptly and fully, by either seeing him in person, or dropping a postal card to him, addressed W. McFadden, box 22, Council Bluffs.

CATHOLIC CEMETERY.

The Clear Makers Club Together For Mutual Protection.
 There are in the city about seventeen cigar makers, some of whom belong to unions elsewhere, but there has not been any local union established until now. An organization was made Saturday night, and application has been forwarded for a charter from the national association. This local organization starts out with nine charter members and the following officers: President, Charles Leibold; treasurer, Ed. Smith; secretary, Olof Oleson.
 It has been decided to arrange for labels to be used on boxes containing cigars made by the union men so that the public may know in making purchases whether they are patronizing the union indirectly and supporting that or not. The president or some other officer of the union will give out these labels, and will limit the distribution to the number of cigars reported to be made by the members of the union. In this way it is expected that in a few months the smokers, or many of them, will become posted, and will favor by their patronage the cause of the union.
 The formation of this union will not affect materially the prices paid cigar makers here for the present. There are a few who are getting about a dollar a thousand less than the others, and it may result in bringing their pay up to what the rest are getting, but aside from this no change is contemplated. There are places outside of Council Bluffs in which cigars are not bearing the union label are sold at a disadvantage, and it is thought that by organizing a union here, and using the labels on this city's products, they will find as ready a market as the union cigars made in Omaha, and elsewhere, which now have an advantage.

COMING INTO COURT.

A Number of Cases Cared for by Judge and Justices Yesterday.

In the superior court yesterday Thomas Laiden was arraigned for selling liquor on Sunday. It appears that John Hitchcock, a first class mechanic, who has suffered much of late from over drink, was locked up and sobered off Sunday night, and on being pressed he told where he purchased his whisky. Hitchcock was released on condition of keeping sober for ten days at least, and Laiden, who sold him the drinks, was fined $10 and costs.
 Thomas Lawrence, of Glenwood, was before the bar yesterday for being drunk. He had only arrived from Canada about three weeks ago, and he learned yesterday for the first time that it cost $7 to get drunk in Council Bluffs since it became a first class city.

William Sohns was charged with fighting and using obscene language. He explained that he lost his coat, and while in his shirt sleeves some of the boys bothered him and chaffed him until he got mad, and then he cracked the law to the extent of $3 and costs.
 John McGovern, a plain drunk, concluded to work out his fine by sitting in the calaboose, and eating twenty cent meals at the city's expense.
 H. Caugey, complained of for being drunk, said it was no such thing, and had his case continued till to-day.
 Mrs. S. Carroll, complained of for creating a nuisance on Vine street, had her case set for Friday.

TROUBLING A TENANT.

A Landlord Objects to Having Door Knobs Broken and the Floor Chopped.
 Yesterday after William F. Smith was before Justice Frainey, charged with malicious mischief and carrying concealed weapons. The trial of the case showed that the complaining witness, Owen Cunningham was the owner of the house in which Smith was living, and had given the latter notice to quit, but the tenant had not moved out yet. Cunningham found that the house had been misused, some of the door-knobs having been broken, paper torn off, and wood had been chopped in the kitchen, causing the floor to be hacked up considerably. The landlord on account of this caused Smith's arrest for malicious mischief in defacing the building. There was a lack of evidence that Smith had done the damage and he was discharged. Another complaint was entered for threatening Cunningham, but the tenant was released from this. Still another charge was laid at his door, that of carrying concealed weapons, said weapon consisting of a piece of lead attached to a string, and which could be used for a slung shot. Witnesses were brought forward to show that the lead was used as a sinker to a fish-line, and was for peaceable purposes, so this charge, too, was of no avail and John Lundt, who appeared as Smith's attorney, walked out with his client, victor in three rounds, leaving the landlord to get sweet revenge in some other way.

PERSONAL.

H. S. McEwen, of Shelby, Iowa, is in the city.
 J. Piper, of Chicago, was in the city yesterday.
 Col. A. A. Cochran has returned from his farm at Little Sioux, and is again at the Ogden.
 J. H. Steele, a wholesale millinery man from Chicago, was looking after his trade here yesterday.
 Wm. Burns, of Stuebenville, Ohio, representing the Crown Steel work of Pittsburgh, Pa., Sunday at the Biggs house, and left yesterday for Omaha, Lincoln and other points west.
 John J. Morse, superintendent of the telephone exchange of this city and Omaha, was here yesterday looking after the workings of the wires and planning several extensions, which will add to the convenience as well as to the number of the patrons.
